SOFT BERTH IN JAIL LOST BY BERMAN

Julian "Bright Youngster" Ordered to Regular Tank Instead of Hospital Room

Jacob Berman, former head of the stock transfer department of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and now a Federal prisoner here for trial on several felony charges and also as a State's witness in a number of cases growing out of the crash of the Julian company in 1927, was yesterday ordered out of the County Jail hospital into a regular prison tank.

Berman, who arrived in this city Wednesday morning, was placed in the jail hospital upon request of Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart when it became known that the prisoner feared violence at the hands of other inmates of the jail. Yesterday, however, Undersheriff Dewar ordered him removed to one of the regular tanks after declaring that the jailers will guard him against harm.

The former Julian official must appear in court next Monday morning before Superior Judge Wilson as a defendant in a jury-bribery case along with his brother and Louis Krause, the asserted go-between. Berman, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Jones, who is to prosecute the case, was to have been a State's witness under a promise of immunity, but Judge Wilson has intimated that the case against him may not be dismissed.

Yesterday Berman declared that he had been unable to complete plans for an attorney or to plan a defense, but would attempt to engage counsel today.

ASSEMBLIES AT SCHOOLS DISBANDED

Precautions Taken to Protect Pupils Against Contagious Disease

No assemblies and no closing exercises will be held in the elementary schools during the coming week, Frank A. Bouelle, superintendent of schools, stated yesterday. All schools will continue to remain in session until the 27th inst., he announced, as the Board of Education and the school health department do not consider the report of infantile paralysis in the city serious enough to justify their closing.

"Children are better off in school, where they are under the constant supervision of trained nurses and doctors, than they would be if turned loose at this time," Supt. Bouelle said. "The staff of our health department is on the alert for any symptom of illness, and any child showing the slightest indisposition is sent at once to the school nurse, who sends it home with a recommendation.

"All school swimming pools were closed today. No assemblies will be held in the junior high schools from this date. Our nurses and physicians are exercising every precaution to protect the children and to avoid contacts that would result from large groups brought together."

No action has been taken with the thought of abandoning plans for commencement exercises during the coming week, the superintendent said.

CHICAGO, June 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] What can we do for this Bobby Jones that keeps monotonously winning all these golf championships. I would propose him for President but I haven't got it in for him that bad. On the golf course it's just your opponents that are shooting at you, but it looks just like in the White House your friends are the ones you got to watch. Just been over to see Charley Dawes, right from London with an accent longer than his pipe handle. He is a real guy, this Dawes. He can make good at anything. They want to use him in this racketeer warfare, both sides are making him offers.

Secretary Says Enactment Removes Obstacles to Business Recovery

Economic Status Unchanged and Fears for Foreign Trade Unfounded

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Secretary Mellon today spoke his views on the new tariff law, the business situation, and its probable effect on prosperity.

Repeated requests for comment from Mr. Mellon led him to announce his opinion that "final enactment of the tariff law, far from placing a new obstacle in the way of business recovery, removes one, by eliminating the uncertainty of the last fifteen months, and by its promise of more business-like revision in the future makes a definite contribution to business stability."

The Treasury statement said the question directed to Mr. Mellon sought his opinion whether the enactment of the Smoot-Hawley tariff law would adversely affect business interests of the United States and retard business recovery.

"I do not believe it will," Secretary Mellon said. "It seems to me fears and criticisms have been greatly exaggerated.

"Whenever a new protective tariff law has been enacted gloomy prophecies have been made. They have failed to materialise as far back as I can remember and my memory goes back many years.

HARBOR AID BILL VOTED

Measure Passed by Senate

Spending of $8,346,000 at Los Angeles-Long Beach Port Authorized

Conference to Smooth Draft; Total of $11,747,000 Included for State

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 20. (Exclusive)—The rivers and harbors bill authorizing new projects for California costing $11,747,000, of which $8,346,000 will be spent in the Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor, passed the Senate today by viva voce vote and was sent to conference with the House for agreement on minor amendments.

The Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor project authorizes $7,000,000 for a breakwater on the forty-eight-foot contour in the outer harbor and $1,346,000 for dredging.

The dredging operations include removal of shoals in the outer reaches of the harbor and in the East Basin, deepening the East Basin and Cerritos channels to thirty-five feet; deepening the Long Beach turning basin and Long Beach entrance channel to thirty-five feet, and assumption by the government of maintenance of the Long Beach breakwater south of Pier A.

OTHER BETTERMENTS

The other California authorizations are: Oakland channel, $100,000; San Diego, $646,000; Monterey, $610,000; San Francisco, $1,284,000; Redwood Creek, $26,000; Richmond, $313,000; Suisun Bay, $52,000; Petaluma Creek, $185,000; Humboldt Harbor, $92,000, and Middle River and Empire Cut (tributaries of the San Joaquin,) $3000.

A number of surveys in the State are also authorized.

The bill as it passed the Senate called for total authorizations of $142,000,000.

CASH FOR RIVERS

The bill adopts a $98,000,000 project for a nine-foot channel for the Upper Mississippi River, a $48,000,000 project for the Upper Missouri, authorizing $15,000,000 for a six-foot channel from Kansas City to Sioux City, and a $75,000,000 project for the Tennessee River, with $5,000,000 expenditure for a nine-foot channel from the mouth to Knoxville River.

Vast harbor and flood-control projects in all sections are authorized by the bill, including a $9,000,000 improvement on Lake Okeechobee, Florida, and $29,000,000 improvements for the Great Lakes.

OFFICIALS ELATED BY BILL'S PASSAGE

News of passage of the rivers and harbors bill by the Senate yesterday caused elation among Los Angeles Harbor Department officials and others interested in the port, as it means that work is to start on the 12,500-foot extension of the breakwater and completion of harbor dredging needs is assured.

The breakwater extension, regarded as the largest unit of development since the construction of the San Pedro breakwater more than twenty years ago, will reach from a point 3000 feet east of the San Pedro breakwater lighthouse to a point opposite the Long Beach flood-control channel on a line parallel with the present breakwater. It will be constructed at a depth of forty-eight feet.

The extension will protect and allow development of the entire shore of Terminal Island from the Los Angeles main channel to Long Beach, providing a large outer harbor free of swells and surge, providing adequate and smooth anchorage for navy ships, with ample room for commercial vessels to anchor or maneuver, and freeing the outer harbor for operation of vessels using the main channel.

President Due for Surprise in Office Today

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—President Hoover is to find a surprise awaiting him from Mrs. Hoover when he enters his office in the morning.

After he left at 6 o'clock tonight his old desk was removed and a beautiful maple antique desk said to have cost $6000 took its place.

Velvet-brocaded chairs took the places of those that formerly had stood there and a new rug was placed on the floor. Mrs. Hoover had chosen them as a present.

PROTEIN USE HELD KEY TO EFFICIENCY

Stanford Expert Asserts Cooks Must be Scientists for Racial Welfare

EUGENE (Or.) June 20. (AP)—Dr. James R. Slonaker, Stanford University, told the Western Society of Naturalists' section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today if man were to reach the highest point of efficiency, the paramount necessity will be to make scientists out of cooks so protein diet can be regulated.

"The state of health of human beings, the size and vigor of their children, in fact, how people as well as animals feel and act depends largely upon the protein diet," he said.

Dr. Slonaker said the size of the offspring is not only regulated by protein in the diet of parents, but of the proteins in what its ancestors ate. Too much protein is detrimental, he said, except the offspring are larger in infancy and youth. This larger size comes as a sacrifice, however, for the reproductive span is shorter and the spontaneous activity of the being is lessened, Dr. Slonaker said.

House Member Repeats Charge Against Cannon

WASHINGTON, June 20. (Exclusive)—Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, today accepted the challenge hurled at him several days ago by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and repeated charges against the southern churchman which were made on the House floor Tuesday.

At the time of the original charge by Tinkham, he was branded a coward by Cannon, who declared the Representative was shielding himself with the cloak of Congressional immunity. The bishop then virtually dared Tinkham to issue a signed public statement.

As Tinkham repeated his charges today he challenged Cannon to start libel proceedings.

Los Angeles Girl Says Boy Friend Took Her Car and Money to Elope With Rival

DENVER, June 20. (AP)—Love, money, marriage and annulment combined to form a tangled skein in the affairs of Charlotte Sexton, Los Angeles girl who came to Denver to marry Ed Hedman, who she charges disappeared the day before the ceremony in her car with $550 of her money and, worst of all, with another bride.

A warrant for the arrest of Hedman, accusing him of larceny as bailee, was issued today in behalf of Miss Sexton.

The girl told authorities she married Leslie Timmons in Los Angeles solely for the purpose of collecting $2143 willed to her by her grandfather, a Sacramento physician, who stipulated she must be 25 years of age or married when she claimed the money. Miss Sexton is 21.

She was informed by Timmons from Los Angeles yesterday he has obtained an annulment of their marriage and when she attempted to call Hedman on the telephone she was told he had left the city.

Miss Sexton said she has been in love with Hedman since they were students at Los Angeles Junior College and he arranged her marriage with Timmons, described as Hedman's "best friend." The marriage, said the girl, was performed at Carson City, Nev. Hedman was married at that time to Betty Rosson but this marriage also was annulled. The couple lived together for one week.

Hedman, who is 25, married Estelle Huscher, 19, of Denver, in Colorado Springs.

RAIL LINKING PERMITTED

Great Northern Wins Battle

Order by Interstate Board Permits Hook-up With Western Pacific

New Transcontinental Line Service Now Assured for California

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Entry of a new transcontinental railroad route into Northern California and the San Francisco Bay area was permitted today by the Interstate Commerce Commission in a grant of authority to the Western Pacific and Great Northern systems for joint construction of 200 miles of new line in that State.

Though the project had the bitter opposition of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific systems the commission held with the two rail lines seeking power to extend and with the State and community representatives of a large part of the West and Northwest, that the $14,000,000 project should be allowed to go forward.

With practically no modification, the commission order issued permits the Great Northern Railroad to build southward about eighty-eight miles from Klamath Falls, Or., meeting there in Northern California an extension of the Western Pacific, beginning somewhere near Paxton, on that road's present main line, and running northward 112 miles. In addition the two co-operating carriers propose to build a branch thirty-six miles long to a point called Hambone, in the Siskiyou Mountains.

COST OF PROJECT

About $10,860,000 will be spent by the Western Pacific on the new line it will construct, while the Great Northern will spend $3,570,000, and the two roads together on the branch line will invest $500,000 more.

In addition to enabling the Great Northern to reach down from the Northwest over its present rails through Oregon to California, the new construction will strengthen the Western Pacific in its more direct transcontinental line through Salt Lake City and Denver.

The Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific offered, if the construction was halted by the commission, to make an almost complete revision in the present applications of freight into and out of California and to make joint arrangements for handling business which they control exclusively.

These proposals the Great Northern and Western Pacific rejected in favor of pushing forward their own building.

DEVELOPMENT AID

"The principal importance of the proposed line is as a bridge or connecting link between systems," the commission said in rendering its decision. "This is true whether judged from the standpoint of prospective earnings or diversions of traffic from other lines. The line will aid in the development of a great timber area and some considerable agricultural areas in Northern California.

"The local traffic probably would be insufficient to justify a line built to the standard here proposed; but considering all traffic available the applicants have reasonable prospects of earning a fair return on their investment.

"Compared with the benefits which will accrue to the people of the Pacific West and Northwest through the establishment of new competitive routes, stimulating the interchange of products, the advantage of a diversified car supply, additional passenger service and the development of the local territory, the moderate capital expenditure here proposed seems amply justified."

GREAT BENEFITS PREDICTED BY GILMAN

PORTLAND (Or.) June 20. (AP)—L. C. Gilman, executive vice-president of the Great Northern Railroad, which today was granted the right by the Interstate Commerce Commission to extend its Oregon lines southward into California to connect with the Western Pacific Railroad, said in a written statement to the Associated Press his company "naturally is happy over the commission's decision."

"The Interstate Commerce Commission's decision will allow the Great Northern Railroad to carry

INITIAL DAM FUND WINS

House Approves Appropriation

Boulder Opposition Based on Los Angeles Contracts Smothered

Deficiency Bill Now Goes to Senate, Where Quick Action Pends

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 20. (Exclusive)—Overwhelming approval of the initial appropriation for Boulder Dam was registered in the House today at the conclusion of a three-hour gallant, but futile, fight waged against the $10,660,000 appropriation by the Arizona Representative, Lewis Douglas.

The appropriation now goes to the Senate as a part of the second deficiency bill which the House passed this evening. The Arizona Senators, Ashurst and Hayden, have threatened to filibuster against the fund, for starting work on the Colorado River, but Republican leaders say there is little chance they can succeed.

Representative Douglas exhausted all the parliamentary tricks and threw in the most convincing argument at the end of his eloquent tongue in an effort to defeat the river appropriation and sustained the opposition attitude of his State, but was defeated at every turn.

VOTE ENDS BATTLE

The battle ended when the House, on standing vote, divided, 161 to 29, against an amendment he offered which would have postponed the availability of the appropriation until such time as the citizens of Los Angeles and the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California had passed bonds to pay for the transmission line to carry power from the project.

This was a satisfying vote of confidence in Boulder Dam and the manner in which it has been administered to date by Secretary Wilbur. It also answered in the affirmative the question of whether the House regards the water and power contracts drawn at Los Angeles as being adequate from the standpoint of safeguarding the Federal government.

Previously Douglas had attempted to knock the appropriation out entirely on a point of order based mainly upon the asserted fact that the contracts signed by Los Angeles and the Metropolitan Water District were merely "promises" from a legal standpoint and did not bind the city and district to take and pay for throughout the amortization period the water and electrical energy allocated to them.

ORDER POINT LOST

The point of order was overruled by Representative Chindblom of Illinois, in the chair, after the Arizonan had made a lengthy and brilliant argument. Douglas contended that the Boulder Dam Act required bond issues by the people before any money could be appropriated by Congress and that the contracts with the city and water district were worthless to the government in case of default. He particularly attacked the contract of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power, asserting it did not bind the city and that the department did not have sufficient assets to pay its obligations in the gigantic river development.

When he was beaten on the point of order and offered an amendment, which would accomplish indirectly the same object, Douglas was immediately challenged by Chairman Wood of the Appropriations Committee, who declared the proposed amendment would write new requirements into the Boulder Dam Act, enacted in December, 1928, and thus would amount to new legislation.

Wood was joined by Representatives Swing of California, Cramton of Michigan, La Guardia of New York, Stafford of Wisconsin and others in arguing that it was new legislation and that Congress had no right at this time to attempt to force the city and district into bond issues.

CONTRACTS DEFENDED

Swing pressed the point that the transmission line had no connection with the contracts between the government and the two political subdivisions, and declared a bond issue such as Douglas proposed was "impossible" because of

MAIN PART OF ILLINOIS IN CHICAGO

Census Shows More Than Half State's Inhabitants Living in Cook County

CHICAGO, June 20. (AP)—Illinois has a population of 7,630,283. The increase over the 1920 census is 1,145,003, mostly in Chicago and its suburbs.

The final figure for the State leaves Cook county (Chicago) with more than half of the population. The Cook county population is 3,987,058, or 343,833 more than all the rest of the State.

Rural regions showed declines in most cases, while all cities and large towns had increases.

Chicago with 3,373,753 had an increase of 672,048, or 24.8 per cent, while Cook county increased 934,031 to 3,987,058.

The six counties surrounding Chicago and known as the metropolitan district have a total population of 4,670,996, a gain of 1,199,198, or over 34.5 per cent over 1920.

BROOKLYN INCREASES HALF-MILLION

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—Brooklyn, New York's borough of homes and churches, has a population of 2,596,154, an increase of 28.6 per cent in the last ten years.

The final figures for the most populous of New York's five boroughs were announced today by Leo Doherty, chairman of census supervisors in the borough. The population in 1920 was 2,018,356.

DIAL PHONE PLEA FAILS IN SENATE

Dill Balks Tydings Effort and Modern Equipment Must Go Today

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—A last effort to modify the Senate's decree that every dial telephone in the Senate wing of the Capitol Building be removed by tomorrow was forestalled today by Senator Dill of Washington, leaving the telephone company the task of hastily completing replacement of the new equipment.

Pleading "today is the last day, and modifying our position later would involve a sheer waste of money," Senator Tydings attempted to get consideration for his proposal to amend the Senate order to provide that Senators so desiring might keep the dial telephones.

Dill objected to modification of the resolution by Senator Glass, adopted a month ago, banning the modern instruments. That settled this unique controversy for the time.

DRUG COMA CAUSE LEARNED

Anesthetics Make Nerve Centers Thicken Like White of Egg Under Heat, Say Experimenters

ITHACA (N. Y.) June 20. (AP)—Discovery of the reason why anesthetics cause unconsciousness was announced today at Cornell University.

They cause nerve cells to become thick and white, like tiny hard-boiled eggs. A knockout blow on the head or the coma of narcotics or intoxication all produce similar cell changes. Thus the "kick" in a drink is like a blow and "boiled," "stewed" and "stiff," applied to drug and drink effects, are more than slang.

The discoveries link together physical states formerly considered quite distinct, and open a new field for developing drug uses. They were reported to the eighth colloid symposium by Dr. G. H. Richter, national research fellow at Cornell who worked under direction of Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft, professor of physical chemistry.

They are results of studies in colloid chemistry, one of the newer branches of science. Colloids are substances made of drops, bubbles, grains, filaments or films. The cells of the human body are composed largely of colloids.

"Research just completed," said Dr. Richter, "indicates the basic phenomenon back of all known types of narcosis or anesthesia. This is reversible coagulation of the cell colloids.

"This means precipitation of the material, such as is produced in eggs when they are cooked. The phenomenon differs from the coagulation of eggs in that it will return to completion one of James J. Hill's ambitions which constituted one of his outstanding expansion plans," Gilman said.

"The money which will be spent by the Great Northern in the construction of the extension consisting of 200 miles of railroad, will contribute substantially toward stabilizing conditions in the West; affording considerable employment and creating a market for material.

"The extension will not only serve the interests of the Great Northern and the Western Pacific, but also the general public of the Western States and will not prove a detriment to other railroad lines serving the coastal States," he said.

Gilman declared construction of the new line will promote the interchange of produce between the Pacific Northwest and the Pacific Southwest, regions with a widely divergent crop production. These markets which the lines will create, he said, will prove of equal benefit to producers of both regions.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. (Exclusive)—Construction work on the Great Northern-Western Pacific connection, the certificate for which was granted in Washington today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, will get under way by the end of July unless legal steps are taken by the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific to stop it. The order as handed down becomes effective thirty days after its issuance. In that time a petition for a rehearing can be filed and, if that is denied, the Southern Pacific can go to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of mandate compelling a rehearing.

Western Pacific executives are jubilant, but cautious, in their comments on the winning of what they consider "one of the greatest victories" in western railroading. Southern Pacific officials refuse to comment until they have an opportunity to study the situation. Observers are of the opinion the unanimity of the Interstate Commerce Commission decision confronts the Southern Pacific with an exceedingly tough prospect of having the order overruled.

HUGE VENTURE

Construction work will mean the employment of between 2000 and 3000 men and will launch an expenditure program that will total nearly $15,000,000, according to engineering estimates submitted when the case was heard here last fall.

Both the Western Pacific and the Great Northern will lay rails for the new line. In all it will be 200 miles in length, unless, as the Interstate Commerce Commission suggests, arrangement be made with the Southern Pacific for joint use of existing Espee trackage to a point twenty-four miles south of Klamath Falls, Or.

The Western Pacific will build north from Keddie, on its main line in the Feather River Canyon, to Bieber, in Modoc county. The Great Northern will build from Klamath Falls, with the qualification aforementioned, south to Bieber, where the two railroads will share terminal facilities.

The two roads also will share use of a short line to be constructed as a tap to the McCloud River railroad, the line running from a point near Lookout to Hambone. The two lines then will purchase the McCloud River Railroad, which cuts the Sierra range along the Pitt River and connects with the Southern Pacific at Shasta City.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

H. M. Adams, president of the Western Pacific, said:

"Naturally, we are very much pleased and gratified at this decision. It means much for the Western Pacific and also, we believe, marks the beginning of a new era for California. As California prospers, the Western Pacific prospers.

"We are prepared to proceed immediately with the acquisition of rights of way and the construction of the line almost immediately after the permit becomes effective. All the engineering plans are ready, finances have been arranged and no difficulty is expected in getting the project under way.

"We ought to be at work by the end of July and will continue without interruption until snow flies. In case of a mild winter we may be able to carry on the work, especially tunnel construction, right through."

If construction is begun as hoped, the two lines can be completed by the fall of 1931.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, while attending the Interstate Commerce Commission here last fall, said the Great Northern service will be inaugurated with a special trip of the Empire Builder, the Great Northern's crack passenger train, into Oakland via Western Pacific rails.

Two Wounded by Dry Agent

NEW ORLEANS, June 20. (AP)—Stanley Lirett, 34 years of age, and Robert Addison, Negro, 24, were shot and wounded today in an encounter with John W. Williams, 27, of Washington, D. C., who said he is a prohibition undercover agent.

Williams after surrendering to police, said the encounter was a resumption of a difficulty he had with Lirett yesterday in what he described as the latter's speakeasy on Iberville street.

Lirett and the Negro are expected to recover.

Esther Ralston Startles New Yorkers With Her Emancipated Garments

NEW YORK, June 20. (Exclusive) A woman walked down Fifth avenue the other day in an unusual town costume to keep cool and drew much attention.

Miss Esther Ralston, insisting for some strange reason that the present day garb for women is too heavy and oppressive, decided on an emancipation gesture and picked a pair of street pajamas for town wear as the best means of demonstrating her convictions.

She decided against the shorts for town although holding their vogue for sport wear is all right, and in her little pajama emancipation parade went down Fifth avenue to Forty-seventh street to the Astor Hotel for lunch and then stopped traffic on Broadway while she sauntered across the street to attend a vaudeville matinee.

CAUSE OF DRUG COMA LEARNED to its original state when the narcotic agent is removed.

"While the earlier periods of civilisation did not possess the great number of narcotics known today they did develop one that had the outstanding advantage of universal distribution and cheapness. This method was to strike the patient with a hammer or some other object.

"Modern practice produces narcosis by a different method, although the result is quite the same. But remarkably little is known concerning the actual cause of the phenomena.

"Direct observations with ultra-microscopes have revealed the complete changes in colloidal systems of an organism undergoing narcosis and recovery. These changes were photographed.

"When the organism is heated, cooled, shocked by electricity, treated with alcohol, chloroform or ether, etc., the changes are identical—namely coagulation. This shows that the cause of the loss of sensibility due to heat, coldness, electricity and drugs is one and the same phenomenon.

"Whenever the coagulation is too extensive or irreversible, then death will result.

"One thing hindering the development of new drugs has been lack of understanding of the mechanism by which they act. Discovery that slight changes in the colloids of the body produce profound physical and mental changes will suggest many new methods of attack on important medical problems.

"This work has led to an entirely new concept of stimulation and stimulating drugs. The division of drugs into narcotizing and stimulating groups gives the impression that differences are distinct. This is not the case. A narcotic and a stimulant are the same thing chemically. The difference arises through the changing colloidal behavior of the drug at different concentrations."

The effect of blows was studied by jarring the nerve cells, which caused them to whiten and thicken.

FUND QUIZ FAVORED ON HOUSE CAMPAIGNS

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—The House Rules Committee today approved the Snell resolution to authorize a special House committee of five to investigate the campaign expenditures of candidates for the House during the 1930 elections. Early action is expected. The Senate has established a committee to study expenses in Senatorial campaigns.

Scientific Value of Trip to Antarctica Detailed

Large Part of Continent Put on World's Maps

Results Classified Under Seven Divisions

WASHINGTON, June 20. (Exclusive)—While a detailed report of the scientific value of the Byrd expedition would probably fill volumes, the Editorial Research Report has condensed it, and summarized it under the following heads:

Geographic: The Antarctic continent, an estimated area of 3,750,000 square miles, is believed to be as large as the United States and Mexico, combined, and to contain more than 5 per cent of the total land area of the world. It is the largest patch of unknown territory in the world, the only other really unknown large areas being the interior of Greenland, the interior of Arabia, and the jungles of Brazil.

LARGE AREA SURVEYED

The Byrd expedition surveyed and photographed by airplane about 160,000 square miles of Antarctica, more than all the other Antarctic explorers combined. The Byrd party also charted hundreds of miles of hitherto uncharted coast line.

Since Byrd's discovery of "Marie Byrd Land" the American government could claim territorial rights in this area. Unless attempts are made to occupy the land, however, legal title probably will not be determined. Prof. Charles C. Hyde, in his "International Law," states that "the modern principle was finally accepted that the value of discovery depended upon the celerity with which it was followed by effective occupation. In the sixteenth century the discoverer brought into being rights which might be safely slept upon for generations. Today were he able to ascertain the existence of lands still unknown to civilization he would have no significance save as he might herald the advent of a settler."

WEATHER OBSERVED

Meteorological: The Byrd party made daily measurements and observations of meteorological conditions—especially temperature and wind velocity for more than fourteen months. It is the first comprehensive study of Antarctic weather ever made. Just as, loosely speaking, most United States weather derives from the Arctic, it is believed that most weather in Southern South America, South Africa and Australasia derives from the Antarctic. The Byrd studies accordingly will assist long-range weather forecasting for these territories.

Geological: Knowledge of the history of the earth will be furthered by the Byrd geologists' study of the mountains, particularly in the attempt to decide whether present Antarctica was once tropical and if the Antarctic mountain ranges—attaining a height of more than 15,000 feet—are continuation of the Andes or the New Zealand ranges, or are to be considered independent ranges.

Magnetic: The Byrd studies are expected to increase knowledge of terrestrial magnestism especially in compass deviation and other data of importance in the navigation of ships.

RADIO STUDIES

Radio: The Byrd scientists have detailed observations on the "Heaviside layer" against which short-side radio waves, of particular use on commercial broadcasting, are believed to rebound, and the varying levels of which affect radio-station "fading." Radio messages between Australasia or Southern Africa and South America pass through the Antarctic atmosphere.

Commercial: It is possible that some of the seals and whales observed and studied are new species, a matter of importance to the whaling industry, now largely prosecuted by the Norwegians. Any mineral deposits in the Antarctic would almost certainly cost more to extract and transport than their value would warrant.

Aviation: Land at the South Pole is roughly as high above sea level (about 9000 feet) as land at the North Pole is below it. Hence temperatures in the Antarctic are much more severe than in the Arctic.

(The regions bordering upon the South Pole are absolutely lifeless, unlike those bordering upon the North Pole.) Especial studies were made by the Byrd party of the problems of flying in such intense cold temperatures.

Missing Man Under Arrest

MOBILE (Ala.) June 20. (AP)—Harold H. Schroeder, missing Mobile man, who was at one time believed to have been burned in an automobile near Indianapolis, was arrested here today.

Search for Schroeder in Mobile was instituted following admittance by his wife, Mrs. Leah Schroeder, she had received letters from him in Nashville, Tenn., several days after a charred body was found in the burned car near Indianapolis.

A warrant charging Schroeder with conspiracy to commit murder and being a fugitive from justice was sworn out this afternoon.

and returned safely to Little America.

"Even from our altitude, we could observe the punishing conditions with which Scott and Amundsen had to contend, and our admiration for their achievements was intensified."

Vividly he drew a picture of the Antarctica in which he and his comrades dwelt:

SEEMS UNREAL

". . . Much of it has never been seen, much less explored. Its boundaries to a large extent are theoretical, and its area is an estimate. This and its remoteness from world centers have contrived to give it a suggestion of unreality.

"No life exists there, except sojourning penguins, gulls, seals, certain forms of microscopic life and the whales which have found in adjoining waters a last retreat. The only population this immense continent has known is the transitory communities of exploring parties, and the whalers and sealers who have landed briefly on its coasts.

"In winter it is perhaps the dreariest of places. . . . One could actually hear one's breath freeze."

The full report of the party's scientific work, Byrd disclosed, will be published in the fall, probably occupying three volumes. Upon conclusion of his address the audience watched spellbound the unique motion-picture record of the party's conquests and the surroundings of their daily lives on the ice.

Only once today was there a cessation in tributes to the explorer—when Byrd led his band into his native State, Virginia, and on the hillsides or Arlington paid homage at the graves of Floyd Bennett, who piloted him over the North Pole, Admiral Robert Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, Admiral John Wilkes, Antarctic explorer ninety years ago, and E. Lester Jones, late chief of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

RECEPTION AT CAPITAL

Byrd's first visit to his home State since his return was most solemn in the tribute paid to Bennett. He and Bernt Balchen, who piloted him across the Atlantic and over the South Pole, together placed a wreath on his tomb in memory.

Earlier the men of Little America had been received in the Capitol with an ovation of cheers and applause that rivaled the welcome of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh after his epochal flight to Paris.

Escorted to the Speaker's dais in the House by Representative Tilson, Connecticut, while his command filed into the galleries, Byrd received such welcome as "the most beloved son of our land" who had accomplished the heights as an explorer, scientist, leader and aviator.

"He is the one man in all the world," the Speaker continued, "who has no poles to conquer."

Legislators leaped to their feet, cheered and waved wildly.

The Senate recessed fifteen minutes to greet the explorers who had come by special invitation of Vice-President Curtis. Earlier he congratulated them at luncheon.

HOOVER'S ADDRESS

In his address at the presentation of the medal President Hoover spoke as follows:

"I am glad to welcome Admiral Byrd back to Washington. I speak not merely for myself but for the nation as a whole, and for every individual citizen.

"His contribution to exploration and scientific research has done honor to his country, and his country takes a just pride on them and in him. More than that, his daring and courage have thrilled each one of us individually, because he has proved anew the worth and power and glory of qualities which we believe are latent in our people.

"For men of our race to master extraordinary difficulty, to carry through great adventure, thrills us with pride, with hope and with confidence. I sometimes think this is the greatest value of modern explorers.

"I do not minimise the scientific gains of such expeditions, but the human values are so immediate and so universal in their effect that it may well be that they transcend the scientific service.

KNOWLEDGE ENRICHED

"Every hidden spot of the earth's surface remains a challenge to man's will and ingenuity until it has been conquered. Every conquest of such a difficult goal adds permanently to mankind's sense of power and security. Great explorers, therefore, do not merely add to the sum of human knowledge, but they also add immensely to the sum of human inspiration.

"Knowledge, too, has been enriched by Admiral Byrd's expedition. New coasts of the Antarctic continent have been mapped and new regions explored. Geological data are increased, a contribution to our knowledge of history of the earth. New knowledge of magnetic currents and weather changes has been gained.

"The store of the world's knowledge may not be priced in money, for money we make and spend, but knowledge remains always with the race.

BORN COMMANDER

"All these achievements are the capstone of a career whose progress Americans have watched with interest and pride. Admiral Byrd has been first to conquer the difficulties of the poles by heavier-than-air flying. He has flown the Atlantic Ocean. Success has followed upon success in his life, and this is the greatest of all.

"As with all consistently successful issues, his accomplishments have been built upon painstaking preparation, foreknowledge of the special problems to be solved, thoughtful plans to meet them and infinite patience in preparation and infinite patience in execution. He has demonstrated the traits of the born commander—boldness at the right time, comradeship, those heroic qualities that endear the captain to his men. And he is beloved by the American people.

PRESENTS MEDAL

"I congratulate you, Admiral Byrd, upon your success, upon your safe return to your country and home and friends, upon your services and the lift you have given the spirit of your countrymen. I am happy to present to you this special gold medal of the National Geographic Society, awarded you for 'the first attainment of the geographical South Pole by air . . . and for distinguished contributions to world knowledge of Antarctica.' And I take great pleasure in again introducing you formally to this audience, seen and unseen, to whom you need no introduction, and to whose hands I now commit the rendering of those further honors which you so highly deserve."

Because They Won't Behave Prosecutor Wonders If They're Wild or Tame

STOCKTON, June 20. (AP) Whether a bee is a wild or domesticated animal is a legal point wrinkling the brow of Asst. Dist.-Atty. Dunne.

The question arose when a subdivision farmer went to him complaining that a neighbor's bees were extracting the honey from his flowers and he wanted to know what could be done about it. Dunne advised him to impound the insects if he could catch them, charge the neighbor for storage and sell them. The complainant went away laughing and the prosecutor felt much relieved.

BYRD PICTURES ON EXHIBITION

Display Drawing Crowds to Bullock's Windows

Artist Owens Depicts Plane in Hop Over Pole

Theater Contributes Articles Carrying Out Spirit

Opening at noon yesterday in Bullock's Seventh-street windows, the Byrd South Pole mobile exhibit compiled by the New York Times and Los Angeles Times, went on display, to the delight of an ever-augmented throng. The display will be shown for several days.

The exhibit consists of photographs taken by Byrd at the South Pole, some in colors, together with maps of his flight over the Pole and of his course through the Antarctic. Also are pictures showing Byrd leaving Los Angeles on his start to the Pole, when he sailed from the harbor in the Larsen, and a group covering his arrival on Thursday in New York, sent on to The Times by telephoto.

In addition, as a prominent feature are two large drawings by Charles H. Owens, Times staff artist, depicting the great plane used by Byrd, in the ice fields before the take-off to the Pole, and also the flight over the Pole, when Byrd dropped an American flag attached to a stone from Floyd Bennett's grave. These were made specially for the Bullock showing.

The exhibit is further added to by Paramount Theater, where the film "Byrd at the South Pole" will be shown the 28th inst. That theater has placed in the same group many articles and adjuncts that carry out the spirit of the display and make it complete.

Interest in The Times unique mobile exhibit is evidenced by the many who have gathered already to see it, and by the many more inquiries about it. It is the first authentic visual record of Byrd's epochal trip, and comes at a particularly appropriate moment—just as he has returned to American soil.

Has Prohibition Done More Good Than Harm?

There are numerous perplexing moral problems in the prohibition question. We list three of them.

1. Do the necessities of a machine age require the sacrifice of personal liberty?
2. Is compulsory abstinence better than education and control?
3. What should the attitude of the good citizen be when he considers an unjust law?

Cable/

What is it? How is it helping to give you better telephone service?

WHAT does it mean to you, a telephone user, that a $30,000,000 cable-placing project is now under way, designed to link up Pacific Coast cities and connect with new long lines to the East?

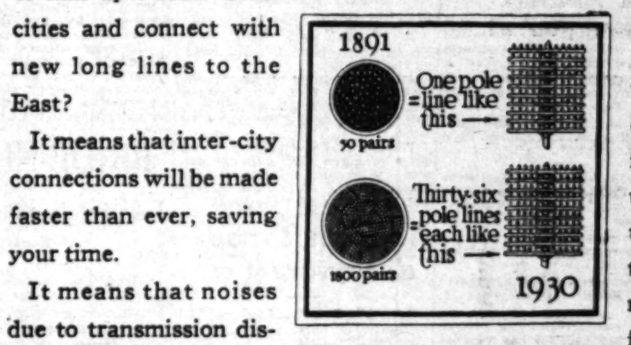
It means that inter-city connections will be made faster than ever, saving your time.

It means that noises due to transmission disturbances will be largely done away with.

It means that the service will be five times freer from weather troubles.

It means that our facilities for handling inter-city calls will be increased in some cases as much as 2,000 percent.

By means of cable, many more conversations will be carried on at once, between various Pacific Coast cities.



This chart shows the development from the 50-pair cable of 1891 (equivalent to one pole line of open wires) to the modern exchange-cable of 1930 as used in the larger cities. This modern type of cable is equivalent to 36 rows of poles of open wires.

THE development of telephone cable, with its myriad wires, each correctly spaced and insulated; together with the development of electrical equipment to carry the voice clearly over the miles though they stretch from ocean to ocean, is one of the absorbing achievements of the Bell Laboratories in the realm of applied science.

SNYDER CHILD LOSES LEGACY

Insurance Policies Declared Voided by Murder

NEW YORK, June 20. Orphaned by her mother's execution for her father's murder, little Lorraine Snyder lost her legacy today.

The 14-year-old girl whose mother, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, died in the electric chair for the murder of Alfred Snyder, motorboat magazine art editor, was disinherited of $100,000 worth of insurance which prompted the Queens slaying three years ago.

The Appellate division affirmed a decision by Supreme Court Justice Mahoney that two Prudential Insurance Company policies for $45,000 and the other for $55,000 were void on the ground that Mrs. Snyder had insured her husband with his murder in mind.

Mrs. Josephine Brown, little Snyder's mother and guardian of Lorraine, sought to collect the money. She pleaded that the policies were legal and that her grandchild was entitled to their proceeds.

LAW-ENFORCING FUND RULED OUT

Provision for $250,000 Cut from Deficiency Bill

Leaves Hoover Commission Without Support

Drys Expect Restoration by Senate Action

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—An item of $250,000 for expenses of the Hoover law enforcement commission for the next fiscal year was stricken from the second deficiency bill in the House today, but dry leaders confidently predicted its restoration and continued life of the group.

Attacking the allotment on the ground that there is no law authorizing the expenditure, Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, a leader in the wet bloc, was sustained by the chair on a point of order.

Representative Chindblom, Republican, Illinois, who was presiding, recalled that authorization for the commission's investigation into law enforcement was only for the present fiscal year. In addition to the $250,000, the ruling eliminated reappropriation of $80,000 remaining as an unexpended balance from the $250,000 appropriated for this year.

Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, a dry leader, said he is confident nothing more will be done in the House to restore the item, but that he is equally certain the Senate will reinsert it and the matter will go to conference.

HIKERS GIVEN SLIM CHANCE

But Lives Depend on Marksmanship

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Albee

HAZELTON (B. C.) June 20. (AP) The first official optimism concerning the probable fate of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Albee of Glendale, Cal., who are attempting to hike with scanty equipment to Dawson, Yukon territory, was voiced at Dawson today by Constables A. T. Rivett and J. P. Hartnett of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, both of whom are familiar with the country.

The veteran officers declared it would be possible for Albee and his young wife to shoot sufficient ptarmagan and rabbits to sustain life.

They believed if probable that at this season the Albees would encounter trappers about every 100 miles. Provided the young couple do not run out of ammunition or meet with accident they have a good chance to complete their exploit, the constables declare.

The opinion of the two officers directly contradicts fears expressed by provincial police, trappers and prospectors intimately acquainted with the perils of the route chosen by the Albees.

All the others have practically abandoned hope for them.

Albee and his wife are on a hiking trip around the world. They intended to teach schools at Fairbanks, Alaska, next winter and resume their journey in the spring.

PARENTS CONFIDENT COUPLE WILL WIN OUT

GLENDALE, June 20. (Exclusive) The parents of William H. Albee, 23-year-old Glendale adventurer, who with his bride of six weeks has been reported lost in the Northern Canadian wilds, are not greatly worried over the disappearance of their son.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer P. Albee, who reside at 1140 East Elk street, declare young Albee often has been lost to sight for days at a time in the Sierras of Southern California, where he has blazed new trails into regions unknown to the general run of hikers and mountain climbers. They are certain he and his bride eventually will return safely to civilization after their trip into the Vanderhoof (B. C.) wilderness.

Albee and his wife, formerly Miss Ruth Sutton of Farmington, Ill., whom he married in Carmel recently, left for Vancouver where they planned to start hiking over a new trail to Dawson and thence to Fairbanks, Alaska. The Royal Northwest Mounted Police are reported to be worried over them and to be planning an airplane search.

Albee is an architectural draftsman who becomes restless at intervals, closes down his desk and strikes out for the great untamed spaces, later incorporating his adventures in articles that he sells to various publications.

"Bill is a natural born woodsman and mountaineer and we know that he and Ruth will come out all right," his mother said today.

MYSTERY IN POISONINGS AT CAMPS

Nearly Two Score Men at Work on Water Project of Bay City Stricken

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. (AP)—City health officers have been asked to investigate the mysterious poisoning of nearly two score workers on the Hetch Hetchy project in the last three days.

Twenty men were stricken Monday and Tuesday at the Del Valle camp, six miles from Livermore, while eighteen were taken ill with the same symptoms at Mitchell camp, a few miles east, the following day.

Dr. Paul E. Dolan of Livermore examined the men and expressed the belief they were suffering from a light attack of ptomaine poisoning. Food served at both camps was examined, but found to be free from taint.

In requesting an investigation Lloyd T. McAfee, chief assistant city engineer, said the movement of the sickness from one camp to the other was "very mysterious." He placed little credence in a theory the occurrence was linked in any way to the recent blast which killed seven men in the Calaveras tunnel of the project.

REFUND TO SUGAR COMPANY ASSAILED

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Approval by the Joint Congressional Committee on internal revenue legislation today of a refund of $166,000 with interest to the California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining Company was assailed in the House by Representative Garner, the Democratic leader. The committee sanctioned Treasury action in granting the refund. Garner, a tax specialist, asserted the California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining Company is a holding company operating under a Delaware charter and operated by commission merchants. The corporation, he said, was formed of thirty-three agricultural corporations in Hawaii.

MANIAC KILLING 'CAPTURES' FAIL

Two Suspects Prove Not to be Demented Slayer

Queens Mystery Continues to Baffle Police

Thirteen More Persons Face Death "Sentence"

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—Search for the murderous maniac who has killed two persons in Queens and threatens by letter to slay thirteen more, reached an apparent impasse tonight.

Of two suspects arrested today, one was definitely cleared and police expressed doubt that the other had any part in the killings.

Joseph Oswald Clark, escaped inmate of the Creedmore State Hospital for the Insane, in Queens, arrested in Philadelphia, was definitely absolved of connection by Acting Assistant Chief Inspector Sullivan a short time after he was brought here.

"HARMLESS IMBECILE"

Sullivan said Clark in no way resembled the description of the killer as given by women companions of the two slain men. The women, however, will be given an opportunity to scrutinize Clark, who was taken to Queens.

"Clark seems to be an imbecile," Sullivan said, "and demented only along harmless lines."

Detectives doubt a man who was arrested in Newark, N. J., and who said he is John D. Galvao of Boston, had any connection with the killing. The only evidence against him is an approximate similarity to descriptions of Joseph Ustica, an insane slayer, who escaped from the Kings Park Hospital.

Dr. Russell E. Blaisdell of the Creedmore hospital, said he doubts Ustica is capable of planning the two Queens killings.

Ustica, he said, can neither read nor write English and is incapable of writing letters the slayer sent police and newspapers warning of his intentions.

HE HAS DELUSION

However, he is known to labor under the delusion that he has a special mission for protecting womanhood. Both men killed by the maniac were shot as they sat with women companions in cars parked in a lonely section of Queens. In each case the slayer escorted the woman to a car line after the killing.

Morris Horowitz, insurance man, shot last night as he sat in his car in front of his home in Brooklyn, is expected to recover. It was thought at first he had been shot by the maniac, but later police received from the wounded man a full description of his assailant and said the case had no connection with the Queens killings.

MACNIDER'S NOMINATION CONFIRMED

Senate Takes Action After Brookhart Hurls Charges at Former Legion Head

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—The Senate today without a record vote confirmed the nomination of Hanford L. Macnider of Iowa as Minister to Canada.

This action was taken after Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, charged he had seen Macnider lead "drunken revels" at American Legion conventions and he was the "worst enemy the soldiers of the World War ever had."

Senator Steck, Democrat, Iowa, challenged Brookhart's statements. He said when Brookhart implies Macnider is a "drunkard" he does not know "what he is talking about."

GANGSTERS ADD TO KILLING TOLL

Racketeer King Found Dead in Chicago Suburb

Aiello Was Reputed Aide of Capone Clan

Martial Law Hint Given for Cook County

CHICAGO, June 20. (AP)—Another ring of racketeers fell today, the ring signal of the gangster that ending of Cook county's forces gained crime has not ended his bloody war for profits of liquor and ice.

On the ledger of gang war casualties for 1930 was written another name, No. 40 for the year—Lorenzo Aiello, boss of a large alcohol industry, bomber, reputed lieutenant of the Capone clan and suspect in more than one murder.

His body was found in a wrecked automobile catapulted at full speed over a fifty-foot embankment in suburban Blue Island.

The Italian's body, his head crushed and back broken, lay huddled between the seats, wrapped in gray canvas.

Three years ago he was questioned about bombing the homes of Chester Deneen and Judge Swanson, then a candidate for State Attorney. Dynamite was found in his cellar, there was no prosecution.

INDICTED IN WET CASE

He was indicted by Federal grand jury at Indianapolis on a charge of transporting liquor between that city and distilleries of Chicago suburbs. Here he was the reputed commissionaire of the slot-machine syndicate in Blue Island and Chicago Heights.

First reports said the Italian had been slain by machine-gun fire, but after examination Coroner Hermann Bundesen said the victim had been beaten to death.

While the war among the underworld enemies was being renewed—it was the first killing in the "racket" since the assassination of "Jake" Lingle, supposedly by gang executioners—the united forces of the law were perfecting their organizations. They published their addresses and telephone number and pledged any who can offer aid in the campaign against the gunmen will be heard in confidence and given the full protection of the law.

MARTIAL LAW HINT GIVEN

Swanson told a State Senate committee martial law might become necessary if emergency legislation is not enacted at the Springfield Assembly session to relieve county finances.

"Law enforcement depends on county finances," he said. "Unless those bills (Strawn relief measures) are passed, we are threatened with complete breakdown of law enforcement machinery."

The First State Bank of Fox River Grove was held up today for the second time in three months and robbed of $2000 by two men. An employee and two customers were locked in the vault by the robbers.

GUN OWNERSHIP IN LINGLE MURDER TRACED

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—The revolver used in the murder of the late Jas. of "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, has been identified and its ownership traced, it was revealed early today.

The weapon, police said, belonged to Frank Foster, formerly a leader of the George (Bugs) Moran gang but more recently aligned with the Capone group. Foster, however, is believed to have disposed of the gun prior to the Lingle slaying.

Foster has left town, having learned that ownership of the gun has been traced to him, police said. Even though he is not suspected of having fired the shot that killed Lingle, Foster decided the town was getting "too hot" for him, investigators believe.

Identification of the pistol was made by police who finally were able to bring out the number of the gun, which had been filed in an effort to obliterate it. The gun then was traced to Peter Von Frantzius, sporting goods dealer, whose records showed it was sold to Foster several months ago.

Police have persistently worked on the theory the murder of Lingle was a gang affair, and the assassin was connected with the Moran-Aiello North Side group. They believe Foster's gun was "planted" deliberately with the intention of turning suspicion upon Foster, thus "punishing" him for his desertion to the Capone group.

The "white book" is an answer to a "blue book" on the same subject issued by the British government a fortnight ago.

FUGITIVES FROM JAIL ARRESTED

Two Escaped from Cell in Fresno Sentenced to Prison in Nevada for Auto Theft

FRESNO, June 20. (Exclusive)—Charles Isbell, Los Angeles candy salesman, and George Miller, youthful asserted automobile thief, who were among nine prisoners who escaped from the County Jail here Monday, are in jail at Winnemucca, Nev., and under sentences of from two to fourteen years each, it was learned here today.

Pacing much more severe penalties if they were returned here after their arrest in Nevada, both men pleaded guilty to charges growing out of the theft of an automobile in Winnemucca and subsequent looting it of its contents. They were sentenced to the Nevada prison at Carson City yesterday, twenty-four hours after they stole the automobile, and a few hours before the Winnemucca authorities received the Fresno circular announcing that the men were wanted here as jail breakers.

Sheriff Jones and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Carter left today for Nevada to seek to have both Isbell and Miller paroled or pardoned in order that they might be brought back here to stand trial on the various charges now pending against them.

NEW YORK, June 20. (Exclusive) Upholding Surrogate James A. Foley, the Appellate division, Supreme Court, today denied Anne Murdock, Broadway actress, the right to dispose of the $250,000 trust fund willed to her by Alf Hayman, theatrical booking agent.

The actress, the court held, is entitled to the income for life, but the principal belongs to the children, and grandchildren, of Mrs. Minnie Hayman. Mrs. Hayman inherited the money from her husband, Al, and on her death it reverted to his brother, Alf, whose fiancee Broadway understood Mrs. Murdock was at the time of his death.

MOVE TO ASSIST CONVICTS FAILS

Factory Run by Reformed Gangsters Hits Rocks

Sixty Former Prisoners in Altruistic Experiment

Bonus System Given Part of Blame for Crash

NEW YORK, June 20. (Exclusive) A venture in criminal reclamation went on the rocks here today when the Amazon Leather Goods Company failed after a troubled year and a half of ex-convict and reformed gangster operation. The Marshall Stillman Movement effort to set ambitious ex-convicts up in a co-operative business of their own resulted in the purchase of a women's handbag factory in January, 1929. Sixty former criminals were "salvaged" as workmen. It is said they were recruited by want ads for "ex-criminals only." From then on it was nip-and-tuck with Old Man Overhead and the bonus system.

On Tuesday the creditors, whose bills total a little more than $50,000, started the action which resulted in the Supreme Court naming Benjamin Jacobs of Jacob Brothers, interlining makers, as assignee. The creditors hope to do a bit of salvage work themselves—about 25 cents on the $1.

HIGH HOPES AT START

The factory operated along altruistic lines and was financed partially by a group of wealthy citizens interested in the reclamation of underworld types. The Marshall Stillman Movement Industries, Inc., of which the Amazon Company was to be only one of a string of plants, offered $100,000 in cumulative preferred stock and the project started off with high hopes. It was announced by Alpheus Geer, founder of the movement, that 50 per cent of the net profits would be distributed among the workers, most of whom were unskilled and who were paid as high as $67.50 a week.

The altruistic offshoot of the Marshall Stillman Movement maintained a good output and met with a fair market, but unexpectedly business difficulties caused the first year to end with a slight deficit, so that there was no bonus. The "knockabout boys," as Mr. Geer prefers to call his reclaimed gangsters, had entertained too glowing theories about the bonus and were greatly upset. Consequently there was considerable disgruntlement, labor trouble and shooting.

It was about the time of the $2000 deficit that Mr. Geer quit as president of the concern. Then George Hodson, ex-convict secretary of the company, was killed, and Murray Bauman, a worker, was wounded along with Charles Meyers, asserted speakeasy proprietor, in a gunfight in Meyers's establishment. The shooting is said to have arisen during a business discussion of the handbag works, but Mr. Geer does not believe this was the true motive.

GEER CALLS MEETING

As the creditors began to grow insistent for the money Mr. Geer called a meeting last week of the directors of the movement that has failed to arrest the financial difficulties.

"We have been passing through some difficulties," Mr. Geer said, "and I do not know exactly what our financial situation is, because I leave the temporal details to my associates. I stand in the position of a rector to a parish. We are calling on the friends of the movement to aid in a broad general movement for its success."

One of the creditors said the failure of the concern was largely due to unskilled management and to the fact that the ex-convicts were not particularly skilled workers.

The Marshall Stillman Movement proper is governed by a board of thirty directors which in the past has included such able business men as John McEntee Bowman, Edward F. Hutton, Jules Bache, John N. Willys, Julius Rosenwald and others. Alpheus Geer is a retired silk merchant who became convinced a dozen years ago that the criminal is "just an ordinary fellow who has gone off at a tangent."

AUSTRALIA HELD IN SORRY PLIGHT

Island Capitalist and Radio Magnate in Port

Says Adverse Trade Balance Cripples Country

Suggestion of Reciprocity in Business Offered

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

Australia is in a bad way and something must be done about her adverse balance of trade with America, in the opinion of M. Francois Albert, Australian capitalist, radio baron, yachtsman and big-game hunter. He and his son, Alexis, arrived from Hawaii yesterday on the Lasco flagship City of Los Angeles, and after three weeks will resume their year's trip around the world.

"Many more of our dollars go outside for your films, autos and such than you spend with us for our wool and we would have you use more of it," he explained. "Our new tariff, like yours, is dislocating trade temporarily, but many justify it as nurturing home industry. Your motion pictures have us buying everything American but there is such a thing as reciprocity."

He predicted the passing in Australia of labor troubles as they passed in America. It got to a point, he said, where Australia could import coal from England cheaper than Australia under its handicaps could produce it.

"Water-front labor strife was equally demoralizing, and I foresee a reaction against such methods and rise of the 'open shop.'"

Among his interests is the Australian Broadcasting Company. It dominates the air, receiving half the $6 government license on each of 200,000 receiving sets, the government taking the other half for physical maintenance of its eight big stations.

He and his son will pass three weeks among the film colony; take in the eastern yacht race for the America's Cup, and go to South Africa for lion hunting. The son was a member of Sydney University's rifle team, which recently defeated 220,000 competitors throughout the British Empire for the Imperial cup and blazers.

NOTABLES ON LIST OF LINER CALIFORNIA

Vacationists lead the list of more than 500 passengers to be aboard, when the Panama Pacific liner California, due tomorrow, sails the following day for Havana and New York.

Business leaders include Mathew S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Company, returning after a convention in San Francisco; Otis Le Roy of the staff of J. P. Morgan & Co., L. E. Archer, Coast manager of International Mercantile Marine Company, and John Biles, London naval architect. A. S. Morgenstein, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, of Seattle, also is a passenger.

Heading the Southland contingent is Justin Miller, dean of law at the University of California, who goes to be dean at Duke University, and Father John Rosal, Catholic priest of San Bernardino, en route to visit his boyhood home in Italy.

Three hundred and forty-seven travelers returned from Hawaii on the Lassco flagship City of Los Angeles yesterday, including many who remained over when a blaze temporarily disabled the sister liner City of Honolulu. Harvey Titcomb, president of the Southern Pacific Railway Company of Mexico, wife and daughter, returned after a month in the islands.

Maj. W. H. Lanagan, United States district engineer, has under consideration the Harbor Department's application to make coincident the pierhead lines and bulkhead lines along the Mormon Island side of Slip Five, or Pier A channel. The Harbor Department has requested, however, that final action be postponed pending outcome of its suit to quiet title against the Pacific Coast Borax Company on approximately six acres of the borax concern's Mormon Island terminal.

The borax company has recently signified its intention of extending its present pierhead line out to the line of the Harbor Department pier used by the Shell Oil Company. This change must first be approved by the War Department.

Port Manager Burt Edwards and the Board of Harbor Commissioners will be guests of honor at a dinner to be tendered Inspector Alfred T. Slaten, retiring police executive, on the 26th inst. by the American Legion Post, No. 302, at 636 South Ardmore avenue. William Gibbs McAdoo and Joseph Scott will be speakers.

Bert Gillespie, purser of the Admiral Line greyhound H. F. Alexander and equally famed as the Coast's Beau Brummel, was absent from his desk for the first time yesterday when the steamer arrived from San Francisco with 284 cabin passengers. Bert is being relieved during his honeymoon by Harry De Grandpre. Admiral Line's cabin liner Ruth Alexander took out 280 passengers to Ensenada last night on a week-end cruise. She will return Sunday afternoon.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. (AP)—Chief Engineer Frank O. White of the State Board of Harbor Commissioners asserted today that the new $200,000 extension to the grain terminal at Islais Creek on San Francisco Bay, will eliminate any possibility of congestion during the peak season from June until December.

He said construction probably will start shortly, and the work will be completed, ready to handle part of this year's crop, by Islais Creek terminal. White said, will become the concentration point of grain shippers in the South and Central Pacific states.

Joseph Gheesy, vice-president and general manager of the United States Lines, is due to arrive here early next week on an extensive tour of seaports of the United States. Local shipping authorities express belief that he is planning to negotiate with the Pacific Steamship Company for purchase of the fast coastal liner S. S. Alexander.

PORTLAND, June 20.—Rumors current in marine circles here today say the American-Hawaiian, the Luckenbach and the Dollar lines have resigned from the United States Intercoastal Conference. The resignations of the Big Three, however, only the Class B group. The conference will be kept intact by members of the group which do not provide steamer service—the Quaker Line, Arrow Line, Admiral Line, Nelson Line and Munson-McCormick Line.

One Portland representative of a conference line said, however, the conference would become effective for four months and some sort of agreement promptly be arranged in the 1930 line. The trouble in the intercoastal field has been dire for several months.

TACOMA, June 20.—Three coasters arrived here today from California. The Spokane of the McCormick Line was in from San Francisco, the Freedspeak of the Isthmian from Los Angeles and the Bessie Alexander from San Diego. The trio will load several southbound freight steamers, including the sailing of Coore, with wood and lumber here this morning. Wood and lumber here this morning. Admiral Dewey Rear Admiral Hughes, Atlantic fleet flagship, shifted to Seattle for additional European cargo.

WAR'S GADFLIES ROOST ON SHIP

Proposed American Cruiser to Carry More Planes

"Old Line" Naval Officers Fear Armor Reduction

Treaty Sanctions Building of Hybrid Vessels

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Plans for a radically different hybrid fighting ship are occupying the navy's designers.

It would be a combination cruiser and aircraft carrier, capable of engaging in a running battle as well as launching more than two score airplanes for scouting or combat.

It would be of a radical design in that its large guns and their turrets would place it in the fighting class, yet a landing platform on its deck would equip it to carry from three to six times as many airplanes as the most modern cruisers now afloat.

GAS FIGHTER'S POWER

Instead of launching its planes from a distance and running from them at dusk, as the existing carriers must, the proposed cruiser-carrier would run into the melee and let its load bomb and harass the enemy while it joined orthodox cruisers and battleships in battle.

This same "old-line" naval officers have expressed opposition to the cruiser-carrier because its effectiveness might be lessened by a reduction in armor to allow for the weight of airplanes, the Bureau of Aeronautics said a 10,000-ton or even a 7050-ton cruiser-carrier is the largest all nations soon will build because of the increased importance of airplanes in battle.

GUN PLATFORM PLANNED

Tentative plans for the vessel provide for as many as ten six-inch guns as well as storage space of 70 planes. About 70 per cent of the deck would be devoted to a landing platform, while the necessary superstructure and two triple or quadruple-gun turrets or houses would be grouped in the bow. Others would be at the stern, while its antiaircraft batteries would be on platforms at the sides of the landing platform.

A ship of this type, naval designers say, would not come under the London naval treaty definition of a carrier. The treaty classifies as a carrier any ship "designed for the launching and exclusive purpose of carrying aircraft."

The treaty is interpreted as permitting the United States the construction of six 10,000-ton cruiser-carriers of the contemplated type.

If the Navy chose to reduce the displacement to 7050 tons it could build nine. It is not likely, however, more than a few experimental cruiser-carriers would be constructed immediately.

ELECTRIC LIGHT SESSION CLOSES

Jones Becomes President of National Association

Downing of P. G. & E. Gets Vice-Presidency

Bay City Wins Convention Again in 1935

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. (Exclusive)—Election of officers and reaffirmation of a consistent stand against government and municipal ownership of light and power utilities marked the conclusion today of the fifty-first annual convention of the National Electric Light Association.

As expected, William Alton Jones, New York, was elected president, three vice-presidents were elevated one degree and the fourth vice-presidency was allotted to the Pacific Coast. Paul M. Downing, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, was unanimously chosen for the fourth vice-presidency. In accordance with the association procedure of rotation, this means Downing will be president of the organization in 1934 and San Francisco will get the 1935 convention with him as presiding officer. Other vice-presidents, in the order of their rank, are James F. Owens, Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, Oklahoma City; Marshall E. Sampsell, Central Illinois Public Service Company, Chicago, and Edwin Gruhl, North American Company, New York.

OTHER OFFICERS

Other officials named are:

P. S. Young, Newark, N. J., treasurer; retiring president, M. S. Sloan, ex-officio member of the national executive committee, and the following as members of the committee: D. C. Barnes, Boston; H. P. Liversidge, Philadelphia; Charles W. Appleton, New York; I. E. Moultrop, Boston; C. L. Collins, Cleveland; James R. Strong, New York.

Atlantic City was awarded the 1931 convention.

M. S. Wilder, executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, speaking on "Saving the Farm for the Family," reviewed in detail progress in making farm life more attractive and profitable through the use of electricity, and said:

"The American Farm Bureau Federation emphatically believes the interests of the American farmer cannot best be served by government ownership and operation of the utilities from which we are to expect service.

"We recognize it is impossible for any municipal enterprise to undertake a program of rural expansion. In 1919 we officially declared our opposition to government ownership of public utilities and we have reaffirmed that declaration each year since."

WEADOCK SPEAKS

Bernard F. Weadock, special counsel representing the utilities before the Federal Trade Commission during its three-year investigation of the light and power industry, declared the investigation had developed nothing which in any way casts discredit upon the industry.

Weadock termed as the "unholy alliance," a group described as Socialistic organizations, as the originators of the investigation and asserted there had been conducted a relentless and unscrupulous campaign of propaganda in exactly the same way it was charged, but not proved, the electric light and power industry had done.

BOY MALADY VICTIM GETS BLOOD AGAIN

Chicago Father Attempts Desperately to Save Fifth Youngster from Death

CHICAGO, June 20. (AP)—Blood from his father was transfused for the second time into the veins of Kenneth McKittrick today as a final parry to save him from the mysterious malady which brought death to a sister and three brothers.

Physicians and scientists awaited the results of food tests to determine the nature of the poisoning and its source. Contaminated water and a slow gas leak found in the children's bedroom also were suggested.

When Kenneth, 8 years of age, became steadily weaker, his father, Benjamin McKittrick, submitted to his third blood transfusion, the first one having been made in an unsuccessful attempt to save the life of another son.

The other children died a week ago. The sixth child was said last night to be afflicted with whooping cough, but physicians are watching him for symptoms of the malady.

Bank at Yuma Closes Doors

YUMA (Ariz.) June 20. (AP)—The Yuma Valley Bank, an independent institution capitalized at $200,000, closed its doors today and placed its affairs in the hands of Chief Examiner Cox of the State Banking Department.

Depletion of resources due to low prices of farm commodities and particularly to unfavorable conditions in the cotton market was ascribed by Vice-President Cooke of the bank as the reason for the action.

COUSINS TO INHERIT ESTATE OF HERMITS

CHICAGO, June 20. (AP)—A score of cousins scattered in Great Britain, Ireland and the United States will inherit the $200,000 estate of two hermits who died in Park Ridge, a suburb, four years ago. Probate Judge Horner has ruled. Of the known heirs, fifteen cousins live in Ireland, two in Massachusetts and one each in England, Montana and Kansas. The estate was left by John Flynn, who committed suicide.

HOOVER DELAYS TRIP PLANS

Bids from All Sections Met With Same Answer, That Itinerary Awaits Congress Closing

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Through a virtual deluge of invitations for him to visit almost every State and many cities west of the Mississippi River on his trip this summer, President Hoover constantly and placidly gives the same answer.

No itinerary is being considered until Congress is ready to adjourn.

Senators, Representatives, governors, Mayors, national committeemen, chambers of commerce and individuals have pleaded—many of them in person—with the Chief Executive to visit the particular localities in which they are interested.

He has been invited to fish, to speak, to parade, to banquet, to rest and confer from Chicago to Dallas and from Kansas City to Tacoma.

Contingent upon Congress adjourning finally by the middle of July, the President expects to leave the capital late in the month, to be gone five or six weeks.

He will pass through Minneapolis and start his tour of the Rocky Mountain national parks at Glacier Park, near the Canadian border, stopping there to fish for about a week, the longest halt proposed for the entire journey of 5000 or 6000 miles.

After that the itinerary is unknown even to the Chief Executive, except that he expects to make the return trip across the continent by the southern route, probably touring Grand Canyon Park and passing through Texas with one or more stops in that State.

In the latest discussions of the trip at the White House California also is being excluded. The Hoover home at Palo Alto recently has been leased and it is said that the revised route as finally drafted also may exclude Yosemite Park. Both may be reinstated in the final route, however.

Time tables, maps and other information upon the entire West have been accumulated at the executive offices and Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service, who was instrumental in inspiring the President to make the trip for the benefit of the parks, is assisting in arranging details for stops in the preserves.

Plans have been further complicated by the condition of Mrs. Hoover, who still is convalescing from a wrenched back suffered more than two months ago.

She is said by Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, to be steadily improving at the Presidential camp in Virginia, where she is resting, but it is unknown whether she will have recovered sufficiently by late July to stand the strain of the long automobile rides which the western trip includes.

PLAN FOR R-100 TRIP REMAINS UNCHANGED

LONDON, June 20. (AP)—The dirigible R-100 and not her sister ship the R-101 will make the forthcoming attempt to fly to America, the Air Ministry today stated. There has been no change in plans for the trans-Atlantic flight. The recent difficulties experienced with the R-100 are said to have started rumors of the change.

ROSS PAYS LAST MILLION TODAY

Canadian Horseman All Set for Poverty Race

Lost $100,000,000 Fortune Two Years Ago

Trust Fund for Wife Will Go to Creditors

NEW YORK, June 20. (Exclusive) Reduced to his last million, Commander John K. L. Ross, the Canadian turfman who owned Sir Barton and once was rated as the Dominion's richest man, will distribute that sum among his creditors tomorrow.

Supreme Court Justice Townley paved the way today for Ross's final clean-up of the debts incurred when he lost his $100,000,000 fortune two years ago, when he ruled the $1,000,000 trust fund that Ross established in 1916 for his wife, Mrs. Ethel Akine Ross, was illega..

The money, which is held by the Equitable Trust Company, will be returned to Ross. He broke the fund with Mrs. Ross's approval. Ross then will pay off the remaining obligations of the many listed in his bankruptcy petition in 1928.

Commander Ross and his wife moved to do the sporting thing some time ago, but the trust company, asked by the couple to release the $1,000,000, insisted that the judicial order obtained today be procured to make the proceedings regular.

A few years ago Ross ranked with the Vanderbilts and the Whitneys on the American turf. He had a $1,000,000 stud farm in Maryland and spent a fortune on his racing stable. He was known as Canada's most charitable man, and gave away millions to institutions and schools.

Sixteen Injured in Picketing Campaign Melee

Rally Set for Today Banned by Official Order

One Dead in Hindu-Moslem Rioting at Dacca

BOMBAY, June 20. (AP)—Extraordinary demonstrations by schoolboys in Bombay's fort area, with police forced to charge with sticks to halt disorder, marked the picketing campaign of Nationalists here today.

Sixteen demonstrators were injured during the melee, three seriously. At the same time two other processions by youths were dispersed by police sticks.

Following upon information that Pandit Motilal Nehru intends to inspect a rally of Nationalist volunteers on the Maidan esplanade tomorrow, the chief magistrate of Bombay presidency issued an order prohibiting volunteers visiting or frequenting the esplanade for two months.

Rioting between Hindus and Moslems broke out again in Dacca, and last night one Moslem was stabbed fatally. Some accounts say two were injured. Police restored order and patrolled the town.

Delayed reports said trouble developed in Barisal, Bengal, Tuesday following a picketing campaign. Four home-made bombs were thrown into a saloon in the Malehiti bazaar, injuring a bartender and wrecking the interior.

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Though her clothes were rumpled and her hair disheveled, Albert Werper realized that he never before had looked upon such a vision of loveliness as that which Lady Greystoke presented in the relief and joy which she felt in coming so unexpectedly upon a friend and rescuer when hope had seemed so far away. If the Belgian had entertained any doubt as to the woman's knowledge of his past in the perfidious attack upon her home and herself, it was quickly dissipated by the genuine friendliness of her greeting.

She told him quickly of all that had befallen her since he had departed from her home. As she spoke of the death of her husband she wept softly. Werper pretended to well-simulated sympathy. "That devil there," and he pointed toward the body of Achmet Zek, "is responsible for it all." Then he spoke of how the Waziri were slain or scattered and said that the Arabs occupied the plain about her former home so that there was no escape in that direction. "Our only hope lies in traveling northward," he continued.

"Perhaps we can reach the camp of the raiders before the knowledge of Achmet Zek's death reaches those that are left, and then we may bargain for an escort northward. It is our only hope, Lady Greystoke, and you must place your entire faith in me if we are to succeed." Unsuspicious of the man's true character, Jane Clayton saw nothing peculiar in his plans, nor did she give a thought as to his friendship with the Arabs. So she grasped with alacrity the seeming hope for safety which he proffered her.

Before the set out Werper searched the Arab's body. To his consternation there was no sign of the pouch of jewels on it. Then he searched all along the trail but found nothing. Puzzled, disappointed and angry, he at last returned to the girl and together they set out toward the hostile camp where she lately had been a prisoner. It was late in the afternoon of the second day before they reached their destination, and as they paused upon the edge of the clearing before the walled gates, Werper turned and spoke to Lady Greystoke.

SHEIKS SWAMP MISSION REDS

Stars Put Over Eleven Runs in Wild Eighth Inning

Hollywooders Nab Slugfest by Score of 19 to 5

Rumler Swats Two Homers; Hill Gets Three Hits

BY BOB RAY

Climaxing an intensive afternoon of scoring with a grand rally of eleven runs in the eighth inning, Oscar Vitt's Hollywood Stars handed the Mission Reds what is technically known as a shellacking yesterday at Wrigley Field. The final score was 19 to 5, and the victory gave the Stars a 3-to-1 edge in the series.

BILL RUMLER

The Mission hurlers made the work of the Sheiks easy. Dutch Lieber, Al De Hoag and Merl Nelson issuing a total of thirteen walks, which is quite a goodly number for only eight innings of effort. Lieber walked four, De Hoag six and Nelson three, although the latter also hit a man for good measure. Six of the walks and the hit batsman came in the eighth inning, so the Stars only had to toss in five hits to make their extensive rally possible.

TURNER ON MOUND

Jim Turner, the Piedmont pitcher, hurled pretty effectively but didn't have to bear down for he was sailing along with a lead after the second round. The Reds got nine hits, Del Boone leading their attack with a homer, triple and single in four times at bat.

Lieber retired after five innings with the score 7 to 2 against him. Killefer decided to give De Hoag, a young southpaw, just out of Occidental College, a chance. De Hoag got by all right until the eighth when he grew wilder than a March hare. Two hits, three walks and a wild pitch were De Hoag's contribution to the start of the

Norwegian Takes Count for First Time in Career

Record Crowd of 21,000 Sees Abbreviated Ring Melee

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, June 20. (AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, the ex-school boy from Georgia, fighting the surprise battle of his heavyweight career, knocked out Otto Von Porat, crushing puncher from Norway, in the first round of a scheduled ten-round bout in the Chicago Stadium tonight.

YOUNG STRIBLING

Von Porat, never before flattened for the count, was knocked out with a smashing left hook to his chin—with the same left hand that Stribling said was injured while training for the match.

The sudden knockout stunned the crowd, estimated at 21,000, a new indoor record attendance for professional boxing, almost as much as that smashing punch stunned Von Porat. If there was any drug injected into Stribling's left hand, as he claimed there would be to deaden pain, he lost no time in transferring it to Von Porat's chin.

The Georgian, conceding sixteen and a half pounds to the towering Norwegian, showed complete disdain for Von Porat's vaunted right-hand wallop to the chin. Stribling ripped into Von Porat at the opening bell and never gave the tall Norwegian a chance to crack him with his famous right. He peppered long tantalizing lefts into Von Porat's face, roughed him into a corner and smashed his body with both fists.

The young Georgian, faster with his hands and speedier on his feet, lashed out with a terrific left hook that landed flush on Von Porat's chin. The Norwegian's legs shot out from under him as if he had touched an electric wire. He lay flat on his back while Referee Eddie Purdy tolled off the fatal count. He did not attempt to get up. The end came after two minutes and fifty seconds of fighting.

Stribling weighed in at 166½ pounds and Von Porat at 208, giving him a weight advantage of sixteen and one-half pounds.

DIEGEL AND MAC SMITH TIE FOR SECOND PLACE

Star Professionals Finish Two Strokes Behind Atlanta Ace; Jones's Record Brilliant

BY FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOYLAKE (Eng.) June 20. (AP)—Bobby Jones, scoring 291 and holding a two-stroke lead over Leo Diegel and Macdonald Smith, tied for second place, today won his third British open golf championship crown after one of the greatest battles of the golfing centuries.

Horton Smith and Fred Robson, veteran British pro, tied for fourth place with scores of 296 for the seventy-two holes of the championship competition. "Long Jim" Barnes, with 297, tied for sixth.

BOBBY JONES

With the amateur title taken last month at St. Andrews, Jones has matched the feat of the famous Hoylake amateur, John Ball, who, forty years ago won the British amateur and open titles the same year. Ball was in Hoylake today, but did not brave the surging crowd of nearly 10,000 which saw the breathless finish of Diegel, Mac Smith and Archie Compston, British golfing giant, which threatened to keep Jones away from his cherished double honor.

NINTH IN TEN YEARS

The Georgian takes the classic trophy to the United States for its ninth visit in ten years and he toppled another golf record by cutting ten strokes from the Hoylake mark of 301 which won the title for Walter Hagen here in 1924.

Tonight Bobby took the old trophy away to London where next week he will play in a couple of charity matches and will sail for home next Saturday night. He was so exhausted tonight from the stress and strain of his week at Hoylake that he was doubtful whether he would ever attempt another foreign crusade.

Britain's glory into day's thrilling fight went to Compston whose third round of 68 broke the Hoylake records by two strokes and revived

Homer With Bases Full in Eighth Ices 7-to-4 Triumph for Leliveltians

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. (Exclusive)—Los Angeles concentrated hits on Curtis Davis in two innings today and beat the Seals, 7 to 4. Angels now have a big bulge in the series, having won three of the games played.

Four runs scored by the Angels in the first inning were earned runs. No runs should have scored in that round. With one man out, Moore singled off Crosetti's shins and Dittmar was passed. Harper followed with a pop fly that fell between Baker and Sulik. The ball should have been caught for the second out. Jacobs struck out and that should have retired without a run. Then Schulmerich singled to right to score Moore and Dittmar.

There was nothing fluky about the five runs the Angels made in the eighth, however. Moore singled and was bunted to second by Dittmar. Harper singled to score Moore. Jacobs doubled and Schulmerich walked to fill the bases. Haney was out on a pop fly to Crosetti, but Warren slammed a home run over the right-field screen, driving three runners in ahead of him. Barfoot struck out to end the inning.

The Seals could do nothing with batboot until the seventh. Sheely was hit by a pitched ball to open the last half of that inning and Sulik bunted him to second. Baker singled to score him. Gaston popped

SHAMROCK V VICTOR IN YACHT RACE

Lipton's Craft Sails to Win in Contest Against Three English Boats

BANGOR (County Down, Ireland) June 20. (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, racing on a triangular thirty-mile course under conditions identical to those she will face in September at Newport in her challenge for the America's Cup, finished first this afternoon in a contest with three of Great Britain's fastest yachts.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON

The Shamrock was given victory by twelve seconds over the Cambria, which had received an allowance of eight and one-half seconds per mile at the start. The other yachts which raced were the Lulworth and the White Heather. Sir Thomas, who is confined to his home in Belfast with a slight illness, was unable to see the Shamrock V's fine showing.

SATURDAY, the 7th inst., Stagg Field, Chicago and Belmont Park, L. I., saw two notable races—one between men, the other between horses. In each race were two champions, meeting for the first time this year—Wykoff and Simpson in the 100-yard dash at the national collegiate meet, and Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Belmont Stakes. Simpson and Whichone were the favorites, and both were beaten. Frank Wykoff and Gallant Fox, the winners, each upset the dope in winning and also set new records in so doing. Now each stands in a class by himself, Wykoff as the "fastest human" and world's champion sprinter, and Gallant Fox as the fastest 3-year-old horse in America, champion of his age for 1930!

Frank Wykoff, the 20-year-old, won a medal and a lot of glory, while Gallant Fox, the 3-year-old, won $66,040 and a lot of glory, too. But Earl Sande, greatest of jockeys, shares in the Fox's triumph, also "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons, the trainer, and William Woodward, who bred the splendid animal. Wykoff's triumph is shared by his coach, Dean Cromwell, of the University of Southern California.

Wykoff's 100-yard victories for the year were won in a dual meet with California in the California intercollegiates, in the State relays at Fresno, and in a smashing record-equaling race in the I.C.4-A. meet at Cambridge, in which he defeated Tolan, accredited world's record-holder for the 100, and Dyer, who had beaten him on the Coast. But, of course, his greatest feat of

Lomski Holds Emanuel Even

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. (AP)—Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., and Armand Emanuel, Los Angeles, fought ten rounds to a draw here tonight in a bout that started slow, with the boys pummeling each other steadily in the closing sessions.

Emanuel, with a nine-pound weight advantage, was a 2-to-1 favorite in the betting, but he was barely able to pull out with a draw. He weighed 184 pounds, to 175 for the boxer from the Northwest.

Lomski set a swift pace, driving Emanuel around the ring, to win the last three rounds handily. Emanuel had the edge in enough rounds midway of the fight to give

POUGHKEEPSIE CREWS TAKE HARD WORKOUTS

POUGHKEEPSIE (N. Y.) June 20. (AP)—Coach Al Ulbrickson had his Washington crews out for a slow paddle on the Hudson River in preparation for the big regatta, this afternoon, but announced his intention of giving the varsity a time trial either tomorrow or Monday.

Morris was back at No. 2 oar in the varsity in place of Alcorn while O'Dell still rowed in place of Litchfield at No. 7.

The California varsity, having reached the peak of condition, in the opinion of Coach Ebright, called it a day after two short workouts. The Californians' men'or plans giving the varsity its last time trial early next week.

Mike Murphy sent his Wisconsin boatload through two rows over moderate distances. There were no changes in the boating.

Orange-tipped blades of Syracuse flashed over the river course today for the first formal time trial by the up-State institution. There was no time announced, but it was the general opinion in the rowing colony that the time was good. Syracuse now is shaping up with Cornell as "dark horse" of the regatta.

Coach Glendon made a shift in the navy junior varsity, Eddy going in at stroke in place of Crinkley, who went to No. 6 edging out Greathouse. Stinke went out of No. 5 and Quirk moved back from bow to fill the seat. Burdick, a substitute, went into the bow place.

A change also was made in the Pennsylvania varsity.

Massachusetts Tech. experienced ill luck when minor ailments forced two men out of the boat. Coach Haines had to put two freshmen in their places.

YALE CREW VICTORIOUS OVER HARVARD ROWERS

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW LONDON (Ct.) June 20. (AP) Eight young stalwarts, rowing with the automatic precision of robots as the sun glinted from their blue-tipped oars, swept down the old Thames River this evening to give Yale another magnificent victory over Harvard in this four-mile classic of American college rowing

For the ninth time in ten successive years, the roar of the crowd and the screeching din of a multitude of naval sirens acclaimed the Blue of Old Eli as conqueror of the Crimson in the concluding event of the sixty-eighth regatta for these ancient rivals.

Leading almost from start to finish, Yale broke the hearts of a game Harvard crew with one of the finest races ever witnessed on the picturesque course from Bartlett's Cove to the railroad bridge. The Elis swept past the judges' boat with a margin of fully five and a half lengths, leaving their rivals struggling in the rear as they rowed the second fastest race in the seventy-eight-year-old history of naval rivalry between Blue and Crimson.

Yale, brilliantly paced by Woodruff Tappen of Pleasantville, N. Y., at stroke, and by Capt. Gus Glasden of Greenwich, Ct., at the vital No. 7 post in the "engine room," covered the four miles downstream in 20m. 9 2-5s., just a few seconds short of Harvard's course record of 20:02 set in 1926.

Harvard, yielding the principal prize as Yale registered its only major sport conquest of the college year, nevertheless checked the Blue sweep by winning both preliminary races in the morning in sensational fashion.

The Harvard freshmen romped to victory over the Eli yearlings by a good three and a half lengths and finished an undefeated season. The Crimson junior varsity crew sprang a mild upset by jumping into an

Favorites Capture Matches in Second Round of California Invitational Tournam

SANGSTER SCORES WIN OVER JACK MACKEY

Potrero Youngster Plays Great Golf to Defeat Foe, 5 and 4; Eichelberger Trims Brown

BY BRAVEN DYER

Favorites found the going very much to their liking in the California Country Club invitational tournament, all leading golfers turning in victories in their second-round matches. Today will find those in the championship and first fight playing two rounds, one at 9:15 a.m. and the other after lunch. Finals in all flights are scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Danny Sangster, brilliant young Potrero golfer, continued his winning streak at the expense of Jack Mackey, 5 and 4, in a match which was featured by the victor's eagle three on the ninth hole.

GENE BROWN

Danny was even par at the time, and when he holed his chip shot from thirty yards off the green it gave him a 34 for the first nine and out him four up. Mackey made a birdie himself on the hole, which was plenty good, but distressingly futile in view of Sangster's eagle.

The Potrero star then parred the next five holes and when Mackey lost the fourth and only halved the fifth the match was over.

PLAYS MARSHALL

Sangster plays Cloyd Marshall this morning in what ought to be a corking match, and then faces the winner of the Harry Eichelberger-Nick Schaefer struggle in the afternoon.

Eichelberger had a tough time trimming young Gene Brown of California yesterday, being carried to the twentieth green before the latter succumbed. This was the nearest thing to an upset in the championship flight.

Schaefer took part in another extra-hole match, gaining his victory over Guy Hanson on the nineteenth.

Bill Jelliffe had a real battle with young Chuck Berdrow, winning 1 up after the two had battled on virtually even terms all the way. Berdrow violated one of the rules of golf on the tenth but Jelliffe said nothing and the hole was halved when Chuck sonk a sizable putt after dropping a beautiful pitch shot to the green from high up on the bank.

Jelliffe meets a fast-traveling visitor from the East, Bud Cantwell, this morning, and some folks say there may be an upset.

Lester Coleman turned in the most lopsided victory of the championship flight when he disposed of Jack Douglas, 7 and 6.

MORE STYMIES

One of the freaks of the day happened in the F. M. Slade-G. W. Brown match. Dr. Brown had three stymies on one hole Thursday. Yesterday he had several more. One came on the ninth hole. By this time the eminent medico had become rather weary of seeing his path to the cup blocked by his opponent's pellet, but he took one more crack at it and suffered the misfortune of seeing his rival's ball roll into the cup for a birdie.

Clarence Logue, Cope Norcross and D. L. Darsie will play off this morning at 10 o'clock for low gross prize of the consolation roundup. They tied yesterday with 78s. Rod Ferrand won low net when he shot a 77-10-67.

NIGHT FISHING FOR OCEAN PARK ANGLERS

With night service added to that of the regular daylight schedule for the benefit of those who cannot do their fishing in daytime, the Star of Scotland now in operation out of the Lick Pier at Ocean Park has opened a new field for the angler.

The schedule of water taxi service from the Lick pier to the big Star calls for service at short intervals nightly until the termination of the present season.

Anglers paying the huge craft a visit after dark during the past week the ship has been opened for night fishing, report the barracuda just as eager for the live bait under the glare of the flood of incandescent lights if not more so than during the day.

JONES ANNEXES BRITISH CROWN

British hopes by giving the blond giant a three-round aggregate of 215 and a one-stroke lead over the American amateur.

As Jones, paired with Pierre Hirigoyen of the Chantilly Club, France, finished his morning round in 74, the handclapping applause floating out over Hoylake was disturbed by the roars for Compston who was thundering along to finish with his brilliant 68.

British hopes rested in him this afternoon, but he floundered out in 43 and tumbled home in 39 for an 82. Jones, giving promise of great things with a birdie three at the second hole, shooting from a bunker 100 yards to the green and leaving himself a holeable putt, played steady Jones golf until disaster visited him at the eighth. So appalling was the downfall that the mighty Bobby marked a 7 on his card after being within a few yards of the green with his second shot. He missed a run up the sloping bank, then chipped feebly and was three yards short of the pin in four. His putt slipped past the can and from eight or ten inches away he moved his putter to tap the ball in—and was short of the hole.

Compston had blown up and Jones seemed likely to clinch the title in easy fashion until this surprising hole, the first he has ever scored in a 7 in all his illustrious golfing career in this country.

Jones's great reserve strength, nerve and golfing genius enabled him to finish the round in 75 strokes for a seventy-two-hole total of 291, with a steady string of fours on the homeward trek, broken only by one five. Horton Smith's third round of 78 practically put him out of the running and an outward 39 this afternoon settled his title aspirations, although he did have the satisfaction of finishing with an aggregate of 296.

Leo Diegel, Jim Barnes and Macdonald Smith were left to threaten Jones's position. The youthful Don Moe made his mark, but a combination of 76-80 today cut him out of the foremost group of Americans. Barnes's 72 this morning left him four strokes behind Jones for the finishing dash. Diegel needed a fourth round of 72 to beat Bobby and he all but did it but the five long finishing holes which alone total 2288 yards, were just too much for Leo in today's wind.

Mac Smith's chase after Jones was as spectacular as Diegel's, for this morning he was five strokes back of Bobby, a third round of 75 left him six strokes behind in what would seem a hopeless position, but Smith played in great style, scored a fine 71, and like Diegel, was faced with the problem of making two birdie threes at the finishing hole to tie. Each failed after great efforts and Jones, who had spent two anxious hours in the clubhouse, was called down to receive the trophy.

Don Moe, youthful Walker Cup player from Oregon whose boyish smile has earned him a circle of partisans here, turned in consistent golf to card his four-round total of 303.

Today he started his first round three over 4's for the first five holes despite having a birdie 4 on the long third. Pushing his drive to the right of the first green, Moe's recovery, a full iron, just missed reaching the carpet and he carded a 5.

He sliced his second drive, found a bunker on his second and three-putted after recovering for a 6.

A hook developed on the third, barely missing one of the numerous bunkers. He took two more to reach the green and then putted from eight yards for a birdie 4.

GETS BIRDIE 3

A 4 at the sixth resulted from a deadly accurate iron and at the seventh the youngster was out of bounds carding a 5. Three shots brought him to the eighth green where he two-putted, but he got his 4 on the ninth after holing a five-yarder for an out card of 40.

Coming home Moe got a birdie 3 and a par of like figure. A 5 again slipped into his card at the twelfth. Don barely missed an eighteen-foot putt for a 2 at the thirteenth and he needed three shots to reach the 511-yard fourteenth, where he was down in 5.

He played the fifteenth and sixteenth in 4 and 5 and finished the in route with a 4-4 for a 36-76—223.

Starting the afternoon eight strokes back of Compston and seven behind Jones, Moe had little chance of lifting the title, a 5 on the first not helping his frame of mind. On the second and third he evened 4's and he evened par at 3 for the fourth hole. A 5 and 6 slipped in when the youngster was off line and he went on to finish 5-4- for an outward journey of 41.

STRAIN SHOWS

The strain was beginning to tell on the youth and he turned in with 5-4-5, but on the thirteenth he evened par with a 3, his mashie being well up on the green from which he took the conventional two putts.

He birdied the long fourteenth, but again lapsed on the fifteenth, where he dropped a stroke to par.

Needing three 4's to get in under 80 the Oregonian slipped on the seventeenth, where a 5 resulted from an off-line drive and poor recovery, but he got his 4 at the clubhouse hole and ended his first quest for the British open title with a 41-39-80—303.

Wes Schulmerich is hitting well in the San Francisco ball park. The Angel outfielder has been hitting around the .500 mark this week and is now hovering close to .400 for the season.

Clubhead Low When Past the Contact Point

BY SOL METZGER

Here's another sketch of Miss Hicks smashing a drive the proverbial mile. She socks them about as far as any woman golfer. Note how low is her clubhead when well past the point of contact. Compare this sketch with the one shown yesterday and you'll see that her clubhead passes almost straight through the ball when she drives.

Rather good proof that J. Parmley Paret, tennis expert, knows something about the golf swing when he claims that, like the tennis stroke, the implement used to apply the force is at right angles to the direction line for a longer time than the exact moment of contact with the ball.

The next point in getting at a true picture of the swing, in order to solve the big problem of slicing, is to view it from another angle.

You will find a remedy for sand traps in Sol Metzger's new leaflet on "The Explosion Shot." Write for it in care of The Times and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

GOLF EXPERT PRAISES JONES

States equaled the record of John Ball, the great god of Hoylake golfers—a record that has stood for forty years—by winning the British amateur and British open championships in the same year. Jones won his first British open championship at Lytham, St. Anne's, in 1926 by the same score he made today, and his second at St. Andrews in 1927 with a score of 285.

Bobby won today only after a desperate fight, but he won by his courage and his putting. Except on the greens, I do not think he was his best self, although I admit that one sets a higher standard for him than for anyone else. But he putted magnificently and his cast-iron will to victory never deserted him. He fell down a little in the last round, but he recovered himself, and as the others all fell down sooner or later his brief lapse was of no importance.

A more desperately exciting morning of golf was never seen. Horton Smith started to play just after 8 o'clock. He began badly and went on to worse. His 78 for the third round was not good enough—nor was his 223 for the first three rounds.

Fred Robson, who came within the fraction of an inch of tieing Bobby yesterday, followed Smith. Robson played fine golf up to the pin, but it was too severe a test for a highly strung man of 45 years of age. His putting deserted him and he took a 78, bringing his score up to 221 for the three rounds, which meant that only by a miracle could he win.

Bobby once more showed himself eminently human in being frightened out of his life by the first three holes at Hoylake. A lucky escape from trouble at the first hole gave him his 4 and I began to fancy that he had conquered his hoodoo. But no. He was bunkered in the second, and took a 5. Then worse followed—a drive out of bounds, a loose brassie shot and a 6 at the third hole.

That was the old, old story—and so was what came next, for Bobby followed with a long burst of immaculate par golf, which took him to the turn in 37 and brought his score down to two under 4's with five to go. Then, just as he thought himself set for a 70, which would have made him safe, he lapped over those trying long holes which end the course and took four 5's in a row—not bad 5's, but still 5's—and that was 74 and 216 for the three rounds.

Heaven knows that seemed good enough, but it was not. Wild bursts of cheers from behind proclaimed that Archie Compston had gone magnificently and heroically mad and was putting England back into the picture. His 4-3, 4-2 gave him a gain of five strokes on Bobby and wiped off all the strokes he had been behind on the day before.

Compston then lapsed badly with a 6, but settled down at once to grand golf again and was out in 34. No human could keep this up and he had a 5 and a 6, on his return but the other three holes were good 4's. He went around in 68, broke the record by two shots and led Jones by one after the third round was ended for them.

Diegel also had a miraculous spell of golf. He was out in 33 and began the home run with 3-3-5-3, but for him, too, the strain was a little too much. An entirely superfluous 6 crept in where he might have had a 4 and he ended the round in 71, two strokes behind Bobby and three behind Compston.

In the final round, after lunch, Compston soon crashed. He missed a putt for his 4 at the first hole, and it seemed to upset him. His round was a melancholy row of 5's and he took 81.

Meanwhile, Bobby had for once started well—even very well—and everything was lovely till he took the most absurd 7 ever seen at the eighth. He was nearly on the green in 2. There were no bunkers and he had a simple forty-yard run up and yet took 7. That made 38 out and Bobby then took 4 at both short holes, but he buckled to like a hero, got four 4's and one 5 to end with and that was 75.

LAMAR IN RING WIN AT LEGION

Veteran Fighter Captures Decision Over Palacios in Hollywood Ten-Rounder

Johnny Lamar, holder of the synthetic Pacific Coast lightweight belt, won a ten-round decision over Teddy Palacios in a vicious fight at the Hollywood Legion last night.

The affair was even going into the eighth round. Lamar settled the outcome in the ninth. Palacios took two trips to the canvas, both for nine counts, in the fatal ninth, both times from hard rights and lefts to the head.

The youngster took another nine count in the tenth, which cinched the decision for Lamar.

Lamar was on the floor himself in the first round momentarily from a stiff right.

Tommy McGough took the nod over Sergio Redam in the six-round semi-wind-up. McGough had the Filipino on the floor for a six count in the first round, the result of a hefty left hook.

Russel Rowsey stopped Billy Wagner in the third round of the special event. Wagner hit the canvas for a six count in the first round and was on the floor in the third when the referee stepped in and stopped the scrap.

Bob Patrick beat Joe Soldivar over four rounds. Both were on the floor in the first, while Soldivar made another trip to the canvas in the fourth.

Vene Green won on a technical knockout over Al Fredericks in the fourth round of the curtain raiser.

"Dutch Ruether, Seattle ace, was on the losing mound. The game brought the series to Seattle, 3, Sacramento 2. The score:

JOE CHAMACO OUT TO CHALK UP VICTORY

Joe Chamaco will try to run his string of three-cushion billiard victories to fifteen next week, when he resumes play at the Stevens Billiard Palace Monday. The city champion, who has gone undefeated in two weeks of play and is taking on all comers, has won ten straight games. If he succeeds in besting all opponents this week, it is likely that he will be shipped to Denver for exhibitions at the Hostettler establishment there. After that, the western cue wielder is scheduled to journey to New York for further gathering of honors.

JUNIORS TO COMPETE

San Diego Holds Finals of Junior Olympic Games in Civic Stadium This Afternoon

SAN DIEGO, June 20.—Twenty-eight select athletes, champions of fourteen districts, playgrounds and schools of this county will gather for the annual San Diego county championship meet Saturday in the Stadium in the Junior Olympic Games.

The youngsters won their titles in a series of strenuous eliminations which lasted for nearly two months. The highest senior and junior will win trips to compete in the national finals at Atlantic City, N. J., July 7-12, inclusive.

EXPECT BIG DAY

Although scores have not been so "hot" in the qualifying meets this year, officials are pointing to a successful meet Saturday, as several of the athletes have added nearly 100 points to their point total. No official score yet has reached 600 points, although one youngster touched 700 points in a practice meet the other day that was conducted by Junior Olympic Games officials.

One of the outstanding individual feats in the qualifying round was turned in by Norman Rein who jumped 9ft. 5in. in the standing broad jump. Rein is from Central Playground and should be one of the favorites to annex the senior title in Saturday's meet. Rein totaled an even 600 points every time he had a test trial this year, but was able to score but 588 in winning his playground championship.

Another outstanding senior is Harry (Buddy) Noland from Memorial Playground, where most of the San Diego county champions have come. Tony Galasso, 1927 national senior champ, and Morris (Mushy) Pollock, national junior winner in 1928, both came from Memorial. Noland, while not outstanding in any of the five events, scored 598 points to win his title and the right to compete in the county meet. He jumped 8ft 8½in. in the standing broad jump, threw the baseball 300ft.; chinned himself twenty-five times; made twelve baskets, and ran the seventy-five-yard dash in 8 1-5s.

DEMANGO GOOD

Both Noland and Rein will find competition in Speto Demango, who represented this county in the junior division last year at Atlantic City. Demango won the senior championship at one of the playgrounds here and is figured by many to be one of the standouts.

The best battle will be staged among the juniors. Of the fourteen who qualified, not more than twenty points separate the field. One of the choices is Ferris Miles, a 12-year-old lad from Memorial who totaled 550 points. Young Miles, one of the smallest boys ever to compete in local Junior Olympic competition, jumped 7ft. 8¼in.; threw the baseball 196ft.; chinned himself twenty-four times; tossed in six baskets out of twenty and ran the dash in 8 3-5s.

Big Six

By the Associated Press

All the members of the Big Six family got into action on one afternoon yesterday and the result was a considerable upheaval in the standing.

Mickey Cochrane slammed out three hits in four times at bat, and Paul Waner hit two out of four and they rose to second and third places. Cochrane raised his average nine points to .404 while Waner jumped three points to .395.

Baseball Notes

Harry Rosenberg bounced back into the batting class when he smacked out four safe hits in six times to the plate on Thursday. Rosenberg's average advanced ten points to .404.

Meryl Hoag is the fourth Coast League player to pass the 100 mark in safe hits this season. The brilliant Sacramento outfielder brought his safe hit total up to 102 on Thursday when he hit safely three times. He boosted his league batting mark up to .381, placing fifth in the league averages.

Pitcher Yerkes got off to a good start with Los Angeles by winning his first game. He went in as a relief pitcher in the very first inning and finished up the game. Yerkes was recently acquired from Portland. Perhaps a change of scenery is what he needed.

Johnny Moore continues to drive the ball at a terrific clip. His batting average for the first three games this week was over .600. He clouted three home runs, bringing his total up to seventeen for the season. Ike Boone and Red Wingo are the only players to have hit more homers than the Angel outfielder.

Looks as though the Senators are hard up for relief pitchers when they start shooting the veteran Ray Keating into the line-up to finish up night contests. Keating was called in to relieve Thomas in the ninth inning along about 10 o'clock Thursday night and was defeated in the tenth inning. Keating has been used almost exclusively as a starting hurler this season and has a very wonderful record. It seems too bad that he has to be tossed into night games when another hurler begins to falter.

BUCS SELL CLARKE TO FORT WORTH

PITTSBURGH, June 20. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today sold Stuart Clarke, utility infielder to Fort Worth of the Texas League under option. Clarke, former Western League player, injured an ankle shortly after the season opened, and has not recovered sufficiently to take a place in the Pirate line-up.

Industrials in Contest Today

Track and field stars representing more than twenty-five business concerns of Los Angeles will demonstrate their athletic prowess this afternoon at the Los Angeles Junior College field, when the annual industrial track meet is staged under the direction of the City Playground and Recreation Department.

The industrial championship of the city will be at stake in all of the events carded for the afternoon. Unsung heroes among the clerks, truck drivers, salesmen, railroad men and other employees of the organizations will have the opportunity to achieve fame in their favorite track and field events against equal competition.

Among the well-known organizations represented in today's meet are the Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Telephone Company, Union Oil, Shell Oil, Hammond Lumber Company, Los Angeles Gas and Electric, Bank of America, Citizens' National Bank, fire department, Bureau of Power and Light and other big groups.

SIGHT YELLOWTAIL IN SANTA MONICA BAY

A number of schools of yellowtail have been sighted in Santa Monica Bay, it was declared yesterday by Capt. Jack Dugan of the Morris live-bait boats Morris Owl and Palisades. To date none of the fighting ocher-hued fish have been caught. A season pass will be awarded to the anglers who catch the first yellowtail from either of the boats.

The good run of fish still continues, large catches being made from both the boats and from the Challenger barge. A season pass also is up for the angler to make the first black sea bass catch from the Challenger.

Foul Tips

Jesse Hill is certainly clicking the apple for a young fellow breaking in. The former Trojan banged out a triple, double and a single in four times at bat yesterday to bring his average to a nifty .394. Hill has hit safely 26 times in 66 times at bat.

Dave Barbee, Bill Rumler and Mickey Heath all scored four runs yesterday to assist the Seals in their slugfest at Sacramento. Barbee and Heath got two hits apiece, Rumler clicked out three safeties, including two homers.

Mike Gazella made a neat stab of Milligan's line drive in the fifth inning. The ball looked labeled for two bases.

Hill steps around like a deer out in center field. He held Nuxhall to a single in the sixth with some fast fielding, while in the seventh he almost robbed Monroe of a double with a great running attempt to spear the line drive. But for the wall Hill would have made the catch, having to slow up just as he reached for the pellet.

Barbee's homer yesterday made it two in two days since he has joined the Hoaks. But Dave also dropped another fly in left field for a two-base error, which is not so good.

Frank Shellenback will be on the mound for the Mears today with George Jasper Caster slated to do the dipping for the Reds.

Al Wright, the lanky Mission shortstop, is only 17 years of age, but he has all the marks of a comer. Killefer signed Wright the last week in April after he'd graduated from Lowell High in San Francisco.

Billy Evans, Cleveland official and scout, and Dick Kinsella, veteran Giant ivory hunter, were visitors at Wrigley Field yesterday. Evans would like to nick up another Averill out this way, while Kinsella is looking over Rosenberg, the hard-hitting Mission fly chaser.

Mulligan fanned in the third inning yesterday but reached second base on the strikeout. Bassler let the ball get by him and they threw past Heath in an effort to retire Mulligan, at first.

Al De Hoag, the former Oxy southpaw, who was one of the Mission hurlers yesterday, pitched two hours of batting practice before the game, which in some measure accounts for his inability to get the ball over the plate. At that De Hoag didn't look at bad as Nelson, who replaced him.

man on some other basis than a technicality, Schmeling announced he would fight Sharkey under certain conditions. Only two of these stipulations were named.

The conqueror of Sharkey on a foul in four rounds at the Yankee Stadium June 12 demanded, first, that he receive his immediate and outright release from Arthur Buelow, German manager, whom he deposed over a year ago, but whose contract with Schmeling does not expire until October 13.

Secondly, he "will have no part of Graham McNamee as a radio announcer," on the grounds that the National Broadcasting Company speaker favored Sharkey in their first meeting and made many errors in describing the bout.

Schmeling lused his proclamation through his manager of choice, Joe Jacobs, whose actions in the ring the 12th inst., when Referee Jimmy Crowley was beset by doubts and trouble following the low blow, probably won the German the battle. He left the matter of the Buelow settlement up to Madison Square Garden as well as the problem of finding a suitable broadcaster for the September show.

Fight critics believe Schmeling and Sharkey will fight their return engagement in September, provisos or no provisos, and that the Garden will have little trouble meeting either the conditions named or those left unsaid.

Schmeling's change of heart follows the commission meeting yesterday where the German youth was granted title recognition, but advised to clear that claim with the boxing public by fighting Sharkey again before the end of the summer.

Previously Schmeling had intended to tour the hinterlands appearing in exhibitions, vaudeville and moving pictures with no serious ring engagements planned until next summer.

CARDS COP

ST. LOUIS, June 20. (AP)—With a regular infield on duty for the first time in several weeks, the St. Louis Cardinals opened a long home stand by defeating Philadelphia here today, 7 to 5.

Frankie Frisch, out for nearly two weeks from injuries, was back at second base, but only one regular outfielder, Taylor Douthit, was doing duty.

Jim Lindsey, big Cardinal relief hurler, went to the aid of Grabowski, and was credited with the win.

The game stopped frequently for arguments, one of which resulted in Manager Street of the Cardinals and Ray Blades being ordered from the field. Score:

RABBIT PUNCHES

PAUL LOWRY

BOBBY DOES IT

THERE are no more worlds for Bobby Jones to conquer in England this year. By adding the British open to the British amateur crown the stocky Georgian scored two goals.

He completed successfully the program he mapped out for himself when he left American shores a few weeks back, and he equaled the feat that only one other man in history has achieved.

Not since 1890 has any other golfer won both of Britain's classics in a single year. Forty years ago John Ball turned the trick, and Bobby Jones is the first man to duplicate the performance.

It goes without saying that the peerless Bobby is the only American who has ever done it.

His victory at Hoylake gives the Georgian three legs on the British crown—also a record.

He won in 1926, 1927 and repeated this year.

Incidentally, his total score of 291 for the 72-hole test is the same which brought him home triumphant in 1926.

And it may not be remiss to remark that if the British bookies let themselves in for much of that 10-to-1 money Bobby wouldn't win the open after capturing the amateur, they are a sorry lot today.

And I wonder what they think of that 40-to-1 Bobby won't win the four major crowns of the year—British amateur and open, American amateur and open.

It looks as if he's dormie—two up and two to play.

THE "FASTEST HUMAN"

THE new world's "fastest human" returned from the East yesterday and the home-town folks gave him a rousing reception.

They had the Mayor meet him, paraded him through town and then put on a banquet in his honor.

There was a time when Frank Wykoff would have blushed mightily at all these manifestations—he may still do it inwardly—but Glendale began putting on the business for her son back in 1928, and Frank's getting used to it now.

Two years ago Wykoff made the Olympic team, and he was only a high school boy then. He was known as the Glendale grayhound who won four 100-meter races in a row in 10 3-5s. from the country's best sprinters at Boston.

There was reason for cheering him.

This time it's because he demonstrated to the East that he is the real world's champion over the 100-yard route.

He has twice traveled the century this year in new record time of 9 2-5s., once at Occidental in the A.A.U. meet and once at Chicago.

He beat Tolan, Simpson, Bracey, Leland, Toppino and others at Chicago. He proved that he is the real king, and to the winner belongs the spoils.

ON THE DOWNGRADE

PAULINO UZCUDUN, the Basque, seems to be headed for rapid oblivion as a heavyweight contender.

He was beaten so easily by Johnny Risko at Detroit the other night that he no longer rates serious consideration.

Three years ago, the Basque was one of the best, but his rugged constitution appears to have worn under incessant pounding, and minus this attribute he's like a ship without a rudder.

THE FOURTH "TRY"

MACK HOUSE, the black heavyweight, must have heard the old saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Otherwise, how can one account for the fact that he finally knocked out his black rival, Neil Clisby?

Three times in a row House, nemesis of warriors Clisby couldn't lick, was stopped cold by Clisby.

But at Pasadena the other night, House got even. He flattened Clisby in three rounds.

TOILERS WIN FINALE FROM FRANKLIN, 8-2

Manual Arts High's baseball team won their final game of the season in the Major City League yesterday afternoon on its home field, subduing the Franklin High nine by the score of 8 to 2. The Toilers were never headed at any stage of the game, and the Kiteflyers committed four errors in the field to two for Manual Arts to help matters along.

Sass of Manual Arts hurled a nice game, allowing but five hits, which accrued two runs for Franklin, while the Toiler bats were nicking the offerings of Redondo for eleven hits and eight runs. Rhein of Manual was the hitting star of the game, getting three hits in five times at bat. Allaire of Franklin secured two hits in four bats. Small of Manual knocked out a triple.

Scoring seven runs in the eighth inning, the Los Angeles High Romans walloped the Hollywood Redshirts, 15-6, yesterday in the final game of the Major City League. The game was played on the Redshirt diamond and was marked by the heavy hitting of both teams. Dedeaux, Hollywood shortstop, won the league batting championship, having a grand average of over .500. Dedeaux banged out three hits in four trips to the plate yesterday, among them being a homer.

Farraris, Roman shortstop, led his team's hitting with four blows in six tries. Fitch, also of Los Angeles High, had a perfect day at the plate, getting three for three.

big Sheik rally before he retired after sending in two runs and leaving the bases bulging and none away. In justice to De Hoag, though, it must be admitted that he didn't get a real chance for he spent two hours pitching to the batters before yesterday's game and that undoubtedly took most of the steam out of his souper.

Killefer finally shoved in Nelson to finish the debacle and he was even worse than his predecessors. He yielded three more hits and those, with three walks and a hit batsmen, completed the biggest scoring round of the season at Wrigley Field.

The Stars got a total of thirteen hits off Lieber, De Hoag and Nelson. Bill Rumler leading the attack with two homers and a single, driving in five runs and scoring four himself. Dave Barbee also hit a homer, his second since joining the Sheiks Thursday.

Jesse Hill, the young collegian from U.S.C., also got three hits to continue his spectacular work. Hill's hits included a triple, double and a single, while he handled six chances without a bobble in center field. Quite a comer is young Mr. Hill and already he's a favorite with Wrigley Field patrons.

Inasmuch as that eleven-run rally in the eighth was the big feature of the day we'll divulge the gory details and let the rest of the scoring be forgotten.

Brannan led off with an double to start the fireworks and Barbee walked. Rumler's single scored Brannan and put Barbee on third, Bill taking second on the throw-in. Heath walked, filling the bases, and then De Hoag let go a wild pitch to score Barbee. When Bassler walked to again bulge the bags, De Hoag was replaced by Nelson. Gazella came through with a double off the center-field wall and Rumler and Heath romped over the plate. Turner's sacrifice fly scored Bassler and moved Gazella to third. Hill doubled to score Gazella. After Lee went out, Brannan and Barbee walked and Rumler was hit to force Hill in with a run. Heath walked to force in another tally and then Bassler delivered a single to center that counted Barbee and Rumler. Heath came in with the eleventh run of the round, when young Wright threw Gazella's hot grounder away. Nelson fanned Turner to finally bring the lengthy round to a close. Score:

DEMAND AT HIGH POINT ON ORANGES

Shortage of Supply Boosts California Crop Prices

Demand for California oranges has been considerably in excess of the supply during the past month, which has resulted in the highest prices of the season, Dana C. King, orange sales manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, announced yesterday.

May is one of the largest consuming months of the year, Mr. King said, and this season, due to Florida finishing its shipments by April 15, the lighter navel crop, the reduction in the supply from Central California, and the lateness of the Southern California Valencias in maturing, the shipments for May were much below the normal percentage of the crop movement.

Orange shipments from all sources for May totaled 6822 cars, as compared with 11,540 cars in 1929, and 5967 cars in 1928. To the 7th inst., 31.32 per cent of the exchange Valencia crop, based on the estimate of the 1st inst., of 17,398 cars, has been shipped. Last year to the same date, 17.98 per cent of the crop of 27,892 cars had gone forward.

"If the exchange growers will realize that even a light crop must be properly distributed over the next five months and will lend their support, they can be assured of a very satisfactory marketing season on the remainder of the Valencia crop," said Mr. King. "We have the responsibility to the consumer to keep Sunkist oranges in the markets 365 days in the year."

Universal Oil Pays Regular

Richfield's holdings of Universal are, according to the latest information, approximately 358,104 shares, or 51 per cent. The payment of the quarterly dividend will amount to a cash disbursement to Richfield of about $179,052.

MONEY TREND HELPS BONDS

Declining Interest Rates Spur Buying of Fixed Income Securities; Foreign Issues Expected

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Further recognition by the Federal Reserve Board of the declining trend of interest rates is additional testimony of the favorable outlook for the bond market. The lowering of the New York rediscount rate to 2½ per cent, lowest in Federal Reserve history, is official confirmation of the depths to which time and call money rates have fallen in the last few months.

With interest rates at the present levels, the institutional buyers of bonds have become active purchasers of long-term obligations. This demand for bonds has imparted noticeable strength to the market, and will undoubtedly continue so long as time money rates remain at low levels.

BANK DOLLAR UP

The fall of commodity prices also is stimulating buying of bonds. The purchasing power of fixed income obligations is increased by the commodity price decline, which accounts for the increasing favor with which investors are looking at bonds. Because, however, of the widely publicized theory that sound common stocks are more attractive than bonds in periods of both rising and falling commodity prices, it is not likely that investors will entirely desert the common-stock field for the bond market.

Underwriters and distributors of bonds are not yet fully able to take advantage of the new set of economic conditions in favor of the bond business. The fact that interest rates are dragging on the bottom is evidence of the apathetic state of general business and the absence of demand for new capital. Investment bankers find themselves in the dilemma of having buyers ready and willing to purchase, but their shelves are not well stocked with new goods.

Since the successful flotation of the German loan, the underwriters are hopefully looking for a revival of foreign financing in this market. Foreign governments, municipalities and corporations are virtually the only likely source of any material amount of new financing, and the realization of this business will not be frowned upon by the impatient investment banking fraternity.

First to follow the German loan is short-term financing in this market for the Greek government. An issue of $7,500,000 5½ per cent secured treasury notes, due in 1931, has been privately placed by a group of American banking houses. Later in the year it is understood that a larger long-term loan will be floated by the Greek government in the American market.

During the first quarter of this year new financing by domestic borrowers has been heavier than in the same period last year, but this trend is not expected to continue throughout the year. Public utilities and municipalities have been the principal borrowers, much of the public utility business coming from the expansion in natural gas operations.

Refunding operations have been relatively light. Much of the refunding to take advantage of lower interest rates was done last year, but it is likely that the recent dip in the price of capital will encourage a revival of refunding later in the year.

Midyear Trade Let-Down Noted by Bradstreets

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Trade has tended to quiet further and industry in several lines has taken on many of the appearances of midyear slackness. The chief exceptions to the generally quiet trend were in lightweight summer wearing apparel and vacation goods, owing to sales announced by department stores and other large retailers who had begun to lighten stocks.

Accentuating the quieting trend somewhat in the cities was the continued liquidation in the stock market, while rural trade was affected by the downward trend of farm products, which generally felt the burden of large stocks or the generally favorable outlook for the growing crops. In the cereal markets wheat, corn and other grains made new lows for the year or longer periods. Live stock and their products were also easier.

Iron and steel prices did not ease greatly except some old materials, while in the nonferrous metals copper showed renewed weakness, declining to prewar levels. The rally in the stock market in midweek seemed a signal for stiffening prices of many commodities with rather better buying of raw materials in many directions.

Gross revenues for the five months were estimated at more than $66,600,000 against $74,749,790 for the same period a year ago. Net railway operating income for the five months was estimated at about $8,340,000 against $11,362,428 last year.

BANK BOARD GETS VIEWS OF ROBINSON

Security-First Chairman Says Net Income to Show Gain on Last Year

Henry M. Robinson, chairman of the board of the Security-First National Bank, in a review of operations of the bank during the present quarter to directors yesterday reported that earnings have been satisfactory and that it is estimated that despite lower interest rates on loaned funds, net profits after all charges, reserves and dividends will be higher than for the corresponding period last year.

"For the first time since the consolidation of the former Security Trust and Savings Bank and the Los Angeles-First National Trust and Savings Bank, it is possible to set up a comparison of earnings with the corresponding period of the previous year," Mr. Robinson said.

"The effect of the lower interest rates on our loaned funds, especially on call loans, etc., has been to lower the average interest rate on the total earnings assets of the bank below that of the corresponding period of last year. It is, however, estimated that the net profits of the bank, after paying all operating expenses and after setting up the customary ample reserves for interest to depositors, dividends to stockholders, taxes, depreciation, losses, etc., will be higher than for the corresponding period last year.

"The value of the consolidation in effecting reduction in cost of operations is clearly evidenced by the satisfactory earnings for the period under review. It is well to bear in mind the statement made by President Sartori in his annual report, that it would take two or three years to feel the full effect of these economies, but their effect has already been substantial and gratifying and will continue."

The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.12 a share, which includes a dividend from the Security-First National Company as well as from the bank. The dividend is payable July 1 to stock of record the 20th inst.

OLD TARIFF IDEA ASSAILED

Reserve Bank Governor Heretical in Views on Best Way to Solve Surplus Problem

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, June 20.—Owen D. Young's San Francisco speech centered on the whole problem of the surplus, and covered "the surplus in wheat, cotton, copper, oil, automobiles and unemployed plants and men."

What shall we do with the surplus in cotton and wheat—burn or export it? To burn the excess wheat and cotton while men are hungry and underclothed "will start a conflagration which we cannot stop," said Mr. Young. Export is the answer. Selling surplus goods is a sensitive business. It requires tact, judgment and experience and daring confidence in dealing with potential buyers.

"One cultivates his potential buyers. He does not rebuff them. He seeks their friendship, and their good will. If they need credit, he extends it. If they have goods which he can take in exchange without curtailing the business of his own country, he makes it a point to take them," said Mr. Young.

So a national policy dealing with the surplus is badly needed, according to Mr. Young, particularly a "tariff policy as distinguished from a tariff bill."

Some day the American policy—political and business — will deal more effectively with this question —already a major problem.

Mr. Young's remarks will bring this vitally important subject more speedily into the spotlight.

The resignation yesterday of Dr. Paul Moldenhauer, German Minister of Finance, was due to inability to secure a free hand in cutting down governmental expenses, which the last Gilbert report suggested as absolutely necessary for the country's stability.

Germany's business conditions today are suffering as are the conditions in other nations, with the unemployment dole growing and becoming a serious factor in budget stability.

A strong man is needed at this time, and reports are that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the former head of the Reichsbank, considered one of the strongest figures in business and finance in the republic, may be asked by Premier Bruening to take over the finance portfolio.

When Dr. Schacht retired as president from the Reichsbank, it was reported that he was politically ambitious. Dr. Schacht's well-known resentment against the Young plan, as well as his strenuous opposition to promiscuous foreign borrowing, has earned him the opposition particularly of the Socialists who have, since the war, been in favor of more and more borrowing to upbuild their industries and at the same time provide more and better jobs for labor.

Germany faces in the coming year the hardest task in budget balancing, since the mark stabilization in 1924.

When stocks drop, one often reads: "Banking support has been withdrawn from the market!"

This term is a false one. Technically, commercial banks do not buy common stocks for investment. They are not allowed to do so by law.

The term "banking support withdrawn" means something else. What is it?

In a word, it signifies that the banks, which are carrying loans for customers, secured by common stock collateral, have begun to sell out the collateral because the equities have become too thin.

Many persons caught in the crash of last fall went to their banks and borrowed money on their stocks, hoping that the stocks would recover later. Some sold out as prices increased and charged the loss, if any, to experience. Others held on. These are the ones that are now being sold out.

One banker told me that hundreds of these accounts have been closed out in the last ten days.

CHASE BANK OFFICER ON RAIL BOARD

C. S. McCain of Louisiana and Arkansas Elected to Rock Island Directorate

NEW YORK, June 20.—A step more closely relating the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific and the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway and giving the Chase National Bank further representation in the railroad field, was disclosed today in the announcement that Charles S. McCain, chairman of the board of the Chase, had been elected to the board of the Rock Island. Mr. McCain is a director of the Louisiana and Arkansas, an important line assigned the Rock Island in the Interstate Commerce Commission's consolidation plan.

Recently, Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase governing board, was elected to the board of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

The management of the three important roads in the proposed Rock Island system is now well interlocked. E. N. Brown, chairman of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, is chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island, the Frisco owning 183,000 shares of Rock Island stock. Dillon, Read and Co., who underwrote an issue of Louisiana and Arkansas bonds early this year, is represented on the Frisco board through E. C. Frank, vice-president of the United States and International Securities Corporation, which has investments in both the Frisco and Rock Island. Last week the Frisco elected Harvey C. Couch, president and a director of the Louisiana and Arkansas Company, to the Frisco directorate.

Rediscount Rate at Chicago Falls; Berlin Also Acts

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Reduction of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent was announced here today by the Federal Reserve Board. The new rate which applies to all classes of maturities will take effect tomorrow. The 4 per cent rate has been in effect since February 8, last, having been reduced at that time from 4½ per cent.

Federal Reserve banks at Cleveland and Boston are established on a 3½ per cent rate while the remainder of the twelve districts are on a 4 per cent basis.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The Federal Reserve Bank here made no announcement today regarding its rediscount rate of 4 per cent.

BERLIN, June 20.—Reichsbank reduced its discount rate today from 4½ to 4 per cent.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 20. (AP)—It was sloppy weather on the curb market again today after yesterday's brief interval of sunshine. Trading was comparatively quiet and leading stocks received little support. Total sales barely exceeded 1,000,000 shares.

Aluminum Company, in which the market is thin, tumbled 45 points to 210, a 1930 low, 146 points from the year's best level. The stock broke on a few sales, the decline apparently reflecting merely an absence of bids.

The utilities were again heavily sold. Electric Bond and Share dropped 4 points to within three of its recent low, and American Gas lost nearly as much. American Superpower lost 2 points and Standard Light "B" new dropped 9 to a new low at 55. U. S. Electric Power reached new low ground at 12¼. United Light "A" lost about 1 points, while the "B" shares gained in a few sales.

The oils attracted somewhat better support than other groups. Gulf sold up 5½ points, then lost its gain and closed unchanged.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low and both low and close when same as the high.

Adverse Report Made Senate on Shipstead Bill

WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—An adverse majority report of the Judiciary Committee and a favorable minority report on the Shipstead bill to limit the use of injunctions in union labor disputes were submitted today to the Senate.

The majority report was a supplemental one, the measure having been reported adversely some time ago, with the understanding it be discussed early in the next session.

The majority felt the bill would give rise to problems "more grievous" than those it seeks to solve and suggested further study. Senator Steiwer, Republican, Oregon, submitted their views.

The minority, through Chairman Norris of Nebraska, urged curbing the action of judges in union labor disputes, asserting working men have been harmed by court interference.

J. W. McDonald, the Liberal leader, was defeated by W. H. Shield of the United Farmers.

Two Members Dropped from Osteopathic Unit

Woman Accused of Lack of Co-operation

What portends to be a forerunner of a general shake-up in the personnel of the Los Angeles County General Hospital came yesterday when Dr. N. N. Wood, superintendent of the institution, suspended Dr. Anna S. Hohanshelt, former chief resident medical physician, and two surgeons.

Under the order of the superintendent Dr. Hohanshelt's suspension is for ten days, without pay, with her dismissal at the end of the period. In his letter notifying her of her suspension Dr. Wood accuses Dr. Hohanshelt of "habitual disloyalty, insubordination and lack of co-operation."

The ten days' suspension is given Dr. Hohanshelt to give her time before her dismissal to file her reply with the Civil Service Commission.

The two staff physicians dismissed are Dr. Harry W. Forbes and Dr. Norman S. Sprague, members of the osteopathic unit, who serve without pay. They were dismissed on recommendation of Dr. George W. Woodbury, medical superintendent of hospital unit No. 2. They are accused of lack of co-operation with other members of the staff.

Following the dismissal of Dr. Sprague and Dr. Forbes, Supt. Wood named Dr. E. B. Jones to succeed Dr. Sprague and Dr. E. S. Merrill to take the place of Dr. Forbes. Both appointments, however, are emergency.

DEMOTED IN JANUARY

Dr. Hohanshelt was demoted by Dr. Wood January 1, last, from chief resident medical physician to a member of his office staff. The reduction of her rank brought down considerable criticism on the head of the superintendent. It culminated in a visit of George Hahn, a member of the grand jury, on Supervisor Shaw wherein he demanded the reinstatement of Dr. Hohanshelt to her former position. According to the Supervisor, Hahn declared he would ask that the grand jury recommend the the dismissal of Dr. Wood as superintendent of the hospital unless Dr. Hohanshelt was reinstated.

Later Dr. Wood called at the office of Supervisor Shaw relative to making changes in the administrative staff of the hospital. At this visit Shaw pointed out to Dr. Wood that, under a county ordinance, he alone, as superintendent of the institution, is responsible for its operation and that he has the right to hire and fire whom he pleases when, in his belief, it is for the efficient operation of the hospital.

"With this assurance Dr. Wood returned to the hospital and began making the changes in his staff as outlined above.

NEW INQUIRY HINTED

From members of the grand jury it was learned that Dr. Wood's action may precipitate a renewal of the General Hospital investigation. One member of the hospital committee declared he will insist upon an inquiry to ascertain why three General Hospital physicians who testified before the grand jury should be dismissed as disloyal because they told what they know of conditions.

Members of the grand jury committee already have declared they will demand certain radical changes in the administration of the institution's affairs in their report to the Board of Supervisors.

A reply to all charges made against her will be filed by Dr. Hohanshelt with the Civil Service Commission, she said last night, and she will specifically deny the accusations of disloyalty.

"I do not like the notoriety of the entire matter," the physician said, "and I knew that I would lose my position when I testified before the grand jury and told the truth. I agreed to tell the truth and took an oath and naturally I gave the grand jury what I believe to be the true situation at the hospital. I have been associated with men of military training long enough to know that action would be taken dismissing me from the hospital after I testified before the grand jury."

In making known her intention of answering the charges under which she has been suspended the doctor said: "I will, of course, answer the charge of disloyalty. I feel that I have been loyal to the patients, to the county and to the taxpayers, and that I only did my duty in agreeing to tell the grand jury the truth."

Water Development Start Awaits Engineers' Word; Mayor Fools Natives by Riding Mule

BY CHESTER G. HANSON
"Times" Staff Representative

BISHOP, June 20.—Mayor Porter of Los Angeles fooled the natives up here by riding a mule up a mountain trail above Big Pine and back again to get here in time for the Rotary Club luncheon at which he and members of his party were guests.

His Honor is trying to figure out why he drew the mule for the mountain ride up to the city's proposed power plants when the rest of the party drew horses. At the luncheon it was suggested to him that it might have been some one in the City Council who maneuvered the deal. Outside of being a bit slow the mule was all right, the Mayor said with a laugh.

The party looked at the power site as part of their inspection tour of the city's proposed water and power development in the Owens Valley and Mono basin. Included in the party are water and electrical engineers of the city, representatives of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and city water and power commissioners. Particular attention is being given to hydro-electric development in relation to the proposed $19,000,000 power bonds.

During the after-luncheon speaking, Mayor Porter told the club members that as soon as possible actual work will be undertaken on the development program, but just how soon is a matter for the engineers to say.

"In voting the water bonds by such an overwhelming majority," he said, "the people of Los Angeles have expressed their intention to treat the people of this valley right. They want this thing settled right. When I was up here last fall I told you that I would use all my efforts

PROSECUTOR SHELLEY DIES

Veteran of District Attorney's Office Will Be Paid Last Honors This Afternoon

Fred Shelley, for ten years one of the star prosecutors of the District Attorney's office, died early yesterday morning in the Hollywood Hospital after a two weeks' illness. Attending physicians say death probably was caused by complications arising from a serious attack of asthma and stomach ailment.

When stricken Shelley was directing the grand jury investigation into conditions at the General Hospital. He had been assigned to the grand jury department almost continuously since Dist. Atty. Fitts took office.

FRED SHELLEY

The veteran prosecutor was born in Texas fifty-eight years ago. After completing his legal training he soon distinguished himself by becoming District Attorney of Cochise county, Arizona. Twenty-two years ago Mr. Shelley came to Los Angeles for his health, where he soon became a prominent figure in politics, once serving as chairman of the county Democratic Central Committee.

On joining the District Attorney's staff ten years ago Mr. Shelley played a prominent part in the prosecution of numerous criminal cases, including Bluebeard Watson. During the original Julian crash investigation and prosecution Mr. Shelley was given the task of pre-

HOLLAND FOES GET SETBACK

Petition Circulators Lose Most of Names Because of Technical Mistake

Due to an error on the part of the petition circulators, the recall petition recently filed against Councilman Holland of the Fourteenth District received a serious setback yesterday.

City Clerk Domingues reported to the City Council that the petition is insufficient to call the election. The petition, which contained 5000 names, had only 791 valid signatures which he could certify, Domingues reported. To call the election 3763 valid signatures are required.

The committee which filed the petition, however, has ten days in which to file a supplemental petition to bring up the total.

Domingues was required to make this report on the basis of an opinion from Deputy City Attorney

EX-WIFE HANGS WALLOP ON COUNCILMAN BARTHEL

Councilman Julius C. Barthel's face was damaged yesterday when he encountered his former wife, Mrs. Letitia Barthel Winn, in the corridor outside of Superior Judge Blake's court in the City Hall tower. The present Mrs. Barthel escaped similar injury by nimble dodging until an elevator bore her and the Councilman from the arena.

Barthel and Mrs. Winn had met in Judge Blake's court a few minutes earlier. Judge Blake agreed to hear Barthel's appeal for a new trial, next Tuesday, on the matter of paying $2400 back alimony. Mrs. Winn won a judgment for that amount on April 30, last, when she complained that Barthel had not paid any of the $50 a month ordered in 1921 when they were divorced. Barthel contends that his former wife remarried, and that the alimony was to run only as long as she needed it for support.

Councilman and Mrs. Barthel walked out of the courtroom followed by Mrs. Winn, who upbraided him for failure to pay. Then she swung a convincing right. Blood appeared on Barthel's face. Mrs. Winn moved toward Mrs. Barthel, who dodged while spectators yelled for police. Bailiff Danielson dashed into the hall, and restrained Mrs. Winn while the Barthels took refuge in an elevator.

NEW BUDGET RETURNED TO PORTER

Mayor Expected Back from Trip in Time to Act on Adoption

The resolution adopting the budget, as revised by the City Council, was adopted yesterday by the Council and returned to Mayor Porter. The Mayor is absent on a trip over the Tioga Pass Highway. He has five days in which to approve or veto the budget. While he is gone, Council President Sanborn is Acting Mayor. Sanborn, however, says he will not act upon the budget, as Mayor Porter probably will return before the five days allowed by the charter for his action elapse.

Budget Director Knox returned from his vacation yesterday and said he believes the city's revenue will remain at the figure estimated in the Mayor's original budget, and that the $993,340 cut made by the Council is unnecessary.

PENALTIES VOTED BY BAR

Governors Recommend Disbarment of E. S. Green; Bid Made for National Convention

Edmund S. Green of the Los Angeles bar, editor of Green's Digest of the Law of California and known as one of the State's leading legal authorities, was recommended for disbarment yesterday by the board of governors of the State Bar of California, meeting in the courtroom of the District Court of Appeal, Associated Realty Building.

Moral turpitude, dishonesty and corruption were charged. The board's recommendation will go to the State Supreme Court for final action.

John F. Clark of the Los Angeles bar was ordered publicly reprimanded. He was declared to have indorsed and collected checks of clients without authority. The board also decided in favor of the suspension for one year of D. L. Shaw of the Los Angeles bar. Shaw was accused of having figured in a number of ambulance chasing cases. It was testified that he had lent the use of his name to an unlicensed person for the purpose of practicing law.

Suspension of 137 attorneys for failure to pay their 1930 dues was also decided upon.

The board extended a formal invitation to the American Bar Association to hold its 1932 convention in Los Angeles. This action follows that of the Los Angeles County Bar Association in inviting the national body to meet here two years hence. It was pointed out that the national organization met in California last in 1922, when it held forth in San Francisco.

The schedule for the election of successors to eight members of the board whose terms expire with the annual convention in September at Pasadena, was announced. It was stated that nomination petitions may be filed between July 10 and July 30, next. The deadline for the receipt of ballots was set as September 8. Ballots will be

BATTLE FLEET VAN AT ANCHOR

First of Dreadnaught Wing Back at Harbor

Tars Cheer as Lookouts Hail Familiar Shores

Squadron Will Straggle in Until 29th Inst.

BY WALDO DRAKE

Under low-hanging skies as gray as their own somber hue four dreadnaughts of the battle fleet returned to San Pedro at dawn yesterday, vanguard of the mighty armada which is straggling home after a 15,000-mile training cruise in the Caribbean Sea and North Atlantic.

Joyful shouts of "Boy! there's them hills, still there!" came from the deck of the fleet flagship California as sun-tanned youngsters clustered in her bow watched the familiar slopes of the cloud-capped Palos Verdes take shape through the morning mist. A moment later tons of chain rattled through her hawse pipe as her anchor dropped down to the old holding ground.

OTHERS FOLLOW

Immediately following the California to anchor were the battleships West Virginia, Tennessee and New Mexico, while an hour later there steamed in the prosaic train squadron, including the hospital ship Relief, the train flagship Procyon and the mine sweepers Brant and Tern.

Three more battleships, the Maryland, Oklahoma and Nevada, are due this afternoon after assisting the aircraft carrier Saratoga in target practice off Los Coronados Islands. Other ships, delayed on the Atlantic or on detached duty on this coast, will arrive at scattered intervals during the next two months.

CALIFORNIANS ALL

Of singular interest to Californians is the fact that of the five admirals now flying their broad pennants from battleship trucks all are veterans of several previous tours of duty with the fleet based at Los Angeles Harbor. They include:

Admiral Frank H. Schofield, new commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, flying his four-starred flag aboard the California. Admiral Schofield comes to his present post from command of Battleship Division Four, and previously was commander of the battle fleet destroyer squadrons.

Vice-Admiral Richard H. Leigh, new commander of the battleship divisions, with the West Virginia as his flagship. Admiral Leigh brought the dreadnaught Tennessee here in 1920 as her first captain, and later was chief of staff to Admiral Charles F. Hughes when Admiral Hughes commanded the fleet.

ADMIRAL CHRISTY

Rear-Admiral Harley H. Christy, commanding Battleship Division Four; flagship New Mexico. Admiral Christy formerly commanded the California and has just assumed his present duty after relief by Rear-Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle as commander of Battleship Division Three. Admiral Pringle, whose temporary flagship is the Maryland, is well known in local navy circles as former commander of the battleship Idaho, and prior to that duty served with the destroyer squadrons.

This unusual circle will be complete on the 29th inst. when the Texas arrives from Panama carrying Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet. Admiral Pratt has spent the major part of the past ten years on sea duty based at Los Angeles Harbor, rising in flag commands from head of Battleship Division Three to command of the dreadnaught squadron, and then the battle fleet before assuming his present post. On October 10, next, when Admiral Pratt is relieved here by Admiral Jehu V. Chase, he goes to Washington as chief of naval operations, highest duty possible to an American naval officer.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

The battle fleet will sail for various Fourth of July ports between the 29th inst. and July 1, and after the Independence Day celebrations will assemble on Puget Sound for the regular summer cruise. Two battleships will remain here, however, until midsummer; the West Virginia sailing for Port Angeles on July 20, and the Tennessee, returning from Monterey, her Fourth of July port, on July 6, to remain until July 29 before going to Puget Sound.

The fleet is due home from Puget Sound on August 27, and early in September will start the regular fall gunnery and tactical training program, which it will carry through until January 29, 1931, when it will sail for winter maneuvers with the scouting fleet on the Pacific side of the Panama Canal.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE art students of Paris have decided that they would rather starve in garrets—and be able to throw parties—than to live in the Carnegie Foundation office-building apartments—where they have bathrooms but no frivolity.

The disappointed philanthropists are at a loss to account for anyone who doesn't yearn for hot and cold water. Personally, I am at a loss to account for anyone who likes studio parties. I have been to a few. Of all the dreary experiences human flesh is heir to the dreariest is a gay Bohemian evening. I don't wonder that Trilby went off her bean.

HIGH PRESSURE

When national prosperity comes back again the captains of industry may know enough to abandon high-pressure salesmanship. Much of the grief from which we are suffering comes from the discovery, made just after the war, that a weak-kneed public can be jimmied into buying things they do not really want—and haven't the money to pay for. American industry is now going through the period of trying to get the money.

BUSINESS PHILANTHROPY

A great reaction has come over business men. If you want to talk yourself out of a job just look like a snappy salesman when you go to see the man who has the jobs to give. Merchants have discovered that high-pressure salesmen sell the goods—once. And make lifelong enemies for the firm.

The most enlightened department stores instruct all their saleswomen never to sell a woman customer anything that she can't afford.

THE GUNS OF MacARTHUR

Every time I pass Fort MacArthur I marvel at the mental convolutions of the strategists who placed these big guns.

If any enemy fleet ever gets close enough to San Pedro to come within range of those guns it will be all over before they can be fired. Our fleet will have been sunk at sea and our only remaining interest in the war will be in paying the indemnity money.

The sole defense of Southern California is on the high seas.

TIN-PAN VOICES

This morning I was sitting in the car on the cliff above Cabrillo Beach watching the ships come in. Two middle-aged women came along with fish poles and bait cans. I fled before their voices. They sounded like crosscut saws hitting on nails. Where do American women get such frightful voices?

There isn't anything more important that can be taught a child than to speak with a pleasant, modulated voice. If you analyze the friends you like to have sticking around you will usually find it is the voice. Nobody says much that is worth hearing; but there are those who make pleasant noises in the process.

GRIEF FOR WETS

Candidates in Maine and Minnesota have discovered to their grief that the "wet" votes of the Literary Digest poll didn't mean anything. Polls and straw votes seldom mean anything. The "wets," being protesters, vote. The "drys," holding all the trumps, wait for the play. Prohibition has come to stay. The average wife feels that she can handle the family pay check without the assistance of the barkeeper.

FLEEING SPADRA ADDICTS HUNTED

Deputies Scour Countryside for Two Fugitives

Three Captured by Guards in Dash to Escape

One of Number Injured as He Falls Off Fence

Deputy sheriffs last night were searching the countryside in the vicinity of Spadra in an organized effort to capture two drug addicts who remained at large following their escape in company with three others before daybreak from the State Narcotic Hospital. The search was led by Capt. Stenaland.

The men sought are Walter Bottschalk, 34 years of age, committed from Sacramento county, March 30, last, and Millard Trimmer, 33, committed from San Francisco, February 1, last. Millard, according to the Sheriff's deputies, was tried and convicted recently on a charge of failing to comply with hospital regulations.

Those whose break for freedom failed are Tesmens F. Esper, 26; Dewey Joseph Robertson, 29, and Mike Santo, 33.

SAME METHOD

The five addicts patterned their escape after that of five others who fled the institution on the 4th inst. and have not been recaptured. They removed a heating radiator from the flooring of the first story, lowered themselves through a flue to the ground and crawled through an opening in the basement.

As the fleeing addicts were scaling the high barbed-wire fence that encloses the grounds they were discovered by guards. Esper, Robertson and Santo were caught, but Bottschalk and Trimmer got away.

ONE MAN INJURED

Esper suffered a broken ankle and scalp lacerations when he fell from the wire fence as the guards closed in on him. He was removed to the prison ward of the General Hospital. Robertson and Santo were taken later before Justice of the Peace White of Pomona, where they pleaded guilty to attempted escape and were sentenced to six months each in the County Jail.

An element of humor was injected into the investigation, conducted by Deputy Sheriffs West and Wigginton, when it was disclosed that seven men originally had planned to escape but that two of them were unable to leave because of scarcity of trousers.

Apparently the circulators bunched their sheets and swore only to the last sheet of a group instead of putting their names on each page. Therefore only a fraction of the many sheets filed could be considered as valid by Dominguez.

The committee seeking to oust Holland may file a supplemental petition or begin all over again.

Fairer Weather in Prospect as Mercury Rises

United States Weather Bureau reports yesterday showed a slight rise in temperatures in Los Angeles over the preceding day, with the low at 61 deg., and the high for the day 72 deg., as compared with 60 deg. and 65 deg. for the corresponding hours on Thursday.

Hope for warmer weather, beginning today, was held forth when it became evident that the high-pressure area off the coast was making some inroads into the low-pressure area which has existed in the interior all the way from Canada to Mexico for the past three weeks. This low-pressure area, according to the weather man, has kept up in one wave after another, accounting for the protracted spell of cold, cloudy weather, which has lasted much longer than usual this year.

The prediction for today and tomorrow is for fair weather, with fog along the coast in the forenoon.

Superior Court Soon Will Need Ten New Judges

The calendars of criminal and civil cases in Los Angeles have grown so crowded, ten additional Superior Court judges will be necessary next year, in the belief of Presiding Judge Doran.

He expressed the same view Thursday in an address at the annual meeting of the Southwestern University Alumni Organization. In 1929 trials could be heard within ten days from pleadings, whereas now the period is two months, this expedition being shown only when the defendants are in jail.

The Legislature will have to provide relief, he said.

"FLYING WING" FOUND WANTING

Emsco officials, who were to have piloted and navigated the ship.

"The plane is a purely experimental one," Rocheville declared. "We believed we had a method of adding speed without increasing horsepower of the motor. Nearly three months of testing, however, have convinced us that the slight increase we did get would not be enough to get us across."

Lundgren stated that the craft, a single wing with tail surfaces suspended behind on two outriggers, will be used for further experiments. It was constructed at a cost of $30,000 and contains other new ideas of design besides the wing slot.

The flight plan was to ship the craft to Tokio and take off from there for a point on the Pacific Coast of the United States.

Bartlett, Los Angeles, and Eugene Daney, San Diego.

Suspension of Charles A. Tuttle of the San Francisco bar, for six months, was decided upon. Tuttle was accused of unprofessional conduct.

SEWER CHIEF JOB CREATED

The position of Superintendent of Sewers in the engineering department at a salary of $400 per month was created yesterday by the City Council. The action was taken by a vote of 10 to 4.

SUN WILL RULE LONGEST TODAY

Lovers of Night Life Were Deprived of Portion by Earlier Dawn

For followers of "bright lights" who grow peppy and jaunty in the glow of incandescents, today is the most unfortunate time of the year. This morning they had to get an earlier start homeward to beat the milkman, who begins distributing bottles at break of dawn. And darkness tonight will be longer coming than any time in twelve months, for—but perhaps you know it already and made up for it last night.

This is the longest day—of daylight, that is—in the year, which makes it bad for the mocking birds in Hollywood, which seem to be active and vocal only during the night hours.

HOOVERS TO BE INVITED TO FAIR

Greetings Extended on Redwood Slab

Girl Will Be Guest of President

Miss Betty Hinsdale with the unique invitation which she will present to President Hoover, bidding him and Mrs. Hoover to attend the California State Fair and Western States Exposition in Sacramento next September.

DIRECTORS of the California State Fair and Western States Exposition at their meeting in Long Beach yesterday delegated Miss Betty Hinsdale to extend an invitation to President and Mrs. Hoover to attend the exposition which opens in Sacramento August 30. Miss Hinsdale, daughter of the late Lester F. Hinsdale, college classmate and close personal friend of Mr. Hoover, will leave Los Angeles tomorrow for Washington. She and her mother will be guests at the White House for several days.

The unique invitation is engrossed on a fine specimen of California redwood selected by the newspaper publishers' unit of the Redwood Empire Association. It is signed by R. A. Condee, president, and Charles W. Paine, secretary of the State Agricultural Society.

Hoover's vacation plans as announced several weeks ago call for a tour of the national parks of the West and would conclude in California about the time the State Fair opens.

GAS EXPERIMENT FATAL

Woman Dies of Injuries in Explosion at Home; Husband-Inventor and Baby Critically Hurt

Mrs. Clayton Mahan, severely burned in an explosion of blow-torch gas which wrecked her home at 2321 South Raymond avenue early yesterday morning, died at the California Lutheran Hospital last night. Her husband and their 14-month-old daughter, Nora Mae, also caught in the blast, are in critical conditions.

A few hours prior to the woman's death mystery surrounding the explosion was cleared when Investigators Barnett and Bluntack of the fire department discovered it was caused by ignition of experimental blow-torch gas, and not illuminating gas, as first suspected.

EXPLOSION SHOWS

The force of the explosion was downward and outward, the investigators said, indicating a heavier-than-air gas. Illuminating gas in exploding exerts a force in all directions. Mahan corroborated their findings when he stated that, being an inventor, he had been experimenting in his home with the blow-torch gas.

In checking over the effects of the blast investigators declared that it was almost miraculous the Mahans escaped instant death. The baby, asleep in a crib in a bedroom of the four-room dwelling, was blown, bed and all, through a window. She was burned about the head. Mrs. Mahan was thrown across two rooms and through a closed door into the yard. Mahan was knocked unconscious to the floor of the living-room. Mr. and Mrs. Mahan were both severely burned.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

After receiving emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital Mahan was transferred to the General Hospital and his wife to the California Lutheran Hospital, where she died. The baby was cared for by neighbors.

The dwelling was virtually wrecked. All of the walls were burst outward and the roof twisted. Concussion smashed windows in homes within a radius of half a block. Fire, resulting from the blast, freakishly did no more damage than to scorch the interior woodwork.

DEPUTY GETS RISE

The City Council yesterday reclassified an employee of the City Attorney, engaged in the Department of Water and Power, changing his grade from law clerk to deputy, and increasing his salary from $150 to $250 per month. The man is William E. Baller.

Clara Takes Role Today of Missing Girl

Among the missing last night was listed Clara Bow, the cinema actress.

Miss Bow has been making a rather newsy visit to Dallas, Tex., on matters assertedly pertaining to the quieting of a possible heartbalm action, and was scheduled to leave for Los Angeles last night. The home-coming was suggested by B. P. Schulberg, general manager of the Paramount studios, where Clara does her acting when not traveling. And Clara promised she would return.

Imagine the embarrassment of newspaper reporters of the Texas city when it was discovered that Clara had left her hotel, destination unannounced. With true journalistic vigor the gentlemen of the press of Dallas checked the trains leaving westward and found no Clara. Hotel officials were vague, possibly she had gone to Mineral Wells, Tex., a near-by watering place, or again it was whispered she had left for St. Louis.

But as related previously nothing definite was learned.

She was not at Mineral Wells, could not be located on any trains headed for St. Louis, and wasn't found on any of the limiteds roaring toward Los Angeles.

All of which was quite disappointing to those who have been following closely Clara's headline invasion of Texas.

SIX DISCARD OLD NAMES AND OBTAIN NEW ONES

It was name-changing day in Superior Judge McComb's court yesterday. Six persons, giving public notice that they were dissatisfied with their ancient patronymics, obtained others.

MARIE THERESE GUERIN de LIHUS

There was Miss Marie Therese Sophie Josephe Guerin, noted concert singer, and descendant of two celebrated French scientists. Miss Guerin became Zadah Guerin De Lihus, the latter part of which was dropped in favor of simple Guerin by her father, Jean Baptiste Paul Guerin, she said.

Miss De Lihus is the granddaughter of Victor Guerin, famous Egyptologist, and August Bouvet De Lozier, pioneer in the science of thermodynamics.

The others whose names were changed are: Therese B. Turba to Theresa Juenemann (her maiden name;) Filippi Lincoln Miserendino to Philip Lincoln Mason, (for easier pronunciation;) Moyra Bathurst to Gerith Von Ulmerbau, (for publication purposes,) and Fred and Mary Skupin to Mr. and Mrs. Sutton, (for spelling and pronunciation.)

Library Leader Will Arrive in City Tomorrow

Andrew Keogh, president of the American Library Association, arrives here tomorrow night on a convention special train over the Santa Fe to open the fifty-second annual session of the association at the Biltmore on Monday. Keogh, who is Yale University librarian, is traveling with 300 other librarians from the Middle West and East. Stops will be made at the Grand Canyon today and at Riverside tomorrow afternoon. The Biltmore is to be general headquarters for the convention. About 2000 delegates are expected to attend.

Members of the staff of the S.C. law library and Thomas W. Robinson, librarian of the Los Angeles county law library, are to act as hosts to the visitors, who will include W. W. Schenk of the University of Chicago, national president.

Judge Hollzer will deliver the principal address of the convention Tuesday evening, speaking on "Service in the Law Library." Delegates will be entertained Wednesday evening by the Bar Association at an informal reception at the Chateau Lamartin. Thursday afternoon the Bancroft-Whitney Company sponsors a luncheon at the Desauville Beach Club, following which the visitors will be taken on a tour of the beaches, Hollywood and the Wilshire district.

TUNNEL USE BY "C" CARS GETS BOOST

Briefs and Signatures of Those Favoring Revocation Submitted to Board

Briefs setting forth reasons why the C line cars of the Los Angeles Railway should be routed through the Third-street tunnel instead of by Fifth street and 5000 favoring signatures of residents on the street and business men were filed with the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation yesterday by Hiram Wambold in behalf of the Central Business District Association and forty other organizations.

Opponents of the plan, with 2000 signatures, recently submitted their briefs, as requested by the board, and now they will have a week in which to file answers. The board will then will make a decision.

Wambold's briefs set forth that the 2700 signatures against the rerouting are signed for ten different reasons "so ambiguous and confusing of such extraneous matter that it is impossible to ascertain the state of mind of the protestants."

The briefs cite that R. T. Dana, chief of the traffic signal division, has made a report to the effect that turning of the C line cars at Third and Hill makes this the most dangerous corner in Los Angeles.

Others points covered are that 200,000 persons daily use the Third and Hill street intersection, that on car loads, the Third street tunnel, car speeds and the need for a cross-town car line from Hollywood to Hollenbeck Heights by way of third street to create a new artery between Seventh and Ninth streets.

CHINA TO BE DISCUSSED

Roscoe A. Goodell, former president of Imperial College, China, will speak on "The Awakening of China" next Wednesday before the Women's Traffic Club of the Alexandria. He is a graduate of University of California, Columbia and Oxford and spent nine years in China as an educator. He is a brother of Fred and Sam Goodcell and now is an official of the Automobile Club.

Actor Doner Repudiates Wife's Bills

Further marital difficulties between Ted Doner, musical-comedy actor, and his equally well-known screen wife, Peggy Doner, were revealed yesterday with the publication of an advertisement signed by Doner that he will no longer be responsible for the debts of his wife. Doner, however, scouted the possibility of an immediate divorce, but said the legal notice was inserted "for protection to myself." On November 15, last, Peggy Doner filed suit for divorce against her husband, charging cruelty, but a week later the suit was dropped. The divorce was followed a spectacular scene by deputy sheriffs across the street when Doner was taken from a westbound train and held on a charge of Kidnaping when he attempted to take his infant daughter, Joan, with him to New York.

The actor was seriously injured in an automobile crash near San Diego during March, 1928, in which the dancer and a member of the theatrical troupe in which Doner was appearing, was killed. Doner said his wife is at present under contract with a motion-picture studio.

Flying Cross to be Escort of Evangelist

In addition to the official city reception for Aimee Semple McPherson already announced, an airplane escort forming a cross will keep pace with her train from Riverside to Los Angeles, where she arrives on her return from the Holy Land at 1:30 p.m. today.

Soon after she alights from the Santa Fe Limited of the Union Station she will make her first address from a decorated flat-car at the station.

The parade to follow to Angelus Temple will be more than 100 motor automobiles. One thousand high school students and members of Troop 147, Boy Scouts, will be in the parade.

Government work on highways in Death Valley is relieving the unemployment situation.

HERMAN TO GET DELAY IN TRIAL

Continuance Contemplated by Court Monday

Defense Lawyer States He's Not Quite Ready

Trial of Two or Three Days in Case to Suffice

A continuance of two or three days will be granted Jacob Berman, former Julian Petroleum Corporation official, by Superior Judge Wilson on Monday morning, when, together with his brother and Louis Cohen he will appear for trial on embezzlement charges. The continuance was agreed on late yesterday afternoon, when Dan Critchley, the district attorney's prosecutor's attorney, notified Judge Wilson that he needs more time to complete the defense case.

Berman, who was returned to this city from the Federal prison at McNeil Island both as a defendant in the present cases and as a State witness in others, notified Judge Wilson through his attorney last Tuesday that he had been promised immunity by the jury bribery case by the district attorney and Dist.-Atty. Fitts. It was then that Judge Wilson announced that the court alone can grant immunity and instructed Berman to be ready for trial Monday.

Yesterday, in presenting his plea for a continuance, informed Judge Wilson that he had been of the witnesses that Berman was to be used by the prosecution witness and, therefore, had not completed his defense case. He stated that the defendant would be ready for trial if allowed a few more days in which to gather his witnesses.

Monday, when the case is calendared a formal motion for a short continuance will be made and, according to Judge Wilson, will be granted. Probably the case will be set down for trial some time near the end of next week.

OTIS PUPILS SET MARK IN MASK BALL

Originality Feature of Art Students' Costumes at Annual Revel

Mayan chiefs and slim girls costumed in shimmering cellophane wove their way through the colorful maze of dancers last night at the Otis Art Institute's annual ball at the Elks' Temple. While some of the costumes were of the conventionalized Russian or pirate type many showed marked originality of conception and design.

Outstanding in their promise of what the art student of 2030 might wear were a couple costumed in bright hued oilcloth and sateen with generous areas of sun-tan on hip and thigh. A futuristic white and black satin, knee length on the one side and flowing to the floor in a full circular sweep, with closely fitted white satin helmet relieved by black coque feathers, was distinctive in its originality.

One feminine dancer came as a Gigi bird in a sheath of orange and black crepe paper clipped to simulate feather tips. With this was worn a cap in tones of yellow and orange relieved by black. The delicacy of execution was one of the outstanding features of this costume. The student was accompanioned by a Mayan chief who wore a high gold head-dress ornamented with long feathers, a tunic and flowing cape enriched with colorful designs, which made him the "noblest Mayan of them all."

The big ballroom was gay with color as bandits, pirates, gypsy girls, tramps, Victorian hoops and costumes of the mauve decade shifted, turned and tapped their way up and down the floor.

Film Wedding Stays Secret Whole Week

COLLETTE MERTON

Seven years ago they met. Seven days ago they wed. Not until yesterday did Collette Merton and Arthur East announce that they are married. The event happened at Ventura, when they were joined in wedlock by Justice of the Peace D i m m i c k, with only Evelyn Pierce and Herbert Morris in attendance.

The bride is one of three persons selected two years ago by Samuel Goldwyn for Ziegfeld's stage production, "Show Girl" in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. East at present reside at 8549 Alcott street. In July they plan a honeymoon to Honolulu. Prior to the time she was married, Miss Merton played in "The Collegians," being filmed at Universal City. Mr. East is in the electric-refrigerator business.

ARTHUR EAST

Tiny Golf Urged for City Parks

In view of the wave of popularity which has occasioned the construction of fifty-three miniature golf courses in the city in the past few weeks, Councilman Davis stated yesterday that he plans the introduction of a resolution in the City Council next week suggesting that the park and playground departments conduct surveys to determine the feasibility of erecting such courses in the city's parks and playgrounds to augment the present entertainment features.

James Thomas Barnes, who weighed nine pounds and five ounces, was born to Mrs. Ida Barnes at the Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital, Glendale. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes live at 5067 Sheridan avenue.

LANGDON MAKES COURT HIT

Comedian Gets Laughs While Defending Suit of Thomas J. O'Brien to Recover on Notes

Reference to Harry Langdon's career as a screen comedian was boasted against the power of Mrs. Helen Langdon's first husband, Thomas J. O'Brien, it was testified late yesterday in Superior Judge Blake's court. T. J. Watson, brother of Mrs. Langdon, was testifying in the suit brought against the comedian by O'Brien and his former counsel, Leo Youngdahl, and Otto Emme, to recover on three notes for $11,500.

Watson told me in 1927 that he was going to ruin Langdon's career," he said. "He said a Los Angeles newspaper man, not a newspaper man, had promised him that all he had to do was say the word, and Harry Langdon."

Langdon was introduced in denial of Langdon's contention that he signed the notes in fear of losing his screen career, when he refused suit for the affections of his then wife, later married Langdon.

Langdon started as a comedian in 1923, getting three laughs in two sessions. The first time when he admitted payments to his first wife, Mrs. O'Brien, as a settlement in the "many thou-sand dollars," the comic, sadly, court audience greeted this statement with laughter, while Attorney Youngdahl was cross-examining him.

Hero of Glendale Returns

WHETHER Frank Wykoff, the 20-year-old Glendale student, who has sprinted 100 yards faster than any other person has done so, is engaged to a former Glendale High School girl remained a mystery last night following the athlete's triumphant return to his home city yesterday.

Against disclosures by friends that Wykoff is cast as the male lead in a romance hitherto unsuspected with Miss Ethel Mae Richardson, 1600 East Rock Glen avenue, Glendale, was a declaration made last night by him that "there is nothing to it."

The world's speed champion, however, did not deny reports of an ardent embrace with Miss Richardson at Grand Central Air Terminal when he landed after being "kidnaped" from a Union Pacific train at East Los Angeles and flying to Glendale.

At that time, when pressed for a confirmation of the reports from friends, Wykoff declared that "we went to high school together and have always been good friends—nothing serious."

Miss Richardson added "very good friends," to the sprinter's characterization of their acquaintance.

It was a busy dry for the blond University of Southern California sophomore who whizzed to a new world record of 9 2-5s. in the 100-yard dash during the recent National Collegiate Athletic Association meet in Chicago, showing his spikes to the pick of the nation's student sprinters.

When the train pulled into the East Los Angeles station, a "reception committee," of the Glendale Junior Chamber of Commerce, supplied with ropes and a gag, "welcomed" their cocitizen by trussing him and carrying him to a waiting Curtiss Flying Service plane a block away.

Meanwhile, Glendale's Senior Chamber of Commerce members and Mayor Kimlin of Glendale were all set to give Frank a great welcome at the local central station.

The train arrived, but not Wykoff—who then was up in the air and on his way to a junior chamber reception at Grand Central.

Some one notified the senior chamber members, however, and a double celebration got under way at the airport, followed by a police escorted parade through Glendale and a joint luncheon in honor of Frank at the Tuesday Afternoon Club.

PORTER VIEWS WATER REGION

to clean up this situation and I have kept my word."

John C. Austin, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, said that in his opinion the voting of the bonds was due in a large measure to the confidence the voters had in the head of the cit administration. He told of the interest the Chamber of Commerce has in seeing that the water program is developed properly up here and that everyone concerned—city as well as valley—gets a square deal.

The chamber's committee is now looking into the power end of the development. He assured the valley people of the active co-operation of the chamber in the future program.

President Chalfant of the Rotary Club brought up a news report of Councilman Holland's proposal recently to employ only Los Angeles men in the construction work in the valley and in Mono basin. He asked the Mayor his opinion and attitude. Mayor Porter said that he did not think such a proposal would get very far, "because it is not a fair treatment." He thought there might be some personal significance to the proposal but if such an ordinance ever came to him he "knew one Mayor who would veto it."

PROGRAM SKETCHED

Chief Engineer Van Norman briefly sketched the construction program for Mono basin saying that test drilling already is going on to determine the feasibility of the eleven-mile tunnel to bring water out of the basin into Owens Valley.

"Actual work ought to be started on the project by the time snow flies," he said.

The engineering data ought to be all complete in a few months, he thought.

After discussion the long history of the relations between the valley people and the city, he said, "the end is now in sight if we can get together on a reasonable basis. If both of us can approach the matter in a spirit of co-operation we can work out a satisfactory conclusion," he said.

W. T. Fox, from the City Attorney's office, explained the steps necessary before any money can be spent. The facts concerning the bond election have been sent to the attorneys for the New York bonding houses for inspection and opinion as to regularity and a reply should be returned shortly, he said. Then the bonds can be sold. The friendly suit to test the legality of the city's proposal to purchase the five towns up here comes up for hearing on a demurrer next Wednesday and should the city be ruled against an immediate trial is expected, he said.

E. A. Bailey, engineer in charge of the Mono basin survey, said the work is being pushed rapidly to determine the best way to bring the water out of Mono basin. It is possible that they may have to come by way of Adobe Valley or by a different tunnel route, he said. At an rate, they are going to come the most economical and most satisfactory way. The surveys should be completed in three or four months.

This afternoon the party inspected the Owens River gorge where power development is possible and then went on up to Crooked Creek and the site of the proposed Long Valley dam.

Tomorrow the party will attend the formal opening of the highway over Tioga Pass into Yosemite National Park, following which there will be a barbecue at Leevining at the foot of Mono Lake.

Present plans call for return to Los Angeles via Yosemite.

EX-PASTOR WINS SUIT AGAINST HIS PARTNER

Preachers once and partners in a construction firm later, Rev. E. E. Hopper and Rev. C. H. Reed yesterday faced as law suit opponents in Superior Judge Archbald's court, where a jury awarded Hopper $2500 damages against Reed. Hopper had sued for $31,000. He accused Reed with making derogatory remarks concerning him. Reed denied the charge. They shared offices in Highland Park, where Hopper directed the building work and Reed handled the finance.

Credit Given for Hawaiian Trip

Travel to Hawaii is recognized as of such educational value that two Franklin High School girls are to receive credits for it. They are Winifred and Caroline Hassard, sophomore and freshman of 6427 Pepton street, and they returned on the Lasco liner City of Los Angeles with their parents yesterday.

"We will be quizzed, however, but even if we don't pass, and have to go to summer school, the trip was worth it," they insisted.

PEACEMAKERS, TAKE NOTICE

Conviction of Intervener in Fight Upheld by Court Considering Appeal

Peacemakers with a punch in either fist will consider the ruling handed down yesterday by the Appellate Department in sustaining a battery conviction found against Sigmund Henry. He contended that he simply was a peacemaker who intervened between his brother and J. H. Connolly during an argument about Connolly's automobile blocking a parking yard driveway. Connolly asserted that Henry's peacemaking took the form of a sock on the jaw. In Municipal Court, Henry was given a choice of $25 fine or ten days.

Superior Judges McLucas, Bishop and Tappaan yesterday upheld the decision.

FORMER WORDS FACE SANHUBER

'Mouse Man's' Confession of Murder Read in Court

Document Admitted Despite Vehement Protest

Immunity Promise Assertion Denied by Fitts

Otto Sanhuber's confession of the murder of Fred Oesterreich was entered in the records of Superior Judge Hardy's court yesterday after Dist.-Atty. Fitts had taken the witness stand and denied he had ever promised Sanhuber immunity of any kind.

The confession is contained in testimony given before the grand jury last April by the so-called "ghost of the garret." Reading of the grand jury transcript commenced in Judge Hardy's court late yesterday afternoon and when court adjourned half a hundred pages of the ghost man's story still remained to be read when the trial is resumed at 10 a.m. Monday.

BITTERLY FOUGHT

Admission of the confession in the evidence at Sanhuber's trial has been the bone of contention in the courtroom for the past two days. When Dep. Dist.-Attys. Costello and Russell first offered Sanhuber's grand jury testimony Thursday, Sanhuber and his wife and Defense Attorney Wakeman took the witness stand and swore that Fitts promised that Sanhuber would be given second-degree murder and not have to serve over five years in prison if he would tell his story to the grand jury.

Yesterday morning Fitts took the stand and categorically denied every statement made by the defendant, his wife and the attorney. Instead of promising Sanhuber immunity, Fitts declared, he had informed him that any such offer that may have been made to him by anyone else in the District Attorney's office was to be disregarded and any statement that he cared to make must be free and voluntary.

CONTRADICT FITTS

The situation thus presented was that Sanhuber, Mrs. Sanhuber and Wakeman had testified that Fitts had, in their presence, promised the defendant a lesser penalty, while the District Attorney denied it.

In allowing the transcript of Sanhuber's tesfimony to be read, Judge Hardy told the jurors he would leave it to them to determine later whether they believed the confession had been obtained by promise of immunity, or threat, and that he would give them more instructions on the matter when the case was finally submitted to them for a verdict.

OFFICIAL BACKED

Sanhuber declared that Fitts's offer of leniency was made in the ante-room of the grand jury room just before he entered. However, the prosecution placed on the stand yesterday former Chief of Detectives Cline, Detective Captain Cato and Detective Stevens, who asserted that they were present in Fitts's private office a few minutes before this and heard the District Attorney state to Sanhuber that he revoked any immunity offer that might have been previously made by any member of his office or any police officer.

The transcript of Sanhuber's confession was read by Judge Hardy, with Marie Keller, official reporter for the grand jury, seated on the witness stand with her original notes to correct any error that might have crept into the document.

RELATIONS REVEALED

In answer to questions before the grand jury, the transcript revealed, Sanhuber began his story back in Milwaukee more than ten years ago, when he met Mr. and Mrs. Oesterreich for the first time. In substance, it follows: Sanhuber was then a repairer of sewing machines and went to Oesterreich's apron factory to fix some machines there.

According to the transcript, the infatuation with Mrs. Oesterreich began almost at once. They started going out together. Soon they learned that they were being followed by private detectives and Sanhuber decided to fly from Milwaukee. However, on the day he left Mrs. Oesterreich decided to accompany him a short distance, but finally went all the way to Chicago and thence to St. Louis with him. Later they both went back to Milwaukee, where Mrs. Oesterreich effected a reconciliation with her husband, but at the same time arranged that Sanhuber should secrete himself in the attic of the Oesterreich home.

MOUSE CAREER BEGINS

Sanhuber was then, as near as he could remember, between 16 and 19 years of age. Previously he had lived in a furnished room and this was the beginning of years of virtual imprisonment in attics to be near Mrs. Oesterreich. He slept and ate in the attic and crept downstairs when the husband had gone.

"I got to know from the various different sounds just who was in the house and what they were doing," he told the grand jury.

Mrs. Oesterreich gave him nickels, dimes and quarters and they slowly accumulated until he had enough money to buy himself a railroad ticket to Los Angeles when the Oesterreichs moved here. When they prepared to occupy the house at 858 North Lafayette Place he went out to the vacant house a few days before they did, cut a hole into the attic from a trunk room and moved in his mattress and blankets and installed an electric light. That was the fourth attic he had lived in since he met Mrs. Oesterreich.

Judge Hardy had read the transcript to the point where the first question regarding the actual shooting of Oesterreich was asked when court adjourned.

CHIEF OF POLICE MOVES

Steckel Will Occupy New Office in City Hall Pending Construction of Another Jail

Beginning Monday no more will John Taxpayer have to stagger bewildered through a labyrinth of twisting hallways, criss-crossing partitions and up three rickety flights of old wooden steps to see Chief of Police Steckel. On that day Chief Steckel and his executive officers will be installed and ready for work in the new suite of offices in the City Hall, which has been designed for their temporary use pending the construction of a new City Jail and central police headquarters.

Chief Jailer Shand with a large gang of workmen yesterday began moving out the furnishings from the old quarters at 318 West First street. Included in the exodus besides the Chief's office are the offices of Assistant Chief Finlinson, Deputy Chief Cross, Police Lieutenant Littell and Chief Clerk Gorey of the personnel bureau, Captain of Police Sweeney, head of the transportation department. Chief Accountant Olney, the printing bureau of Chief Printer Edwards, and Mrs. Minnie Barton, women's probation officer.

The new offices are on the Spring-street floor, in the northwest corner of the City Hall, and run on both sides of the hallway from the Spring-street entrance around to the intersecting east-and-west hallway in the center of the building. Doors are to be placed at the entrance so that the hallway can be used as a reception room. Grouped with the new executive offices are the quarters of the Crime Prevention Bureau and City Mothers' Bureau.

Removal of the offices was ordered when it was decided not to meet the rise in rent from $300 to $600 a month on the old building on First street which has been leased by the city since 1918.

Miss Pringle Called in Quiz

Grand jury investigation of charges made in San Francisco by Eugene Mozier, ex-naval mechanic, that Alexander Pantages, convicted of an attack on Miss Eunice Pringle, was the victim of a plot, will include testimony from Miss Pringle, it was learned yesterday.

Miss Pringle was served with a summons requiring her attendance at a jury hearing Thursday. She declares that the Mozier claims are ridiculous and that she never knew him. The investigation was brought about by Dist.-Atty. Fitts. Efforts to serve Mozier and his attorney, Bernard Nugent, with grand jury summons so far has been unsuccessful. Neither can be located, according to the process servers.

AIR LEAGUE BRANCH TO BE OPENED

National Association of Youthful Plane Modelers Will Enroll Local Boys

The Airplane Model League of America, a national organization already embracing more than 750,000 members, will welcome the boys and girls of Los Angeles into its ranks for the first time today with the formal establishment of a local branch at the Broadway Department Store.

With appropriate ceremonies, at which Merrill Hamburg, secretary of the league, will be present, the rolls will be opened to membership applications at 10:30 a.m. in the boys' section on the second floor. Preparations have been completed for the reception of 1000 charter members.

The league was sponsored in September, 1927, by the magazine, American Boy, with the indorsement of the National Aeronautical Association. Its aim is the furtherance of interest in and knowledge of aviation through construction and flight of model airplanes.

R. R. Harmon, former instructor in aeronautics for the Los Angeles Playground Department, has been engaged to have charge of the local branch under auspices of the department store. These will include a series of lectures every Saturday morning followed by a competitive meet in the auditorium on the fifth floor.

DRY FORECAST

If Maine still is the weather-vane of American politics, the members of the next Congress will have to visit the Desert of Sahara really to feel comfortable.

LEARNING TO FIGHT

If Maine still is the weather vane up much longer the country will have enough veterans to make an interesting scrap between the "yellow" and "red" perils of Asia.

AWED

Vesuvius was reported on the verge of a new rampage and then suddenly subsided. Probably heard the echo of the latest Mussolini boast and thought that was enough noise for a while.

THEY DO MAKE ARRESTS

Mayor Porter says the crooks are on the run in Los Angeles. A fearless prosecutor and a capable police department cannot prevent crime, but they have succeeded in keeping this city comparatively free from the ills that beset most of the big cities of the nation.

WAR LITERATURE

This Canadian author who wrote the book, "Generals Die in Bed," may not get by the censor. Some of the generals who have not yet croaked are a bit peevish over the abrupt manner in which their haughty class is treated. A war book which shows that commanders are cowards and incompetents is bound to start something.

GEORGE W. JOSEPH

There is sadness in Oregon over the sudden demise of George W. Joseph, Republican nominee for Governor of that State, in the thick of a heavy campaign. He fell dead while reviewing a troop of National Guardsmen.

A colorful career was that of Mr. Joseph. He was born in a lumber camp in Modoc county, California, in 1872 and earned his first dollar driving horses in a salt-making plant in Nevada when 10 years old. Afterward he was a sheep herder. He had no schooling until he was 11, but studied so hard that he entered high school in a surprisingly short time and worked his way through it by milking cows, after which he studied law to fine purpose.

That from these humble beginnings he should have made so high a mark in the law and in politics in Oregon is a credit to the former sheep herder, though it is characteristic of many of the sons of pioneers of the West that they rise to prominence by unsparing labor and brave sincerity.

THOSE TOUGH MAGAZINES

In the quarrel between the police department and the City Prosecutor's office over who is to blame for the inept manner in which raids on a number of places selling assertedly pornographic magazines were conducted, there is danger of the main issue escaping notice. This is that pornographic magazines ought not to be sold in any decent community. As long as Los Angeles has an ordinance which purports to prohibit their sale or display, that ordinance ought to be enforced. It ought to have been enforced all along.

The City Prosecutor asserts he told the police to go easy where reputable merchants were concerned. The police retort that the City Prosecutor, if he wanted milder methods used, should not have sworn out warrants; that a warrant and all men described in warrants look alike to the police. With that argument a standoff, the fact remains that somebody ought to have gathered up the objectionable periodicals and obtained the appearance in court of those responsible for vending them, with no more fuss than was necessary to accomplish the object.

There was no occasion to force drug stores to close by dragging away their sole registered pharmacist, or for photographing and fingerprinting, or for making arrests at times when bail was difficult to procure. The whole affair seems to have been conducted more with an eye to publicity than with an eye to law enforcement.

REED ANSWERS JOHNSON

A calm and dispassionate analysis of the London naval treaty given by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania by radio Thursday evening has completely answered the vituperative attack upon that document made Wednesday evening by Senator Hiram Johnson. The contrast in the manner of the two speakers was marked and as different as their reasoning. On the one side, there was a presentation of facts and conclusions by a keen, acute mind; on the other, the bombastic frothing of a venomous personality.

The Japanese and British jingoes, who, as Senator Reed pointed out, are in their respective countries denouncing the treaty to the limit of their abilities, will at least have to concede superiority to the United States in one respect. By this time, no doubt, they are green with envy. They have neither the imagination nor the vocabulary to permit them to imitate Hiram Johnson, who has proved that he is the supreme jingo of the universe, unless the new planet Pluto can produce an equal.

Johnson, of course, is always at his best when he does not bother with the facts, and on this occasion he surpassed himself. According to Johnson, President Hoover, Secretary Stimson, Secretary Adams, Admiral Pratt, Senator Reed, Senator Robinson, Ambassador Dawes, Ambassador Morrow and Ambassador Gibson are craven and supine; they are un-American; they have made a cowardly surrender of everything the patriots have won here since 1776; they have given away the seas, they have hauled down the American flag, they have sunk the Constitution without a trace.

To most people it will seem that there is something wrong with this picture. There is; it is the painter.

Johnson says the treaty will compel us to spend $1,071,000,000. How he arrived at such precise figures is not stated. Another thing he neglected to explain is that United States naval expenditures, to attain the same result the treaty brings us, will, if it is rejected, be upward of $10,000,000,000 and probably more, because the naval construction race will then be on, Japan at least will be thoroughly convinced that we are out for conquest and will redouble her construction efforts and we will be compelled to overmatch this new building, too.

Senator Reed pointed out that the saving in new battleship construction alone will run to at least $400,000,000. What Johnson omitted to state, but which Senator Reed brings to attention, is that when the London conference began the British had four times, the Japanese more than twice, the amount of cruiser tonnage of the United States and that the cruisers of both were for the most part newer and better vessels.

The "high command" of the Navy, Johnson says, "to their undying honor" opposed this treaty almost to a man. What he is talking about is the now famous tempest in a teapot about three cruisers—or rather, whether we should build three cruisers with eight-inch guns or a larger number with six-inch guns. Most of the admirals he refers to said the eight-inch-gun ships are better.

But if the American delegates at London had insisted on the full complement of eight-inch-gun ships, Japan would have raised her minimum demands also. To this New Zealand and Australia objected and declared that they would build cruisers of their own, which, of course, would throw the British navy out of balance as compared with ours and there would have been the makings of another competitive race in sight.

Most sensible people will agree it was better to compromise the matter and have a settlement. Japan went to London demanding that her cruiser ratio be raised to 3.5 as it was and had to be placated by permitting her to build defensive submarines.

Johnson's assertion that six-inch-gun cruisers are of no value, is, as Senator Reed clearly shows, ridiculous. At ranges up to 20,000 yards—and no naval battle has ever been fought at greater range—the smaller gun is superior because of its more rapid fire, eleven shots a minute as compared with two shots for the larger weapon. Though the hitting power of each shot is slightly less for six-inchers, their destructive capacity per minute is far higher. Johnson and other "experts" forget the Seeadler and other tiny German cruisers that kept the sea for long periods during the World War; they ignore the better maneuverability of the smaller vessels, their superiority in repelling destroyer and submarine attacks, their superiority for convoy work.

To take up point by point, as Senator Reed did, Johnson's absurdities, would take more space than can be devoted here. Senator Reed did not take up the real motivation of Johnson's attack, which is known to all Californians. What irks the California Senator is not the provisions of the treaty; it is the fact that Herbert Hoover was President when it was negotiated and that his appointees negotiated it. It is merely another airing of an old personal grudge, born of disappointed ambition, spleen, rancor and envy with envy as its principal component.

Johnson's emphatic ally, Hearst, is similarly motived, at least in part. Hearst's long and bitter feud with Elihu Root has been enlarged to include Secretary Stimson, Root's partner and protege.

These two associates, malice and spite, are at the bottom of all this fuss. The American people are too sensible to be taken in by such blather.

CHERRIES OR CRIOLES?

This season the good folks of Beaumont have been impaled on the horns of a freak dilemma. Instead of having to choose between two evils, they have been up against the harder problem of choosing between two goods.

A bright touch is added to the picture of clusters of red cherries hanging like rubies among the greenery of San Gorgonio's orchards by the black and gold plumage of the Baltimore oriole, busily engaged in satisfying his hunger by reducing the numbers of these aforesaid clustering rubies.

Beaumont residents are nothing if not artistic, as witness the cherry-blossom festival staged in their delightful mountain valley in the early spring. The orange and black flashing among the green and red is a delight to the eye of these poets of the hills.

But while such scenes appeal to their innate sense of pastoral landscape painting, beautiful golden birds piping and perching among the white and black heart cherries, the Beaumont orchardists know that a depleted cherry crop in the summer means fewer presents for the children's stockings next Christmas. And, alas, the colorful oriole has a healthy appetite and the cherry is his favorite provender.

The State rightfully protects its song and show birds and to kill the Beaumont orioles at their annual cherry fiesta is unthinkable. Even to drive them away seems a great pity. On the other hand the multiplication of the gold-and-black cherry eater means real damage to a charming fruit industry of the California hill country.

What to do? Possibly the Literary Digest might be persuaded to settle the question with a straw vote. Yet after all for others besides the good people of Beaumont life consists of a series of choices between cherries and orioles. If we could only eat our cakes without destroying the pretty icing!

OUTRUNNING THE WOLF
By James J. Montague

My parents dinned in my ears,
For my own good, they said,
The story of the pioneers
And how they forged ahead
By rising long before the dawn
Had clothed the world in light,
And plodding sedulously on
Till half-past twelve at night.

They plowed, they hoed, they milked the kine,
They fought the Sioux and Utes
And other savages malign—
They wore cheap homespun suits;
Year in, year out, they toiled and fought
Until their lives were done,
And never took the slightest thought
Of any form of fun.

But then their road was all up-grade
As ran the years away;
It wasn't love of toil that made
Them labor night and day.
Amid a savage wilderness
They had their way to carve.
Their lot was one of bitter stress—
They had to work or starve.

I fancy if a pioneer
Were living here and now,
He would not spend year after year
With sweat upon his brow,
But go to "speakies" every week
And own a snappy bus.
And show he had a lazy streak
Just like the rest of us.

The LEE SIDE o' L.A.

THE Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale seems to us to be entitled to a special medal, and perhaps to a world's championship. It starts—and stops—its luncheons and other meetings on time.

Who Deserves This Title?

We wouldn't attempt to say who is the most versatile genius of Hollywood, but whoever it is will have to beat the record of Edmund Goulding.

As a director, Goulding has made "The Devil's Holiday," Gloria Swanson's "The Trespasser" and, in silent films, "Love," the film version of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina."

As a scenarist, his first notable success was "Tol'able David," which starred Richard Barthelmess, followed by Mae Murray's "Peacock Alley," "Jazzmania," "Fascination" and "Broadway Rose."

As a screen author, he planned and wrote "The Broadway Melody," "The Trespasser" and "The Devil's Holiday."

As a playwright, he and Edgar Selwyn wrote "Dancing Mothers," which had a long run in New York and London.

As a novelist, he wrote "Fury," which is reported to have gone into nine editions.

He is the composer of several popular songs, including "Love, Your Magic Spell Is Everywhere" and "You Are a Song." And lately he has broken out as a radio baritone.

Who has a more varied record than that?

Naturally in a Hurry

There are so many traffic-bellied street intersections now that many an ennuied driver takes a chance on running through the bells when he doesn't see a cop around. A young man tried that on Hollywood Boulevard yesterday—and the cop stepped out from behind another car and whistled.

"I'm awfully sorry, officer," apologized the young man. "I was so worried I really didn't see the signal was against me. I was just watching the traffic. And I'm in an awful hurry. I'm hurrying to the drug store."

The bell rang just then and the officer waved him ahead. "All right," he said. "But don't do it again—even if you are hurrying to the drug store."

The young man thanked him fervently and sped on to the drug store, where he ordered his lunch at the counter and ate it with unusual enjoyment.

We hadn't. But we suppose the Bliss Transfer Company must be located somewhere in the film colony.

Mexican Roads

The recent Automobile Club pathfinding trip to Mexico City, which Harry Carr Homered so vividly, ran into all kinds of difficulties. We went over the High Barrancas on muleback two and one-half years ago and don't see how they ever made it by automobile. Ixtlan then was the end of steel on this side and La Quemada on the Guadalajara side, and it took us four days on muleback to negotiate the distance between those points. And one day the mule we were riding fell over a cliff—a little one, fortunately—and the next day our pack mule fell over a big one. It's hard for us to see yet how motor cars got over trails which mules couldn't stick on then.

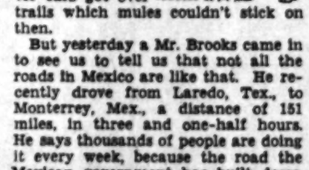
But yesterday a Mr. Brooks came in to see us to tell us that not all the roads in Mexico are like that. He recently drove from Laredo, Tex., to Monterrey, Mex., a distance of 151 miles, in three and one-half hours. He says thousands of people are doing it every week, because the road the Mexican government has built down there is a good road, and that it is to be extended to Mexico City.

Ten years ago it took us nine hours to go from Laredo to Monterrey by train. So it looks as if Mexico is progressing quite a bit.

CHAMPION WHO NEVER FOULED

You can rave all you want about champions
That prance in the prize ring today;
You can cheer, if you like, the wild sockers
That lay all their rivals away;
But Jimmo-de-Jeff is my hero;
He never thought he was too nice
To fight any tough ones who challenged;
He licked all the best of them TWICE!

Jim Jeffries would take on all comers,
No matter how big or how tough;
And fight them each time they desired,
Until they had fought him enough.
No fighter could say he was cheated
By Jeff's fear, or a too high price;
For Jim didn't hog all the money,
But he licked the best of them TWICE!



He won the world's title by fighting,
Defeated the best in the game;
I think there is no other fighter
Whose record can stand by his name.
He didn't go searching for set-ups,
Nor follow too careful advice;
He beat 'em, but he never fouled 'em,
He licked all the best of them TWICE!

VOTERS DON'T KNOW THEY ARE WET
[Kansas City Star]

The Literary Digest poll showed Indiana a wet State. But the Indiana voters, apparently not knowing that fact, went right ahead and returned their thirteen dry members to Congress, even when several of them had wet opposition. Again, according to the Digest vote, Pennsylvania was so wet that it fairly slopped over the borders. Yet there was the debacle of the dry Pinchot rolling on to victory.

Now come returns from Florida. That State also, said the Digest poll, was wet. Its vote was 15,921 for enforcement, 13,746 for modification and 21,063 for repeal. Even when half the modification vote is placed in the dry column, Florida is left with a substantial wet majority. But the voters of the Fourth Congressional District of that State seem to have heard nothing of the matter. For they nominate to Congress Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, dry, by a majority of nearly 4 to 1 over her opponent, De Witt T. Deen, wet. Evidently, there's something wrong somewhere, if anybody could find it out.

A GOOD NEIGHBOR
[Kansas City Star.]

Enactment of the Canadian measure denying liquor clearances to the United States relieves these two neighbor countries of an embarrassing situation which repeatedly had been a source of trouble. It relieves Canada of the delicate position of apparent sanction of a traffic that ended in lawlessness at the border, while it will aid this country materially in enforcement of prohibition. It is a fine exhibition of international co-operation, the effects of which would be much more striking were there not the complications growing out of pending tariff legislation as they affect these two countries. But Canada long has been an excellent neighbor. We hope she can say the same of us!

THE NOSY SENATE
[Boston Transcript]

Are the American people afraid of their own Senate? How much longer shall the members of that body be permitted to assume the role of dictatorial inquisitors and poke their noses into private affairs of the people which are none of their legitimate concern? A member of the United States Senate has only to propose a resolution to investigate somebody or something, for the obvious purpose of party or personal gain, to see it go sailing through without a word of protest from other members whose plain duty it shuld be to protect the people against such imposition.

TWO METHODS
[Chicago Tribune]

Chicago's Judge Kavanagh has been telling a parliamentary committee in London not to abolish capital punishment. The judge qualified as an expert in the subject as a result of wide travel and reading. Residence in Chicago itself does not qualify. We have plenty of murders but inadequate data on the preventive value of executions. England has virtually abolished capital punishment by enforcing it, the judge said; and America has virtually abolished it by not enforcing it.

TO LIGHTEN THE GENTILES

BY HARRY BOWLING

The most progressive nations today proudly acclaim themselves Christian and followers of the Prince of Peace. But world peace is no nearer than it was in the days of Augustus Caesar.

Christian peoples are still trusting for security to the heaviest armaments, as did the pagan world to the hoplite and the phalanx. The best minds in all nations have striven to give the principles they profess some practical expression, never more sincerely than they are doing today.

They have, however, hardly scratched the hides of the mass of humanity. Indeed, according to some alarmists, the world is nearer to a life-and-death struggle than it was in the nervous years that broke into the catastrophe of August, 1914. This new struggle, should it come to pass, will be more deadly than the last war. For it will involve the two main irreconcilable world elements; racially, ethically, religiously, traditionally divided; the Occident and the Orient.

Last August Palestine came near to being the Serajevo of another titanic world conflict. Here is the dark side of the picture.

The Arab has resented the Jew's pre-eminence in Palestine. Ten million Moslems hem in the Holy Land. Three hundred million other Moslems await the call. Should the call come, in quick succession the Arab in Egypt, the Arab in Syria, the Mussulman of India, the dark-skinned millions of China, the Tartar half of Russia will rise to wrest world control from the Christian white Occident.

So is the scene laid for the last Armageddon. But the call will never come. In the last few months Zion has seen a new light, and the link to bind the East and the West, so long sought, so always despaired of, may be found in the Jewish ability to bring peace to strife torn Palestine.

Zionism today is under a new leadership; its attitude is entirely different from that of the sixteenth Zionist Congress at Zurich. At its last London conference Zionism resolved to eschew all political activities in Palestine and to concentrate on the development of the land, constructively, economically and culturally. It renounced any "domination of Jews by Arabs as well as of Arabs by Jews."

Be it remembered that the quarrel of the Arabs was not originally with the Jews, but with the Christians. In the stress of the World War the British promised the Arabs an independent government in Asia Minor if they would assist the Allies to drive the Turks out of the Holy Land. The Arabs accepted the offer in good faith. Mainly through their co-operation Gen. Allenby was able to lead his victorious army into Jerusalem.

What bad blood developed between the Jews and the Arabs was due to the broken promises of the British government. Except for the acts of some chauvinists from Poland the Jews in Palestine have done nothing to aggravate the Arab majority. The workers have devoted themselves quietly and peacefully to the industrial and agricultural up-building of their newly acquired homeland.

Dr. Weizmann, leader in the new movement, has laid constructive co-operation with their Arab fellow-countrymen in Palestine as the directive policy of the Jewish settlers. This example is bound to have its effect in curbing the fiery nationalism of the Arabs. So it may well be that the Jews will heal the breach between the Occident and the Orient in Palestine, caused by the broken promise of a Christian nation.

Indeed, through the good offices of the new Zionism, plans are already being discussed for the establishment of a joint parliament for administering affairs in Palestine and schemes prepared for bringing about closer relations between Jews and Arabs.

Kipling's dramatic assertion, "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet," was wrong in implication and untrue in fact. East and West have already met in the scattering of the children of Israel to the remotest confines of civilization. By origin and tradition the Jewish race belongs to the Orient; by mixture and amalgamation the Jews have become part of the thought and progress of the Occident.

If a race was predestined to bring to fruition the promise of the Redeemer, that race is the Jewish. They belong at once to no nation and to all nations. They alone through centuries of warfare have advanced to world-wide recognition through the pursuits of peace alone. Suffering intensely throughout the dark ages from injustice and persecution, they have inherited a rooted love for justice and a practical sympathy for all oppressed and misjudged people.

Thus with their eastern birthright and their western attrition the Jews have become the most understanding crusaders in the cause of world peace.

BUILT LIKE AN EGG

The egg is commonly regarded as a very fragile thing, but as a matter of fact it really is very strong. Eggs break because a pressure is applied to one small spot, whereas if the pressure were distributed over the entire shell it would resist to a much greater degree. This principle was used in the construction of the Coolidge Dam so that the upside of the dam presents the appearance of three great eggs. These "domes" are of reinforced concrete, twenty-five feet thick at the top, and because of the shape it is stated that the dam will hold back a greater volume of water than those of the ordinary construction. Another notable feature is that the power plant which will generate electricity for the vicinity, is built under the dam and as part of it.

For Relief of Grape Growers

FOWLER (Cal.) June 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Everybody concedes that times would be better in California if the grape and raisin markets could be stabilized and we of the raisin district, who have suffered from the effect of eight lean and disastrous low-price years, are earnestly and sincerely hoping that the Teague Grape and Raisin Industry Stabilization and Surplus Control Plan will become a reality.

If growers generally could be assured of the sympathetic, whole-hearted and practical co-operation of mortgage-holders and creditors, as well as others directly and indirectly in contact with them and their industry, it would be such an inspiration to these debt-ridden, worried people that they would quickly "Follow the bellwether into the fold."

Why cannot financing specialists of the Farm Board devise a coupon-participating system so that allied and sympathetic interests could accept negotiable orders from growers in payment of legal debts, the coupon holder to absorb the gain or loss between those prices and the actual final returns of the pool?

Would License Bootleggers

ARROYO GRANDE (Cal.) June 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I think that there is a better way out of this liquor question than that of discussing it. My idea is this: Let the government place good (?) bootleggers in control of the sale of intoxicants and charge them a good large percentage of their profits, thus making the government as a wholesale "bootlegger" to those it employs. Place eight or ten bootleggers in every ordinary county. In big cities employ them in same proportion as to population. Make it a penal offense for them to sell to a minor or to anyone who buys for a minor or to an intoxicated person—one who is a habitual drunk.

Thus controlled the "bootlegger" would look after his own interests and thus prevent an overproduction of bootleggers.

The government would make a good thing out of it financially, thus reducing taxes. The temptation being out of the way of our youths would make drys out of them—and in time make us all dry.

It's Always the Taxpayer!

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Two items in The Times this morning will be relished by the weary taxpayer. The one says that on motion of Supervisor Shaw and on request of the Hollywood Bowl Association the Board of Supervisors will appropriate $7500 this year to pay the advertising bills of the Hollywood Bowl. If the wealthy patrons of art of Los Angeles cannot finance this, why throw the burden on taxpayers all over the county? By what logic of governmental activities is this a function of the county? This is not a county institution. If those who patronize Hollywood Bowl, and there are scores of thousands of them, cannot pay for their own music they should go without it.

The second item says that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is asking the Board of Supervisors for $10,000 to entertain American Legion delegates to the Legion convention here in 1931 or to bring the convention here. Now, why should I as a county taxpayer be arbitrarily forced to help pay such an expenditure? President Austin, in attempting to justify the expenditure, says that the convention will mean $6,000,000 in business to commercial interests of Los Angeles. Then why, in the name of reason, could not these big-hearted business men afford to make up a purse of $10,000 out of these $6,000,000 profits?

It is time our Supervisors get some starch in their backbones and say "no" to these influential and wealthy "moochers" of public funds.

A COUNTY TAXPAYER.

WHERE CAN I LEARN
Woodwork?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

One student in the San Fernando Evening High School woodshop has made three floor lamps in three weeks. The school is at Brand Boulevard and Second street, San Fernando, and the class meets on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 7 to 9 p.m. People of all ages may enter at any time during June, to use the machinery or to receive instruction in the making of furniture. There is no charge of any kind.

One of the most popular kinds of work in this class is the remodeling of tables, chairs and other articles, making the outlines more modern and giving the remodeled piece of furniture a fresh coat of varnish, enamel or stain, according to the student's taste. In this shop it is possible to replace broken parts in a few hours or evenings and an experienced contractor and builder, A. L. Keener, is always at hand to give instruction or advice concerning the practicability of any project.

RIPPLING RHYME
by Walt Mason

THE INVALIDS

"I feel so sorry for myself that I could weep," said Jasper Jake; "the bottles standing on that shelf are full of drugs that I must take. Each is more bitter than the rest, and none of them will stop the pain that racks my brow and rends my chest so which will drive me, yet, insane." I called at Jasper's humble coop to try to bring him some relief, and bore a pannikin of soup boiled down from marrow bones of beef. No words of comfort would he hear, no prophesies of better days; he knew 'twould be at least a year before his ailments went their ways. He had a list of all his ills, a catalogue of woe and grief, and denounced the wholesome pill the doctor left for his relief. As for my porringer of soup, he wouldn't pour it in his face; such liquids were not worth a whoop for one who was in his case. Though I felt sorry for this man, as from his cottage I withdrew, I thought it was a piker's plan to raise his dismal howdydo. And then I called on Gaffer Spry, who suffers from a hundred ills; I took to him a custard pie, and gladness wreathed his pallid gills. I flung the pie upon the floor, and cried: "Well, Gaffer, how dye stack up? How are those spavins I depicted? How are the bunions on your back? Do gouty agonies still whiz along your pale and wasted tyred toes? How is your well-known rheumatiz? How is the boil upon your nose?" "I'm feeling fine," was his reply. "I still have friends who think of me, and one will bring a custard pie, and one a stein of honest tea. He is a caitiff who complains, who greets a cobber with a groan; there are about five million pains that I am sure I've never known. There are about five million aches that never yet have racked my bones, and some of those I've had were fakes, so I would class with Sunny Jims."

YOUNG PARDONS LIFE TERMERS

Two Convicted of Murder of Druggist Freed

Executive Holds Evidence in Trial Prejudiced

Hoyne Backs Pardon Board in Asking Mercy

Gov. Young yesterday granted pardons to Mike Garvey, Harvey Fisher and Pitt Ruhan, Los Angeles youths, for the crimes of murder and burglary of which they were convicted in the murder of A. R. Fellows, druggist, in his drug store on Jefferson street, November 1, when Mr. Fellows had been attacked in a robbery of his store. The youths were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Investigations carried on after the trial and conviction of the trio provided facts upon which the pardon board and others decided an injustice had been done. These inquiries did away the testimony of the state's witnesses, Eddie Yates, a fifteen-year-old boy, who asserted he had seen the three youths enter the store on the night of the murder, and Robert Walton, who said Leshner had confessed the crime to him.

BOY POSITIVE

Young Yates testified that he had seen the three fellow Miles toward the back room of the store and afterward leave the store hurriedly and ride away. However, the report of the pardon board to the Governor set forth a conclusion, based upon the testimony of witnesses described as reputable, that the boy was at a picture show from soon after 7 p.m. on the night of the murder. The crime was committed between 7:30 p.m. and 9:35 p.m.

R. E. W. Yates, a dentist living in the vicinity of the murder, the father of Eddie, on the other hand, testified, the Governor relates, that the boy is telling a straightforward story, though he believes it possible that he may be in error. As for Walton's testimony, the Governor reports that December 28, 1931, about a year after the trial, Walton made an affidavit that all of his testimony respecting Lesher's confession was false and that no such confession has been made to him.

KEYES ADDS VOICE

The Governor quotes from a letter of former Dist.-Atty. Keyes stating that the then prosecutor has carefully reviewed this case and says that "in my opinion these men were wrongfully convicted and are not guilty of this crime."

Fred Chandler, who was the trial judge in the case, wrote to the Governor on the 14th inst., recommending pardons.

W.C.T.U. Wife Divorces Mate as Wine Seller

Despite her embarrassment, Mrs. Mary J. Fiedler testified yesterday that she, a Women's Christian Temperance Union member, had to go to a home where, she said, her husband, Fred M. Fiedler, made and sold wine. Superior Judge Gould granted her a decree of divorce.

"Your buyers called at our home at all hours of the day and night," said Mrs. Fiedler. "For the last three years my husband made wine and sold it."

A. E. Walthal corroborated her testimony.

Military School Awards Made

Four awards for the year were given at the Black-Foxe Military Institute graduation exercises in the school auditorium yesterday, with the commencement address given by Brig. Gen. McCrorarty.

The Freeman Achievement Medal, presented annually by C. E. Freeman of Hollywood, went to Cadet William Warner. Cadets Charles Chamberlin and Patrick Hughes received the commandant's medals for military efficiency, which were awarded by Capt. Irvin W. Hale to Cadets Robert Bradley, Marshall Green and Sidney McLaglen.

The commandant's medals, awarded by Maj. Harry H. Gaver for the highest ranking in academic scholarship, went to Robert Schneider, Alexander Ney and Parke Smith, Jr.

CHIEF SUSPECTS' TRIAL WAITS ON WITNESSES

Because of two defense witnesses who caused Municipal Judge Dudley S. Gould to continue the trial of seven accused Communists until 10 a.m. next Tuesday, the defendants charged with parading without permits and resisting officers as a result of a recent Communistic demonstration. The witnesses sought by the defense are Mayor Cryer and Carl Sklar, convicted Imperial Valley fire criminal. The continuance was granted after it was announced that efforts to locate the witnesses had failed.

In 1919 Gen. Feland commanded the Second Brigade, U.S.M.C., in Santo Domingo, and in 1927 led the same troops in the occupation of Nicaragua.

ATTORNEY'S SENTENCING POSTPONED

Grossman Granted Delay Pending Hearing Tuesday on Edward Brand's Case

Pending a habeas corpus hearing in Superior Judge Wood's court Tuesday regarding the case of Edward Brand, attorney, fined $300 for contempt of court, Municipal Judge Bogue yesterday deferred sentencing J. Grossman, another attorney, on the same charge until Wednesday.

Brand was ordered to pay a $300 fine or serve thirty days in the County Jail after he had filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Bogue during the trial Thursday of Ben Gerson on a liquor-possession charge.

When the affidavit was presented Judge Bogue set it aside and ordered the trial to proceed. Gerson was convicted and sentenced to ninety days in jail. The court then levied the fine on Brand for contempt.

Attorney Grossman asked for a delay of his sentence, which was granted.

In taking up the habeas corpus matter with the Superior Court Brand contends that Judge Bogue no longer had jurisdiction in the case after the affidavit of prejudice was filed and could take no action whatever until qualified judges had acted upon the prejudice affidavits and decided whether there were sufficient cause to transfer the trial to another court.

Counterfeiting Charge Causes Arrest of Pair

The asserted making of counterfeit coins led to the arrest of Curtis Boyle, 29 years of age, and Alvin Gilbert, 18, it was revealed yesterday in the filing of a complaint against the pair before United States Commissioner Head. Police and W. W. Ashe, chief of secret service agents for the Treasury Department, arrested the two in an apartment in the Wilshire district. They are charged with possession of plaster of paris molds for $1 coins and a number of asserted counterfeit coins.

Boyle and Gilbert were arraigned before Commissioner Head, who fixed bail for Boyle at $2500 and remanded him to the County Jail in lieu thereof. Gilbert furnished bail of $500 and was released pending a hearing next week.

WIFE DIVORCES RANCHER

A wealthy girl friend supported her instead of her husband doing so, Mrs. Antoinette P. Rude yesterday told Superior Judge Yankwich, trying her suit for divorce from Clark L. Rude. The Rudes were married August 29, 1918, and separated May 1, 1929. The wife charged desertion. Judge Yankwich granted a decree to Mrs. Rude, and ordered Rude, a San Bernardino rancher, to pay $50 for the support of the child.

SEA YIELDS UP THREE MORE BODIES OF AMECO VICTIMS

By a Times Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 20.—Three more bodies of victims of last Tuesday's tragic sinking of the steamer Ameco were recovered from the waters of Santa Monica bay today, Santa Monica police identified them as Charles Johnson, 18 years of age, an inmate of the 1932 Grand Canyon; Richard Conlan, 21, of Forty-fifth street, Los Angeles, and Robert Buchen, about 25, of Eagle street, Los Angeles. Other articles of clothing, faded and torn from two weeks of drifting in the water, made the identification of Conley and Buchen were found shortly before noon by the county patrol boat Cobra, about a mile at sea and five miles north of Santa Monica. They were taken, respectively, to the Todd & Leslie and the Mendenhall funeral establishments here. Ellingboe's body, found first, also shortly before noon, was picked up by Capt. George MacMillan of the launch Harold O, floating a short distance north of the municipal pier. It was taken to the Wilshire Funeral Home.

Ten bodies from the disaster now have been recovered, leaving three still missing. The latter are believed to be C. K. Lake, 325 West Cypress street, Glendale; Sam Suyemori, 503 East First street, Los Angeles, and J. K. Kamimura, 7403½ Hawthorne street, Hollywood.

BEACH SURVEY WILL BE ASKED

Santa Monica Bay Groins to Cause Official Action

State Seeks to Put Ban on Little Breakwaters

Conference Agrees to Hold Up New Construction

City, county and State engineers, co-operating with engineers representing private interests, will be asked to make a survey of Santa Monica Bay beach lands to establish definitely the mean high tide line and to work out some method of solving the problem of obstruction of public beach lands by groins or breakwaters, Atty.-Gen. Webb announced yesterday.

The announcement was made by Atty.-Gen. Webb following a conference with Daniel Beecher, chief trial deputy for Dist.-Atty. Fitts, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Becker, Deputy County Counsel McFadden, County Surveyor Rockhold, K. T. Corson, engineer for the county recreation department; Deputy City Attorney McLouchlin, and attorneys representing landowners along the west coast of Santa Monica Bay.

The authorities contend that construction of the breakwaters on privately owned beach lands raises a barrier in places so high that it is impossible for a person to walk along the beach below the mean high-tide line—which is State property and open to the public at all times.

It was agreed that no more groins will be constructed until the present controversy is settled.

The small breakwaters have been constructed in numerous places up and down the beach, extending out into the water for several hundred feet. Their purpose is to catch sand washed up by the waves and build up a sandy beach in places which formerly were useless because of the rocky formation.

DILATORY WIVES GET TIP FROM TESTIMONY

Dilatory wives who keep husbands waiting when they are going out can find a lesson in the testimony given yesterday by Mrs. May T. De Acosta in her suit for divorce from Francisco De Acosta, on trial before Superior Judge Henderson. She said that when she was late in getting ready to go out De Acosta slapped her. She asks half of $17,000 worth of community property.

FOX PICKS STORY FOR WAYNE

Universal Buys "Dracula;" May Star Bela Lugosi in It; Alice D. G. Miller Writes Joan Crawford's Next; Warners Will Produce "One Hour of Love"

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Fox, having signed John Wayne, ex-property boy, on a long-term contract, that organization is trying to find for him the best vehicles obtainable.

JOHN WAYNE

As reported in this column yesterday, Wayne has been assigned to the leading role in two pictures, the first of which will be called "Wyoming Wonder." Yesterday afternoon still another picture story was decided on for the actor. It is called "No Favors Asked," and is from the novel of the same name by Paul Leicester Ford. It revolves about the old tale of "The Great Train Robbery."

Dixie Lee was chosen as leading lady for Wayne, and Alfred Werker will direct. Other important players in the cast will be Warren Hymer, "Red" Corcoran and Noel Francis.

Wayne is a product of Glendale High School and the University of Southern California. As heretofore related, he attracted the attention of Raoul Walsh while he was acting as prop man at Fox studios. He was chosen for the role of Breck Coleman in "The Big Trail."

UNIVERSAL SECURES MYSTERY THRILLER

It was a foregone conclusion that "Dracula" would come to the screen.

TOD BROWNING

Now it turns out that Universal has purchased the rights to the Bram Stoker mystery play, and will make it as one of its most important specials for the coming year.

We hear that it is entirely likely that Bela Lugosi, who played the leading role on the stage, at the Biltmore, will have the same part, and one cannot imagine anyone else doing it so well as he.

Tod Browning, whose expert hand guided all the sinister plays in which Lon Chaney appeared for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is to direct "Dracula."

ALICE D. G. MILLER ENGAGED BY M.-G.-M.

Evidently Irving Thalberg finds the original story the ideal method of providing vehicles for Joan Crawford. At any rate he yesterday signed Alice D. G. Miller, who has been responsible for a number of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer successes, to create Miss Crawford's next play. The locale will be Long Island, Paris and Palm Beach. It is likely that Nick Grinde will direct the Crawford vehicle.

ALICE D.G. MILLER

Miss Miller, who was with Louis B. Mayer and Irving Thalberg, almost at the start of their merger with Metro and Goldwyn, recently finished a year's contract with Famous Players-Lasky, and her first picture on her return to the home lot will be under the direct supervision of Lawrence Weingarten, whose "Good News" production, by the way, is receiving praise.

Warners Buy Love Story

"Just an Hour of Love" does sound like about as hectic a title as ever adorned a billboard.

But that is the title of an original story just purchased by Warner Brothers. Charles Kenyon is writing the adaptation, and Roy Del Ruth is scheduled to direct.

So far no cast has been selected, although it is intimated at the studio that Grant Withers may play the hero.

Irene Rich Repeats

Once more admirers of lovely Irene Rich are to have a chance to see her in a former success, this time in a talking version.

IRENE RICH

First National has signed Miss Rich to appear in "Boy of Mine," a former starring vehicle in which she distinguished herself when pictures were silent.

Little Ben Alexander, who played the title role in the picture, is little Ben no longer, and so a substitute had to be found, and that clever youngster, Leon Janney, is to have the role.

William Beaudine, who directed the former version, will direct and Hope Loring, who wrote the original story, will write the talking version.

Don Alvarado in Two

That clever young actor, Don Alvarado, is coming back into his own with a bang in these days of talking pictures.

Young Alvarado has been signed to play the juvenile lead in "The Gay Caballero," which Warner Brothers are producing, and he also will play the lead in the Spanish version.

Milton Douglas also has an important role and Bert Roach will play the featured comedy part.

George Nash In Film

There is a strong likelihood, we learn, that George Nash, who did such an excellent job in portraying the Chinese comedy character of Charlie Young in "East Is West," will also play the same role in Universal's audible picturization of the play.

The melodrama was written by Sam Shipman and John B. Hymer, and now Winifred E. Reeve is having a finger in the pie, as she has been assigned to write the continuity, working with Shipman on the adaptation.

Aileen Carlyle In Accident

Aileen Carlyle, who has just completed a featured comedy role in "Broken Dishes," met with a slight accident Thursday when the car in which she was riding to Lake Arrowhead skidded on the narrow road and bumped into a wayside tree, tossing Miss Carlyle, who was driving, against the wheel.

Passing motorists aided her in righting her car, and after a short rest, she resumed her way to the mountain resort.

Betty Compson In Old Home

SYMBOLISM REACHES HEIGHTS IN FILM

Sergei Eisenstein Reveals Old Skill in Direction of "Old and New"

BY ELENA BOLAND

A technique remote and powerful is the possession of Sergei Eisenstein, the Russian film master. Story plays no part in his theory; and through his eye, men and things become as symbols.

Last night at the Filmarte his latest release, "Old and New," related in a strong sweep of scene the triumph of intelligence over ignorance among the Russian peasantry. As is Eisenstein's custom, he reaches first for the soul of his subject. He finds it here in the earth. Out of man and machinery grows his conflict, and his struggle is fought on a universal scale.

Whether or not Eisenstein's method is one which has appeal for the American public is a point yet to be proved. His pictures so far have been done in a style appreciated by an intellectual minority. He cares not for surfaces, which form the extent of most entertainment, but probes beyond into the elemental sources of his drama. He has no characters, but types which stand not for personalities but for splendid, moving visions of human emotions. It is understood that Eisenstein seldom uses those who are known as "actors," preferring to employ the unspoiled spontaneity of the masses.

It is this feeling of symbolism, so strong in all his work, which enables him to take even the lowest plane of reality and, without a single false touch, lift it into the world of drama and universality. In "The Old and the New" he has not pictured one isolated village rebelling through despair against the manual means of self-existence until the power of machinery is made its savior, but he has told the story of all Russia.

As a symbol of the unity which must be his country's before progress can be felt, Eisenstein has used one individual character, a Martha Lapkina, who through the utter barreness of her want leads young Russia to revolt and to self-liberation. Fighting the ignorance and greed of her fellow-townspeople, she bands them into a community and forces them by continued dominance into the enlightenment of modernism.

Visually, this film, which in its present form is considerably cut, is a thing of beauty and often splendor. The camera work is magnificent; the subtlety of angles and the whole landscape of it mount in a gradual crescendo to the final clash, the breaking of the old order by the new.

SCORE FACE CHARGE BY GRAND JURY

Federal Inquisitorial Body Acts in Tariff, Dry and Alien Cases

In twelve indictments returned yesterday by the Federal grand jury twenty-two persons were charged with various offenses against the government. Otho W. Arnold, former teller of the Pico and Bronson branch of the Citizens' National Trust and Savings Bank, was accused of defrauding that bank out of about $5000. Arnold has been at liberty on bail of $2500. The grand jury, however, fixed his ba at $3000.

Hugh G. McClemmy, who recently served a term at McNeil Federal prison, was indicted with three others on a charge of conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act by the asserted operation of a large number of stills near San Diego. The other defendants named are Henry N. Denkhaus, Effie M. Denkhaus and H. Argol Denkhaus.

Other indictments included charges for violation of the Tariff Act, the Immigration Act and the prohibition act.

DIRECTOR SCORES

Once again Leo McCarey is reported to reveal his thorough understanding of what constitutes good comedy on the screen. His Paramount picture, "Let's Go Native," which he directed previous to becoming associated with the Fox organization, is said to be exceedingly humorous.

"SHOW GIRL" GLIMPSES FILMLAND

McAvoy Story Adaptation and Opera Short on View at Warner's Hollywood

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

From backstage stories to inside-the-studio stories—so goes merrily the progression of the motion picture. In a trice, as it were, "Show Girl in Hollywood" forsakes the footlight surroundings and gives a glimpse into the talkie workshop.

This production from the J. P. McEvoy story, humorously contrived, with Alice White in the central role and Jack Mulhall and Blanche Sweet importantly cast, is being screened at Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater. Mervyn Le Roy directed from the adaptation by Harvey Thew and James A. Starr.

There are song and dance scenes in this feature, though they are incidental, and there is a color sequence to finish off the film. Costumes are lavish enough.

The real entertainment, for the knowing ones, is, however, the sketching of what goes on in story conferences and other preliminaries to the making of a movie, for which studioland has often been jibed.

Most amusing is that sequence where the heroine's chance to "break in" at the picture studio quavers in the balance, and one minute she is wiring for money to go home, and the next she is telling her "boy friend" in the East that all is well. His puzzlement over the contrary reports received from the girl is the meed for laughter, thanks in part to the Mulhall portrayal.

"Show Girl in Hollywood" is the story of a couple of stage folk who find themselves out of a job in New York, because their show flopped. One is the writer of the show, the other the girl who understudied the stellar role.

A supposedly prominent picture director on the lookout for talent sees the girl at a night club and much against the wishes of her sweetheart induces her to set out to the Far West. The director's interest is personal rather than professional. The girl finds no encouragement for a career when she arrives at the Hollywood studio.

How she later gets her chance before the camera and then goes Hollywood, thanks to the advice of the director friend, who only is endeavoring to stir up trouble for the company that had fired him, is related in subsequent reels.

Needless to say, it is the most superficial of stories that is told, and lacks the full sparkle of the original, but it does enable Miss White to be pert and humorous in her portrayal, and yields Blanche Sweet an excellent opportunity to give both a dramatic and sympathetic impersonation of the director's much-neglected wife, once a star. Miss White sings a very pleasing number in the movie production that she makes, dances and speaks a number of snappily bright lines. Miss Sweet also sings or rather talks a song. She is excellent in the dramatic scenes.

Ford Sterling as a motion-picture producer is brilliantly good. John Miljan appears as the philandering film director. The scenes at the studio, the radio-announcing of a show on a preview night are colorful in their incident, and doubtless will enhance the interest of the film.

A humorous short picture with Harry J. Conley that is really humorous, and an operatic subject with Giovanni Martinelli featured, are on the program. This operatic subject represents the scene between Rhadames and Amneris toward the close of the opera "Aida," with Ina Bourskaya cast as Amneris. Both singers make a splendid impression. Martinelli is becoming an unquestioned favorite with the film audiences in his series of appearances in these opera shorts.

PLAYS ENTERTAIN AT THEATER MART

"It Happened in Dixie" Given Best Rating; Others Also Please

BY KATHERINE T. VON BLON

Four entertaining and capriciously patterned playlets contribute a fillip to the jaded palate at Theater Mart.

Easily the best of the evening's entertainment was reached in that intensely dramatic piece, an episodic bit of the old South, "It Happened in Dixie," from the facile pen of Mrs. R. D. Shepherd. Into it all the simple charm, humanity and intrinsic habit of an earlier day were woven with dextrous theatrical gesture. A situation fraught with emotion, with a sharply staccato movement toward high tragedy, arrives at its climax with a rhythmic crescendo, compelling in effect.

Celeste Grunn as the girl carried the leading part with charm and a certain direct quality which appealed. She is vivid and gave vital account of herself. Loretta De Lone was amusing as the mammy. Len Mabry as Jeff and Don Brody as Dick acquitted themselves with a fine bravado in the southern manner, minus, however, the desired southern accent.

A bit of inner Chinese life couched in that fragrant, poetical imagery characteristic of the oriental manner, "Moonlight on the Willow Well," by Pauline Curran, proved charming, adventuring along rarely trodden ways. When a new wife, tender as a young apricot blossom, is introduced into "Court of the Well of Heaven," an unsuspected complication arises. Indeed, the "Staircase of Heaven" is won at last in tragic fashion by the sweet love adventuring of this same tender blossom. As Lady Lotus Budd, Shizu Okajima managed an implication of oriental loveliness. Georgia Marian Hild gave excellent characterization as Lady Tang Min, first wife. Ah Lu, the young lover, was poetically conceived by De Witt Bodeen. The settings by Francis Hickson were exotic to a degree.

"Love a la Mode," by John Hendell, effervesced with properly modern spirit and carried neatly contrived repartee and a number of attractive youthful would-be sophisticates into fresh pastures. At times the rhythm dropped and some cutting would make this playlet really delightful light entertainment. Marjorie Warfield was winsome and dainty as the adventurous wife and Violet La Plante was pleasingly competent as the lovelorn young lady. Louis Bond and John Manning added much to the comedy.

"BACK PAY" EFFECTIVE IN PURPOSE

Quiet and Romantic Tale Reveals Beauty and Charm of Corinne Griffith

BY E. B.

From a story by Fannie Hurst comes successive incidents which follow the straight and narrow path of picture routine, straying only at the end, when they choose to be different by remaining unhappy.

"Back Pay" opened yesterday at Warners' Downtown Theater, its purpose being to present Corinne Griffith doing again all those things she is expected to do. Once more she rises from shop girl to a woman of wealth, though rather uncertain position, to hide always behind a becoming contentment a restless and hungry heart. In it she adds no new laurels to her crown, nor, on the other hand, does she especially fall her public. Opportunity, or lack of it, is the explanation for the middle and unexciting road she travels.

The plot which Miss Hurst sketched and William A. Seiter has reproduced revolves around three separate locales. The opening scene shows one of those country idyls through which the loyal members of Finkel's Department Store flit on their annual picnic. Romance flowers beneath a spreading oak as Miss Griffith and Grant Withers wonder about the wisdom of getting married. It seems right, then again it doesn't, the trouble being that Miss Griffith, probably against her will, was born with a soul above her station. The things she wants are not to be had in a country town, so the first train out that evening has her name on the passenger list.

Four years and all the struggles fortunately lapse. Miss Griffith is seen to have improved her station, though she hasn't satisfied her soul. Clothes, money and the willing slavery of Montagu Love fail to compensate her for the boy she left behind. The war seems to have been going on all this time so the place shifts to the scene of action where Mr. Withers appears to be carrying on the battle with no assistance. He is blinded and returns home.

This latter portion is the least acceptable of any, dropping as it does into obvious sentimentalism. As much out of pity as love, Miss Griffith and Mr. Withers are wed, the understanding being he has but two weeks to live. For a moment one expects some miracle of movie surgery to effect his recovery, but when the signing of the Armistice arrives, he lingers on no longer.

Perhaps because the lines call for golden hair, Withers appears in a striking light. This difference in hair shading drops a mantle of adolescence over him which does not exactly coincide with the manliness that is his part to portray. In every way, et that, his chances are slight. Throughout the first half he must wait hopelessly for Corinne and the latter half has him invalided.

There are others who contribute to the unclimactic interest of the film. Montagu Love plays a rather neglected role with understanding and a finished touch. Hallam Cooley and Vivian Oakland also make themselves remembered.

A list of short subjects includes Eddie Lambert in "The Body Slam," Lew Fields in "23 Skiddo" and a Technicolor feature which is titled "South Sea Pearl," and presents Gaston Glass as a really convincing Frenchman.

COMICS IN FILM

The noted team of radio funsters, Amos 'n Andy, are to make their screen debut an auspicious one, judging from present indications. Melville Brown is to direct the two comics.

Varied Forms of Dress Seen at Late Shows

In the matter of dress, unique audiences are being assembled at Sid Grauman's ultramodern midnight matinees of "Hell's Angels," the fifth of which will be staged tonight at the Chinese Theater.

Almost every accepted type of conventional and informal garb is to be seen at the late-hour performances. Coming from formal dinner parties, women in evening gowns and men in full-dress suits are numbered in every audience, while the less conventional form of informal dinner gowns and tuxedos is displayed by visitors who have attended night clubs.

Providing a decided contrast are members of outing and auto tour parties who appear in golf knickers and even khaki, and a large part of the audience always is composed of night workers in business attire. Frequently film stars and stage folk in make-up and stage costumes unobtrusively slip into their seats.

Duffy Players Enact "Crime" at President

The President Theater is offering the play, "Crime," a crook story enacted by the Henry Duffy Players.

The play has been given a realistic setting and the cast has been hand-picked, it is said. The story is by Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer.

Kenneth Daigneau heads the cast; others are Flora Bramley, Leonard Strong, Jerome Sheldon, Arthur Wellington, Marie Meyers, Francis Bolger, George Henry Trader, Ralf Belmont, William Abram and Ben Taggart.

PICTURE PLANNED

Glenn Tryon has completed another feature production for Universal, in which he is starred. Tryon, it is understood, will make one more appearance for the Carl Laemmle organization before the expiration of his contract in July.

"DAMP ROT" CAUGHT BY FILM LENS

"White Cargo" in Screen Form Depicts Menace of Africa

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

"White Cargo," shipped recently from the British Isles, was delivered yesterday to the California Theater, where between now and next Friday you may, as the saying goes, get a load of it. One of the erstwhile stage sensations marked "verboten" by the Will Hays office, at least insofar as its production here was concerned, it was promptly pounced upon and filmised by our cousins across the sea. Now, a faithful enough replica of the original—but no sensation—it may be given at least a fairly clean bill of lading.

It is all there—the "damp rot" which "gets everything. Compromise with it. Don't fight it." The intolerable heat of the African sun. The talk about getting acclimatized. The talk about "mammy palaver." And Tondeleyo. Like the "damp rot."

All there; a detailed close-up of the stage piece, which, however much it was frowned upon as an intrinsically trashy potboiler, did vibrate to a certain gusty, earthy power. There has been nothing like it in the talkies since "The Letter," and although that film was superior to this, they possess in common a constricting atmosphere and a tempo as unvaryingly solemn as a dead march in the jungle from which both sprang.

"White Cargo" grows to be something of a strain, unrelieved as it is by anything resembling humor, even the carousals of drunken sailors contributing to the general depression. There is too much, also, of the men who come before and after Langford, the principal young Englishman of the story. One has had more than a sufficiency of "damp rot" by the time Langford, babbling horribly from his stretcher, is hoisted aboard ship as "white cargo." But the picture goes on, its fidelity to footlight convention evidently forbidding any deviation to the bitter end.

Leslie Faber stands head and shoulders above the rest of the players in his delineation of Weston, the veteran superintendent who has seen them come and go, though even he is not wholly innocent of what photographs surprisingly like overacting at times. Humberstone Wright is good as the missionary, and Sebastian Smith as the doctor. Langford is played somewhat hamfily by Maurice Evans, and Tondeleyo, whoops, by Gypsy Rhouma.

Camera work is often too glaring, and the recording uneven. The film is obviously studio-made, but all in all represents an improvement over most of the importations that have been exhibited locally. I should mention, too, the American influence. It manifests itself in a theme song entitled "Tondeleyo, I Love You."

The shorter subjects—"The Voice of Vaudeville," and "at the Photographer's" are below standard. A Pathe News, and an organ recital by Abbey Krause complete the bill.

Talking Screen May Claim Star of Stage Play

Talking pictures are about to claim another New York stage personality.

Katherine Wilson, brought from Broadway to enact the featured role in "Decency," which terminates its Mayan Theater engagement today, will not return east immediately as intended, but will probably remain in California long enough to appear in at least one picture.

Miss Wilson admitted that she was considering one of the several film offers made her while appearing in the Mayan play, and intimated that she would probably sign a contract with one of the major producing organizations within the next few days.

The actress is known as one of Broadway's youngest and most popular emotional stars. She has been featured in more than a dozen New York productions, among them, "An American Tragedy."

RECOVERS HEALTH

California's climate has worked wonders with Bradley King, prominent scenarist. Miss King has almost completely recovered from a severe cold wheih for a time threatened to develop into pneumonia, and instead of going for a rest to her Adirondacks home, she now plans to remain in Hollywood.

Thousands of articles have been written on the cause and cure of different disorders, and many articles have appeared on various food subjects, and the relation of food to health. Readers who have just begun to read this health column are frequently disappointed because they do not see an article written upon the subject in which they are the most interested. I try to cover all health subjects which will be of general interest as, of course, a long time may elapse after I have written an article on some particular subject before I prepare another article on a similar subject. I therefore occasionally publish a list of articles which have been already mimeographed for distribution to my readers. You are entitled to these articles as part of the services which this column is offering to readers.

The following lists of articles are now available for distribution, and you are invited to send for one or more of these articles. Send for the whole list if you like. Just cut out today's article and make a pencil mark at the side of each article you desire and they will be sent to you by return mail. Please inclose a large self-addressed envelope, and also inclose a 2-cent stamp for each article desired. This takes care of the postage and helps to pay for the preparation of the articles.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, THERE'S MORE IN THE LITTLE ONE!

TAKE this big package of soap bubbles in your left hand. Take this smaller package of White King in your right. Which is the heavier? . . . Well, you see how it is!

The answer is that White King's granulated and condensed form permits it to pack closer in the carton, like powdered sugar. So you really get more soap from the smaller package.

White King Granulated Soap is economical for another reason. A little goes so far! A teaspoonful in a basin of water for fine lingerie—a cupful for the washing machine. And it's absolutely pure—if water won't hurt it, White King won't. At your grocer's.

Grape Juice for Health

Physicians Recommend It

A Brain-Sharpener. Pure grape juice, served as a breakfast fruit, is so perfectly adapted to the human system that its rich fruit nourishment and mineral salts are taken into the blood stream without digestive effort—quick, new vigor to meet the awaiting problems of the day!

Non-Fattening. Pure grape juice deserves a prominent place on every reducing diet—first, because it supplies the kind of nourishment the body needs; secondly, because it is non-fattening. Its mildly laxative qualities keep one feeling fit and fine.

A Delightful Refreshment. For more than 60 years Welch's Grape Juice—the pure juice of luscious Concords—has proved a delightfully refreshing beverage for millions of people. 8 liberal portions to the pint make it the most temptingly delicious 5c drink in America. Many prefer it diluted with one-third water. Insist on Welch's—pure, unadulterated.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

HOW YOU CAN CHECK BABY'S DEVELOPMENT

It is taken for granted that we are all sensible persons. We say with every degree of plausibility, "I don't care how my baby compares with any other baby, just so he is well!" but we really don't mean it. We want our baby to be one whose exploits can be talked about modestly—"Yes, the little rascal held his head up at three weeks and we couldn't keep him down after he was 5 months old. He'd rather sit up than eat."

Who blames the mother? If we didn't take pride in our children and their actions we mothers would be deprived of our most interesting topic of conversation.

So for purposes of comparison and as a check on the "little rascals," here is a list of what the well, healthy, normal baby can do from the time he begins "doing" until he is 1 year old. He doesn't need to be taught these activities for they are the result of growth and development.

FIRST MONTH

Even this early the baby is capable of many and varied movements. He can stick out his tongue, wrinkle his eyes and forehead, turn his face from side to side, wave his hands about, clench his fists, bend knees and spread out his big toe when bottom of foot is touched, cry, yawn, sneeze, stretch and hiccough. These are all natural reflexes to appropriate stimuli. Before the end of the month baby probably will smile, hang to a finger or bar with such strength that he may be lifted from the bed and will listen when he hears singing and whistling.

SECOND MONTH

Baby may still cross his eyes at times, but can focus them. Grows wildly excited and flutters hands and arms when interested. Listens to distant sounds as if intent on placing them.

THIRD MONTH

Can hold head erect, knows familiar faces, will touch and rub objects. Eyes are now co-ordinated. Will reach for objects. Easily diverted.

FOURTH MONTH

Turns his head toward sounds, in right direction. Can hold objects in his hand, and makes awkward efforts to reach for things. Can shake a rattle.

FIFTH MONTH

Feels hands, feet and face. Is interested in his own body.

SIXTH MONTH

Should be able to sit without support. Can now reach for and grasp an object. Laughs, plays, shows emotion of anger or pleasure, is timid with strangers, looks at his face in mirror, loves his bath, puts everything, including his feet, into his mouth. Can clasp objects with his bare feet. Can no longer hang by his hands.

NINTH TO TWELFTH MONTHS

Creeps about in some fashion. Makes stepping movements when feet are put on floor. Can crumple paper, bang toys, pat hands and use toys in many ways. Begins imitation of simple movements. When object falls, he looks after it. From 9 to 12 months he may learn to pull up to a support and learn to walk. Has about five words in vocabulary at 1 year.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

On the Picnic

One hostess who was catering for a large number of picnickers packed the lunch in individual berry boxes which were placed in a large basket with glazed paper between. Each box was lined first with a paper napkin and on top was a sprig of green hedge to make them attractive, and she was one hostess at a picnic who got something to eat as well as her guests.

Bathing at Home

If you are unable to go away for the summer, get out the hose on these hot days and put the youngster in his bathing suit and give him a shower. You will find all his friends will join in the cooling-off process and you will soon establish a bathing hour that will give the kiddies lots of enjoyment.

Light-Colored Hats

A sprinkling of French chalk or Fuller's earth over the delicately shaded felt hats before putting them away after wearing will do wonders toward keeping them clean all summer. Brush well first to remove dust and then apply the chalk. Brush off before wearing.

Do It Now!

Do not wait for Mister Moth to get in his work on your winter coat just by carelessly keeping it in the closet. Send it away now to be cleaned and when it comes back pack it away without fear of further trouble.

Further Use

If you are going to discard the straw hat cut out the top and bind it with tape, for use as a table mat for hot dishes or under flower receptacles.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

SPAGHETTI WITH SWEETBREADS AND MUSHROOMS

One-half pound of spaghetti, one-half pound of sweetbreads, one large can of mushrooms, one-fourth of a cupful of butter, one tablespoonful of flour, one-half cupful of milk. Use the long spaghetti and slide it carefully into a pan of boiling water without breaking it, allow to boil until tender, then drain. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a sauce pan, add the spaghetti, season with salt and pepper to taste, and place the spaghetti in a well-buttered mold. Clean the sweetbreads, cover them with boiling water to which has been added a slice of onion, a spray of parsley, and a stalk of celery, allow to cook until tender, cut in cubes, place in a sauce pan the one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add the flour, and cook until slightly brown, then add the milk and the mushrooms, which have been cut in small pieces, add the sweetbreads to this, turn out the spaghetti on a hot plate, and pour the mixture over it.

GRAPE FRAPPE

Four cupfuls of water, two cupfuls of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of lemon juice, two cupfuls of grape juice, two-thirds of a cupful of orange juice, the whites of two eggs. Make a syrup of the water and sugar, cooking it for fifteen minutes, remove from the fire, add the grape juice, lemon, and orange juice. Cool, strain the mixture, and add the well beaten whites of the two eggs, freeze to a mush and serve in glasses.

FRESH FRUIT KUCHEN

Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, and cream into a little at a time, one-half cupful of sugar, add the unbeaten whites of one egg and beat well. Sift one cupful of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, and add to the mixture alternately with one-fourth of a cupful of milk, mix well, and flavor with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Spread a very thin layer of this batter in an oiled and floured pan, and place over it two cupfuls of any kind of fresh fruit. Sprinkle the fruit with a little sugar, and one-fourth of a cupful of chopped nut meats. Bake in a moderate oven from fifteen to twenty minutes. Serve with whipped cream or a thin custard sauce.

CINNAMON TOAST WITH WALNUTS

Three tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, three slices of bread, two tablespoonfuls of chopped walnuts. Cream the butter, add the sugar and cinnamon, cut stale bread in one-fourth-inch slices. Remove the crusts, and cut in three pieces cross-wise, toast on one side, spread the untoasted side with the butter mixture and sprinkle with finely chopped walnut meats, place in a moderate oven until the sugar melts, and serve at once.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.— (All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

Limp Rugs

Sometimes we are unfortunate enough to send our rugs to the wrong person to clean and they come back limp and wrinkled. If this has happened to yours place the rug wrong-side up on the floor. Pull it into shape and size and tack it down at intervals. Dissolve in a double boiler one-fourth pound of flake glue and one-half gallon of water. Sprinkle the solution liberally over the back of the rug, but being careful not to let it be too liberal on a light-weight rug, that it goes through. Allow the rug to remain so until perfectly dry, about twenty-four hours. It will bring back its "body" beautifully.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

A Bedtime Story

—Peter Rabbit.

PETER HAS HIS TURN

Peter Rabbit didn't know whether to be angry or to laugh. At first he felt angry. Yes, sir, Peter felt angry. You know, there are very few who can laugh at jokes on themselves. The joke really was on Peter and he knew it. He had spent a lot of time hunting for Jerry Muskrat's new house and all the time he had been looking for the wrong kind of a house. Then he had been told that he was sitting on the roof of that new house, when all the time he was sitting on the bank of the Smiling Pool, where he had sat many times. Of course, he hadn't believed that he was sitting on the roof of a house. He hadn't believed it and had said so, and now it had turned out that after all he had been sitting on the roof of Jerry's house. You see, Jerry's new house was in the ground. It was in the bank of the Smiling Pool, with the entrance under water, and it was exactly under where Peter had been sitting.

Peter wisely decided not to be angry. He presently saw how funny it all was and he began to chuckle. Redwing the Blackbird chuckled with him. It was Redwing who had finally explained the joke to Peter. Finally Peter looked up at Redwing. "I suspect that Jerry Muskrat is laughing at me right now," said Peter. "I know I would be laughing if I were in his place. But I am going to get even with Jerry and then it will be my turn to laugh!"

"How are you going to get even?" Redwing asked.

"Watch me!" replied Peter. "Just you watch me and you'll see how I'm going to get even."

Now Peter knew that in all probability Jerry Muskrat's bedroom was up quite near the surface. He knew that there must be a long hall from the water leading up and that a little way under the sod must be Jerry's very comfortable bedroom. So Peter hopped back a little way and suddenly he thumped the ground with his stout hint feet. He thumped as only Peter can thump. Then he hopped on a step or two and thumped again. He hopped off to one side and then to the other side. Each time he thumped. He thumped and he thumped hard all around where he thought the roof of Jerry's home might be. Finally, he hopped over to the edge of the bank and looked down into the Smiling Pool. Jerry Muskrat was just starting to climb up the bank and it was plain to see that Jerry was in a bad temper. Peter chuckled.

"I won't," replied Peter, good-naturedly

"Hello, Jerry!" said he, pretending to be surprised. "Where did you come from?"

"So it was you!" snarled Jerry, for he was still very angry. "So it was you pounding on the roof of my house! I might have known it. I'll teach you not to try that trick again!"

"I was thumping, if that's what you mean," said Peter. "I often thump. How was I to know I was on the roof of your house?"

"I told you you were on the roof of my house when I saw you last," retorted Jerry.

"True enough," replied Peter. "I remember now. But you didn't explain what you meant. I have thumped on this bank many times and there was no house here then. Don't you think we are even, Jerry?"

Jerry Muskrat started an angry reply, but changed his mind and finally grinned. "I had a lot of fun with you and now you've had a lot of fun with me. So I guess we are even. Be a good fellow and don't thump on my roof again."

"I won't," replied Peter good-naturedly.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

VAST BUILDING PLAN OUTLINED

Pasadena Junior College to be Great Institution

Twenty-Year Program Told at Joint Commencement

Throng of 50,000 Witnesses Night Pageant in Bowl

PASADENA, June 20.—Announcement of a twenty-year building program at the Pasadena Junior College which will make possible the development of an institution capable of offering finest educational opportunities to 5000 students, was announced at the "Dreams of Youth" pageant in the Rose Bowl here tonight, when 1013 junior college and John Muir Technical High School graduates received their diplomas at commencement exercises. Approximately 50,000 persons witnessed the program, held for the first time here at night, under the new lighting system.

By 1950, the physical aspect of the junior college campus will be changed entirely and the acres of now unused space will be occupied by new structures, erected according to a far-seeing plan, Superintendent of Schools John A. Sexson announced in a pageant-program message.

MANY STRUCTURES PLANNED

Among the new buildings and changes contemplated will be a Student Union building and concert hall, a Greek theater, two new swimming pools, an astronomy building, a new science building and additional athletic fields.

The land west of the present group of buildings will be utilized for the new library and music hall. Both buildings will face Colorado street, but will be set back from the thoroughfare so that their facades will be flush with the present Jane Addams building. Immediately back of the library and music halls will be placed the Greek theater.

Between the Greek Theater and the Horace Mann building, will be placed the Student Union structure. It will include a large ballroom, men's and women's lounges, and dining-rooms.

The swimming pool in the rear of the Horace Mann building will be removed and in its place will be installed a sunken garden. To the left, where the cramped music hall now stands, a large and modern science building, to supplement the Louis Agassi building, will be erected. The abandoned swimming pool will be replaced by two new pools, one for the women, directly south of their gymnasium, and the other for the men just west of Horrell Field.

"DREAMS OF YOUTH" SEEN

"Dreams of Youth," the pageant which formed the feature of the Rose Bowl commencement exercises, was the most spectacular since inception of the outdoor exercises nine years ago. Following episodes depicting youth's progress toward life success, the diplomas were found in the pots of gold.

Invocation was pronounced by Dr. George B. Cliff, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church. Rufus Mead, principal of the John Muir Technical High School, then presented the school's graduating class. John W. Harbeson, principal, presented the junior college candidates. Supt. Sexson addressed both classes and students were greeted by Carl Z. Jackson, president of the Board of Education.

Chupene-Fest Record Broken

SANTA BARBARA, June 20.—Harbor Master George W. Gourley established what is believed to be an all-time, long-time chupene-eating record and Victor Langner of the Yacht and Motor Sales Company and Commodore W. P. Butcher of the Santa Barbara Yacht Club, came in for close second and third the other night.

The "chupene," a fish stew with potatoes and onions, was "built up," as they call preparing it, by Mrs. Langner. The harbor master is credited by the host with extending his fish-consuming faculties over a period of three hours, rounding nine courses of the delectable sea food.

POLICE CHIEF HEADS BEACH SERVICE CLUB

R. R. Hodgkinson

NEWPORT BEACH, June 20.—Officers of the Newport Harbor Exchange Club were elected yesterday at the regular meeting held at the Newport Harbor Yacht Club. R. R. Hodgkinson, Chief of Police here, was elected president to succeed Dr. G. M. Grundy; Steve Smith and Frank Smith, brothers, of Balboa, were elected first and second vice-president, respectively; Dr. F. C. Ferry was renamed treasurer, and G. C. Macleod, secretary of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, was re-elected secretary of the Exchange Club.

Directors elected include besides the officers, Irvin George Gordon, A. J. Garfield, Dr. G. M. Grundy, J. P. Greeley, H. D. Hyde, A. M. Hamman and L. L. Isbell.

Commencement at Loma Linda to Be Sunday

LOMA LINDA, June 20.—Commencement exercises of the College of Medical Evangelists here will begin tomorrow afternoon, when the baccalaureate services are held.

The baccalaureate will be given at Bovard Auditorium, the University of Southern California, at 10 a.m. tomorrow with Frederick Griggs, representing the far-eastern division of the Seventh Day Adventists, as the speaker.

Commencement exercises will be held in the outdoor theater here Sunday at 6:30 p.m. The address will be by Carlyle B. Haynes of the South American division.

The same students attending the Los Angeles baccalaureate service will come to Loma Linda for graduation. There will be sixty-eight fifth-year students, who have been interned in various hospitals, given their degrees, the registrar believes. There are seventy-seven seniors expecting diplomas and twenty-two are expected to receive their graduation certificates from the dietitians' school.

Students in the College of Medical Evangelists study at Loma Linda during their first two years. They spend their junior and senior years at the White Memorial Hospital, Los Angeles, then serve as internes in various hospitals during their fifth year.

Judge Warmer to Run Again

ONTARIO, June 20.—Announcement made today by Superior Judge B. F. Warmer, for nineteen years a resident here, that he has filed his nomination petition for re-election to the Superior Court bench of San Bernardino county, was received with interest, as he is popular throughout the county. His excellent record on the bench has won him wide acclaim and his work in juvenile cases has been patterned by other courts.

Judge Warmer has served on the Superior Court bench since May 4, 1922, when he was appointed by former Gov. Stephens to succeed former Judge Rex B. Goodcell, who resigned to accept a Federal appointment as collector of internal revenue.

In the same year Judge Warmer was elected to his first six-year term which ends this year. Judge Warmer's platform is the simple announcement that he is a candidate on the strength of his past record on the bench.

LIGHTING ELECTION SET

Yucaipa Will Vote July 19 on Proposed Forming of District to Finance City Illumination

YUCAIPA, June 20.—An election will be held here July 19, for the purpose of deciding whether a lighting district is to be formed. Formal order setting the date and accepting the petition of twenty-five taxpayers of the proposed district has been made by the Supervisors. The voting place will be the D. M. Holsinger Hardware Store. The election board consists of Mrs. J. G. Fritts, Mrs. T. J. McDonald and Mrs. R. H. Arnett.

In the event the election results in a favorable vote, the Board of Supervisors may order the installation of a system of lighting, the type and location of lights to be determined by the committee or ex-officio members of the lighting district board appointed by the Supervisors.

In order to determine the type of lighting and the location of the lights desired, the committee above referred to is calling a public meeting, to be held at the Woman's clubhouse next Thursday at 7:30 p. m., to which all residents of the townsite are invited. Representatives of lighting standards and the Edison Company have promised to be present at this meeting and submit figures as to the cost of installation and service, together with the amount of taxes which it will be necessary to collect in order to defray such costs.

Two types of lighting are available—one in which the district installs and maintains the system, and the other where the Edison Company will install and maintain the system. In the first case, the initial cost to the district is larger and service charges smaller than in the second case.

The district to be lighted and which will be taken for the service includes only the townsite, and is bounded by the following streets: Third avenue on the west; Oregon to Fifth and Idaho to Sixth and Montana to Eighth on the north; Fifth avenue from Oregon to Idaho, Sixth avenue from Idaho to Montana, Eighth avenue from Montana to California, and Sixth avenue from California to Wyoming is the eastern boundary; California from Eighth to Sixth, Wyoming from Sixth to Third, is the southern boundary.

GUILT AFFIRMED BY TWO JURIES

Lawrence Rea Held to Have Had Loaded Gun in Jail

Also to Have Attempted to Escape, and As Sane

County Court History Made at San Bernardino

RIVERSIDE, June 20.—County court history was believed made here yesterday as two juries found Lawrence Rea, 24-year-old San Quentin convict, guilty of charges of possession of a loaded revolver in the County Jail and of attempted escape from the Sheriff, and found he was sane when caught with the gun concealed on his person.

Rea faced the two juries for crimes committed since he was brought to the County Jail here in January, charged with staging the bold Pacific Electric ticket office hold-up in 1926, for which he was brought to trial in Superior Judge Freeman's court today. Both of yesterday's trials were held before Judge Freeman and jurors from the regular trial panel.

Rea, shackled with leg irons to prevent his escape, was first found guilty by a jury of attempting to escape from Sheriff Sweeters while being transferred last February between the Courthouse and County Jail. The jury also found him guilty of a former offense—for which he is serving a long penitentiary term now—and this will lengthen his stay at the prison.

NEW JURY IMPANELED

A new jury then was impaneled and the trial of the charge that Rea had concealed on his person a revolver in the County Jail two weeks ago, opened. Rea obtained permission from the court to enter the double plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity. Out but a short time after receiving the case, the jurors found him guilty of the gun charge.

Judge Freeman then called for evidence supporting the plea of not guilty by reason of insanity, and Attorney C. W. Benshoof, public defender, appointed by the court, announced he had no evidence to present. Judge Freeman at once ordered a directed verdict, holding that Rea was sane at the time of the commission of the offense. The jury delivered the "sane" verdict within a few moments.

Rea denied everything in the two trials. He even denied he was ever sentenced to San Quentin, although he is serving a long term there for hold-up and robbery in Los Angeles. Conviction yesterday brands him as a repeater and a conviction on the robbery charge today would class him as a "three-timer," subject to more than twelve years of prison life before being eligible for parole.

SHERIFF AS WITNESS

Sheriff Sweeters was the principal witness in the State's case against the young convict on the escape charge. The Sheriff related how, as he was escorting Rea back to jail from a questioning in the District Attorney's office, the prisoner suddenly tripped him and knocked him to the pavement, seriously cutting his head. Rea darted for the street, but slipped on the grass of the parkway.

Sweeters gained his feet and seized the fleeing prisoner. They were scuffling when Earl Redwine, chief deputy prosecutor, in charge of the cases yesterday, and P. E. Pyah, special Pacific Electric agent, rushed from the Courthouse and aided in subduing Rea.

Ventura High School Class in Graduation

VENTURA, June 20. — Dr. W. S. Ford of the school of education at the University of Southern California, was the speaker last night as seventy-seven Ventura High School graduates received their diplomas from President M. L. Brazil of the board of trustees.

A feature of the program was the fact that two members of the board of trustees presented diplomas to their children. Brazil gave a diploma to his daughter, Margaret A. Brazil, and Mrs. Fred Mercer turned over a sheepskin to her son, Henry Howard Neel, with announcement that just thirty-one years before, her father had given her her high school diploma.

JAIL REVOLUTIONARY "IN AGAIN"

Ace Benjamin Mendibles Beats Up Woman, Soaks Cop on Jaw, Escapes Bullets; Captured, Drenches Four Officers and Sets Fire in Hoosegow

PASADENA, June 20.—Handcuffed and bound, Ace Benjamin Mendibles—two weeks ago the solitary hero of the City Jail's "one-man revolution"—again today was an inmate of the local hoosegow. Mendibles opened another chapter in his exuberant history very early today, when he is asserted to have beaten a woman, hit one policeman in the jaw, escaped from an arresting officer amid a hail of bullets, drenched four others in water and set fire to his mattress in the big, iron bastile.

Arrested first on a technical charge of reckless driving, Mendibles will be arraigned in Justice Court tomorrow morning on felony counts of driving while intoxicated and destroying jail property, and possibly other charges, officers stated.

Mendibles's arrest was the culmination of a chase which had been started when L. H. La Rue, a night watchman, investigated the occupants of a machine which bumped a curb on Prospect Boulevard. He reported Mendibles had "fighting" an unidentified woman, a portion of whose clothing had been torn off. Mendibles is reported to have ignored the arrest order and to have driven away.

La Rue jumped to the running board and a fight ensued. Ultimately, the woman turned the ignition key, and escaped as the car stopped. Meanwhile, the men staged a battle royal. Mendibles, who is more than 6 feet tall and weighs more than 200 pounds, held the officer at bay until he started his car again.

Fighting with one arm, the unruly giant drove till the car left the road and knocked over two trees. Seizing his chance, Mendibles drove a crushing blow to the officer's jaw. As the car raced away, La Rue fired two shots, which hit the rear fender and license plate. Other officers captured Mendibles when he was traveling at an asserted speed of sixty miles an hour.

But the story is not told. Once in the police station, he seized Patrolman Hamilton, ju-jitsu expert, by the throat, but was thrown. Locked in the drunk tank, he hurled the jail dishes through the door. Five gallons of water from a pail greeted officers who entered the cell to place him in solitary confinement.

Quiet reigned for only a moment after Mendibles's hands had been tied behind his back. Smoke began to rise, and the mattress and blanket on his cot were consumed by the fire he had managed to ignite.

Judge Imposes Heavy Fines in Liquor Cases

RIVERSIDE, June 20.—Pleading guilty to charges of possessing apparatus for distilling liquor and a quantity of the contraband, Charles and Paul Mercadante of Reche Canyon yesterday were fined $500 each by Justice of the Peace Garner of Highgrove. Jail terms of 180 and 150 days await the distillers if they default in payment of fines, Judge Garner ruled. Charles Mercadante's fine was slashed $100 by the court because it was his first offense, but the $500 fine imposed upon Paul was not reduced, because the court determined he had been convicted previously of a charge of possession of liquor. The two Italians were arrested as a result of the discovery of a liquor still in Reche Canyon by two San Bernardino County Enforcement League agents.

At first they believed the distillery, concealed in a subterranean room, reached through a trapdoor cleverly covered with brush, was in San Bernardino county, but later found it was over the line in Riverside county. The private liquor law sleuths' part in the discovery and capture of the still drew the ire of Sheriff Sweeters and there was some talk about summoning the two men before the county grand jury.

Sweeters asserted he had had the place under surveillance and was only holding off from a raid to catch the operators red-handed. The distillers were not on the canyon ranch when the officers reached the place, but were picked up later.

JAIL LODGER FOUND WITH DEPUTY BADGE

SANTA BARBARA, June 20.—A Los Angeles county deputy sheriff's badge was seized last night by Sergt. Jack Sowell when he found it among the effects of Robert Thayler, 26 years of age, who applied at police headquarters for lodging in the City Jail. The badge was pinned inside Thayler's pocketbook. He told Sergt. Sowell that he picked it up on a street in Los Angeles. The badge is No. 1808. The Los Angeles Sheriff's office, when informed by telephone of the find, said that the badge was issued February 6, 1922, as a special badge to S. Stone, and had not been revoked or turned in, according to their records.

HUGE STORAGE DAM PROPOSED

Basin of 130,000,000-Gallon Capacity Estimated

Ventura County Ranchers Backing Project

Lake and Bathing Resort on Poplin Creek Planned

VENTURA, June 20.—Erection of a $50,000 concrete storage dam on Poplin Creek to provide a thirty-acre lake for irrigation and recreation purposes, is planned by a group of ranch owners in that section.

This was learned today from W. S. Dunshee, prominent rancher, and E. E. Everett, engineer for the project, following decision of the Ventura City Council Monday to protest against their application to withdraw 400 acre-feet of unappropriated water during the flood season.

"The dam will not be a detriment to Ventura," Dunshee declared. "The only water taken will be that which would flow into the ocean, and much of it, being used for irrigation, will percolate back into the stream."

The dam is planned at a site on Poplin Creek on Dunshee's ranch. It will back up a thirty-acre lake which will lie for the greater part on property of A. E. Selby. Its capacity will be 400 acre feet, or almost 130,000,000 gallons.

It will stretch 260 feet across a narrow part of the canyon and will be sixty feet high at the loftiest point. The cost is estimated at from $48,000 to $50,000, according to Dunshee. If unforeseen difficulties are encountered it may mount higher, Everett, the engineer, said.

Construction will be of the multiple arch type, one of the cheapest and safest modes of dam construction, according to Everett.

Bedrock at the site is said to be close to the surface, and one entire wall of the canyon is a rock cliff, which combine to lessen the cost of consfruction greatly, according to Dunshee.

Water will be backed up into a rolling, wooded area suitable for an attractive bathing and boating resort, Dunshee said.

Surveyors Run Line for New Aqueduct Route

BRAWLEY, June 20.—A surveying crew is now in the field running lines for the proposed aqueduct through which San Diego expects to secure 100,000 gallons of Colorado River water daily from the Imperial irrigation system, according to the announcement of H. N. Savage, city hydraulic engineer. The tentative route now being surveyed would connect with the Imperial system near Kane Springs. A pipe line would carry the water through a pass in the Laguna Mountains to a reservoir on the western slope. Cost of the pipe line is estimated at $2,900,000.

The supply of Colorado River water with that available from other sources will provide San Diego with a supply sufficient for a population of 2,000,000 people, Savage said.

The work here was started after engineers had declared that it would be more feasible for San Diego to secure its supply of water from the Colorado by way of Imperial Valley than to connect with the Metropolitan Water District.

San Diego Gets Strip of Land at Bargain

SAN DIEGO, June 20. — By insistent bargaining the city of San Diego finally has acquired title to the strip of land covered by the Old Town bridge across the San Diego River and to a triangular piece at the south approach to the bridge, for $50, according to a telegram from Congressman Phil Swing, received by Mayor Harry C. Clark today.

Council developments revealed that when the present bridge was located, following the flood of 1916, a site was chosen irrespective of ownership and the bridge built. Afterward government engineers learned that the bridge occupied government land, and that the south approach was on the government dike. The city never was disturbed by the government, however. A short time ago city authorities were approached for a lease of land adjoining the south approach for a hot dog and fruit stand.

Councilman Louis C. Maire is opposed to unsightly stands along highways and he fought this application. Discussion led to the discovery that the city does not own the piece of ground in question. Maire then suggested that the city buy it.

Negotiations were begun and various prices were suggested. A price of $500 was asked by the War Department officials. Maire opposed this, saying the strip was worth no more than $50. Mayor Clark then corresponded with Congressman Swing, informing him that the city would give no more than $50.

The circumstances were almost forgotten until this morning when the Mayor received the telegram, saying the War Department authorized the transfer for $50. The money is to be paid to the district engineer in Los Angeles.

Car Balks, Then Crashes Window

HUNTINGTON PARK, June 20. When David L. Smock of 8133 Gardenview street, South Gate, attempted to start his automobile, while it was parked in front of the Barnett Bootery on South Pacific Boulevard, the "critter" refused to move. So he got out of the machine and gave it a push and it got in motion. The machine went over the curbing and entered the lobby of the bootery, stopping only when it crashed into the large plate-glass windows in the south side of the lobby entrance to the establishment.

Mrs. Smock was in the machine at the time, and she escaped injury with the exception of a painful bump on the left hand.

Mr. Smock stated that the starter pedal stuck, that he put the car in gear and then gave it a push, and when it released, the car started over the curb and into the store front.

The plate glass in the store front was insured, it is stated.

MICHELSON OPTIMIST ON LIGHT TEST

Scientist Declares Much Work to be Done Yet in Measuring Velocity

SANTA ANA, June 20. (Exclusive)—After inspection of a mile-long vacuum tube on the Irvine ranch near here today, Dr. Albert A. Michelson, noted physicist, was optimistic for the success of his scientific investigation toward establishing the speed of light.

Some minor preliminary observations have been made, Dr. Michelson said, but they are far from sufficient to base any calculations, and it may be even years before scientific data are compiled sufficiently for announcement.

The tube, of galvanized corrugated iron — on mile long and three feet in diameter — was constructed in at approximate cost of $40,000. Dr. Michelson is assisted in the scientific undertaking by Dr. Francis Pease, astronomer of Mt. Wilson Observatory staff, and Fred Pearson, his assistant in former experiments conducted between the peaks of Mt. Wilson and Mt. Baldy.

Within the vacuum Dr. Michelson suspects that the "shimmer" of light waves will be eliminated as they flash from a mirror rotating 500 revolutions a second and pass back and forth in the tube ten times before returning to the mirror there to be caught and measured by mathematical calculation. The speed of light as now known is 186,285 miles a second.

RADIO ENGINEER HAS SORRY LOT

All Blame at Station Centers on Air Mechanic

Whatever Goes Wrong Held to be His Fault

Shoe Manufacturers' Chief to Talk Over KHJ

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m. Peggy Hamilton, fashion expert, and James Russel Loyal, tenor.

Judge Dudley S. Valentine on "Traffic" at 12:30 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

While scattering wreaths along radio's highway, a tribute or two to the "engineers of the air" will not be amiss—the poor wranglers of dials and tubes—the radio operators.

Everyone from the janitor to the elevator operator passes the buck for poor radio broadcast to the air mechanic. White-collared announcers dash into the "engine room" denouncing the one man who is always busy. Artists rush into the ether engine-room demanding de-luxe dialing.

When the postman goes on a vacation he often takes a hike, but the radio operator—you can't drag him to a set. The poor fellow may get his reward in a future existence, but his life on this sphere will ever be made miserable by neurotic announcers, impetuous artists and executives who fancy every "knot in the air line" must have been tied by the radio operator.

The boys really need a break—and so the tribute.

BANK WEARIED OF WAITING

Court Says Holding Check for Months Absolves N.S.F. Charges

When the receiver of a check fails to present it at the bank for several months he cannot prosecute the maker of the check if he discovers that there no longer is sufficient funds on deposit, Municipal Judge Ballard ruled yesterday.

The ruling was made in the case of George W. Perry, 38 years of age, who was accused on six counts with issuing checks without sufficient funds.

Testimony was introduced to prove that sufficient money was on deposit at the time the checks were written to cover all obligations, and that the receiver of the checks failed to cash them "within a reasonable length of time." It also was shown that the checks since had been paid.

Judge Ballard dismissed the charges.

ENGINEER SEES GAS DWINDLING

Two Years Set as Limit for Los Angeles Field

City to Go Far Afield for Natural Product

Fact Brought Out in Quiz on Utility Profits

Predictions that Los Angeles will have to go far afield for its natural gas supply within two years were made yesterday at a hearing before State Railroad Commissioner Carr in an investigation by the commission into the gas rates, rules and practices of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. The inquiry was ordered to determine whether or not the corporation is earning more than a legal rate of return on its capital investment.

Rouse Simmons, consulting petroleum engineer for the public utility, forecast a scarcity of gas in the Los Angeles basin after a detailed analysis of gas production in the ten settled fields of the basin. The testimony was offered in connection with data on company expenses, such as develop in construction of transmission lines.

OF SAME TENOR

Attorney Herman Phleger, also appearing for the gas company, said that the testimony bore upon the asserted necessity of maintaining expensive gas manufacturing facilities in Los Angeles. Kettleman Hills was mentioned as the district from which Los Angeles may be obliged to obtain its future gas supply.

Engineer Simmons summarized his conclusions from an analysis of the gas-production situation in the Los Angeles basin as follows:

"First, since early in 1928, the three active fields of the Los Angeles basin—Santa Fe Springs, Signal Hill and Seal Beach—have been predominating factors in the area's natural gas production. The large yield of these three fields has been due entirely to rapid development under competitive drilling conditions of newly dissovered deeper oil zones. At this date these zones have been almost completely developed and a rapid decline in gas yield in the immediate future is inevitable. It is not anticipated that present gas and oil conservation efforts will have more than a temporary effect in postponing this decline;

FIELDS DECLINING

"Second, the ten settled fields of the basin, considered as a group, have shown a steady decline for the past three years and it is estimated that this decline will continue during the next two years at the rate shown.

"Third, the total available gas production of the Los Angeles basin fields will not exceed 321,217,000 cubic feet per day in January, 1931, and will have declined to 151,000,000 cubic feet per day by January, 1932."

The witness commented that in his opinion the distributing utility companies are justified at this date in planning future operations to conform with the estimates presented.

In connection with the presentation of Simmons's estimates, attention was directed to the peak demand by consumers served by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation on January 11, 1930, of 475,000,000 cubic feet. Officials of the company expressed the belief that demands will show a considerable increase in the next two years.

A. V. Guillou, assistant Railroad Commission engineer, testified briefly in the morning, completing testimony begun Thursday. Roy A. Wehe, assistant commission engineer, took the stand to testify as to overhead charges of the company.

The hearing will be resumed Tuesday.

Two Wives Held One Too Many

A strange woman represented herself as the wife, Mrs. Josephine Andrews testified yesterday in the trial of her suit for divorce from Terrell Andrews before Superior Judge Cabaniss. Mrs. Andrews related that her husband had induced her to set aside a divorce action she had begun against him, and that she telephoned Andrews's home to discuss a reconciliation.

"When I called up, a woman said Mr. Andrews was not in but that she was his wife," testified Mrs. Andrews.

WIFE TREATED LIKE CLOCK

Woman Divorced on Story of Mate Choking Her for Awakening Him

Angered when awakened in the morning, John L. Anderson choked his wife, Mrs. Beulah A. Anderson testified yesterday. Superior Judge Mahon granted her a decree of divorce.

"He didn't want to get up when I called him to go to work," said Mrs. Anderson. "Finally he got up and was so angry that he threw me down on a couch and choked me."

Her husband also shot an automatic pistol at her, the bullet missing by a few inches, Mrs. Anderson added, on examination by Attorney C. C. Trott.

TORTURE CHARGED IN ROW OVER HEIRESS TO $50,000

Cruel treatment, ranging from torture by electric spark machines to confinement in a strait-jacket, was described in Superior Judge Crail's court yesterday at the hearing to determine the custody of Anna Winckihofer, heiress to a $50,000 estate in New Jersey, who is mentally incompetent and under the guardianship of her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Kahn.

Another sister, Mrs. Louisa Nichol of 4662 Maplewood street, is opposing a petition to have Mrs. Kahn appointed guardian of Anna, because of ill treatment the unfortunate sister is asserted to have suffered at Mrs. Kahn's hands. Mrs. Nichol asks to be named the guardian instead.

When Charles Kinckihofer died at the Soldiers' Home in Sawtelle last January he left most of his estate to his daughter Anna in a will dated in 1921, before she lost her mind. Immediately Mrs. Nichol applied for letters testamentary to the estate and was appointed administrator. Later, Mrs. Kahn had the appointment of Mrs. Nichol set aside and was appointed executrix of the will.

Then Mrs. Nichol made assertions of cruel treatment in an affidavit, and yesterday had witnesses in court to tell how Anna suffered.

Emily Jackson of 5052 Mt. Royal Drive, one of the nurses who cared for the patient, told how she was always complaining that she had to sign papers.

Another nurse, Miss Alice Rose, told of a trip to a South Pasadena "electric doctor," who used a "sparking machine," on the patient and shouted at her, "I demand that the evil spirits leave your body!"

"When Miss Winckihofer came out of the office she was trembling all over and her body was covered with red burns," said Miss Rose.

Then Mrs. Persilla Randolph, attorney for Mrs. Nichol, produced a strait-jacket and had Nurse Rose fasten it on her to demonstrate to Judge Crail how painful is confinement in the canvas garment, the long sleeves of which were tied behind the patient's body.

Attorney W. W. Leavitt, for Mrs. Kahn, said he had been taken by surprise by the evidence introduced by the other side, and Judge Crail gave him a week to prepare his defense.
